

Major-Gen. G. Anson, commanding a brigade of cavalry; Col. Hinde, Col. the Hon. William Ponsonby, commanding Major-Gen. Le Marchant's brigade, after the fall of that officer; to Major-Gen. William Anson, commanding a brigade in the 4th division; Major-Gen. Pringle, commanding a brigade in the 5th division, and the division after Lieut.-Gen. Leith was wounded; Brigadier-Gen. Bradford; Brigadier-Gen. Spry, Col. Stubbs, and Brigadier-Gen. Power of the Portuguese service; likewise to Lieut. Col. Campbell, of the 14th, commanding a brigade in the 3d division; Lieut.-Col. Williams, of the 60th foot; Lieut.-Col. Wallace, of the 88th, commanding a brigade in the 3d division; Lieut.-Col. Ellis, of the 23d, commanding Gen. the Hon. Edward Pakenham's brigade in the 4th division, during his absence in the command of the 3d division; the Hon. Lieut.-Col. Grenville, of the 38th regiment, commanding Major-Gen. Hay's brigade in the 5th division, during his absence on leave; Brigadier-Gen. Pack; Brigadier-Gen. the Conde de Rezendi, of the Portuguese Service; Col. Douglas, of the 8th Portuguese regiment; Lieut.-Col. the Conde de Ficalho, of the same regiment; and Lieut.-Col. Bingham, of the 53d regiment; likewise to Brigadier-Gen. D'Urban, and Lieut.-Col. Hervey, of the 14th Light Dragoons; Col. Lord Edward Somerset, commanding the 4th Dragoons; and Lieut.-Col. the Hon. Frederick Ponsonby, commanding the 12th Light Dragoons.

I must also mention Lieut.-Col. Woodford, commanding the light battalion of the brigade of Guards, who, supported by two companies of the Fusileers, under the command of Capt. Crowder, maintained the village of Aripiles against all the efforts of the enemy, previous to the attack upon their position by our troops.

In a case in which the conduct of all has been conspicuously good, I regret that the necessary limits of a dispatch prevents me from drawing your Lordship's notice to the conduct of a larger number of individuals; but I can assure your Lordship, that there was no officers of Corps engaged in this action, who did not perform his duty by his Sovereign and his Country.

The Royal and German Artillery, under Lieut.-Col. Framingham, distinguished themselves by the accuracy of their fire, wherever it was possible to use them; and they advanced to the attack of the enemy's position with the same gallantry as the other troops.

I am particularly indebted to Lieut.-Col. De Lancy, the Deputy Quarter-Master-General, the head of the department present in the absence of the Quarter-Master-General, and to the officers in that department, and of the Staff Corps, for the assistance I received from them; particularly the Hon. Lieut. Col. Dundas, and Lieut.-Col. Sturgeon of the latter, and Major Scovell of the former; and to Lieut.-Col. Waters, at present at the head-quarters, and to the officers of that department, as well as at head-quarters, as with the several divisions of the army; and Lieut.-Col. Lord Fitzroy Somerset, and the officers of my personal staff. Among the latter I particularly request your Lordship to draw the attention of his Royal Highness the Prince Regent to his Serene Highness the Hereditary Prince of Orange, whose conduct in the field, as well as upon every other occasion, entitles him to my highest commendation, and has acquired for him the respect and regard of the whole army.

I have had every reason to be satisfied with the conduct of the Mariscal del Campo Don Carlos d'Espagna, and of Brigadier Don Julian Sanchez, and with that of the troops under their command respectively; and with that of the Mariscal del Campo Don Miguel Alava, and of Brigadier Don Joseph O'Lawlor, employed with this army by the Spanish government, from whom, and from the Spanish authorities, and people in general, I received every assistance I could expect.

It is but justice likewise to draw your Lordship's attention, upon this occasion, to the merits of the officers of the civil departments of the army. Notwithstanding the increased distance of our operations from our magazines, and that the country is completely exhausted, we have hitherto wanted nothing, owing to the diligence and attention of the Commissary-General, Mr. Bisset, and the officers of the department under his direction.

I have likewise to mention that by the attention and ability of Dr. Mac Gregor, and of the officers of the department under his charge, our wounded, as well as those of the enemy left in our hands, have been well taken care of; and I hope that many of these valuable men will be saved to the service.

Capt. Lord Clinton will have the honour of laying at the feet of his Royal Highness the Prince Regent, the Eagles and Colours taken from the enemy in this action.—I enclose a return of the killed and wounded.

Olmedo, July 28.

The army have continued their march in pursuit of the enemy since I addressed you on the 24th instant, and we have continued to take many prisoners. A part of the enemy's army crossed the Douro yesterday near Puente de Douro, and the remainder, their left wing, were in march towards the bridge of Tudeja this morning at nine o'clock, when I last heard from our advanced posts.

The main body of the allied army is this day on the Adaja and Zapardiel rivers in this neighbourhood; the light cavalry being in front, in pursuit of the enemy.

It appears that Joseph Bonaparte left Madrid on the 21st, with the Army of the Centre, supposed to consist of from 10 to 12,000 infantry, and from 2 to 3000 cavalry, and he directed his march by the Escorial, upon Alba de Tormes. He arrived at Blasco Sancho, between Avila and Arevalo, on the 25th, where he heard of the defeat of Marshal Marmont, and he retired in the evening, and between that time and the evening of the 26th, he marched through Villa Castin to Espinar. A non-commissioned officer's patrol of the 14th Light Dragoons and the 1st Hussars, from Arevalo, took in Blasco Sancho, on the evening of the 25th, shortly after Joseph Bonaparte had left the place, two officers and 27 men of his own cavalry, who had been left there to follow his rear guard.

I have reason to believe that Joseph Bonaparte had no regular account of the action of the 22d, till he passed the Puerta de Guardarrama yesterday, but he then returned, and was directing his march upon Segovia. I have not yet heard how far he had advanced. All accounts concur with regard to the great loss sustained by the Army of Portugal.

By accounts from Lieut.-Gen. Sir Rowland Hill to the 24th instant, it appears, that the enemy had in some degree reinforced the troops in Estramadura. The Lieut.-Gen. had removed to Zafra.

It is reported, that Gen. Ballasteros had marched on another expedition towards Malaga, and that he was opposed by a division of the Army of the South, under Gen. Labal.

I have not received detailed accounts of Commodore Sir Home Popham's operations on the coast since the capture of Sequeitio, but I understand that he has taken Castro Urdiales.
