Notes

George Harvey Gore was referred to as one of those two rascalions by Price Gore. He and Stonewall Jackson Gore were very young (14 and 17) when their parents passed away within six months of each other. After the passing of their parents, they built a cabin down by the creek. They lived off the land, hunting and fishing for survival until they were 18 or 19 years old. They were not good citizens of the county. They were known for their drinking and gambling. They had bad reputations. George Harvey died young.
