To Marge's family, I am honored to have known her and worked for her for 13 years. She hired me in the county and it was one of the best jobs I ever had. I told Marge often she was my hero in every way, a class act, and a privilege to be near. Thanks for all the laughs and the wicked wit. Trevor and I will never forget caring for your dogs and hanging out on the deck. May you be peaceful and pain free.

Many condolences on the family's loss! ... My success is due in part to her care during my wilder, younger days when I was ignorant or in denial of my diagnosis/medication and its affect on my family and others which I loved. She really stuck to her guns. We need more women like that.

If memory serves me, the first time I met Margie was in first grade, Mrs. Bassett's class. I know we were classmates for most, if not all of elementary, junior high and high school. Although it has been many years since I last saw and talked to her, it has not diminished the loss I am feeling for someone who was a good friend. Please know that my prayers and condolences are with all of you.

Marge was a tireless advocate for mental health in our community. She leaves behind a legacy of compassion, determination, and grace under pressure. She was generous and good-humored, loved her coffee and cool specs. Her absence will be sorely missed not just for the job she performed but for the person she was. We should all honor her memory by picking up the fight where she left off, sadly, way too soon...

To Marge's family, I worked with Marge for several years many years ago in the mental health field, not as a colleague but as a consumer/family advocate. I found her passionate about her work, bright and dedicated, wise and level-headed, nobody's fool and yet concerned about the welfare of others. I knew she was troubled with RA, but she kept on pushing ahead despite it. While we all will miss her, no one can replace her.

To the family of Marge,

Marge was quite honestly the nicest customer I ever had the pleasure of meeting in my shop. She loved her Costa Rican coffee so much I often told her I was going to rename it "Costa Rican Marge" in her honor. She spoke often of her family and delighted in sharing tales of her beloved Andrew and Scarlett. I will certainly miss her visits and offer my deepest condolences to you all.

A wise and valued colleague, a lover of dogs and defender of underdogs, a barefoot contessa who loved strong coffee and luscious desserts, a Boccelli fan who shared early morning music and a wicked sense of humor, someone I am blessed to have had as a friend and one of the bravest women I have ever known. She will be in my heart always. My deepest condolences to her family.
