The treaty which opened West Tennessee for settlement was signed on 19 Oct 1818, by Isaac Shelby and Andrew Jackson for the president of the United States, Mr. Monroe, and the chiefs and head men for the Chickasaw Indians. Hardeman County, Tennessee was formed in 1823 from Hardin County and Indian lands. It was named in honor of Thomas Jones Hardeman (1788-1854) who was the first county clerk and had served with Andrew Jackson in the War of 1812. Hardeman later moved to Texas and fought for its independence in 1830.

The first county residents came in 1819 and 1820, followed by rapid settlement, primarily from North and South Carolina, Virginia, north Alabama, and Middle Tennessee.

The first town in the county was established in 1823 on the Big Hatchie River, called “Hatchie Town” or just Hatchie. This was the county seat until on 18 Oct 1825, it was changed to Bolivar. Bolivar was named for General Simón Bolívar, leader of several independence movements throughout South America.

During the Civil War/War Between the States, the Battle of Hatchie’s Bridge (AKA Davis Bridge and Mata-mora) occurred in Hardeman County on 5 Oct 1862. Casualties were estimated at 900 (US 500; CS 400).

Letter from the Editor

This last volume for 2007 will be a little shorter than normal, in order to conform to the 200 pages/year standard, and because several of this year’s issues went a little long. This year FFRU passed several milestones. One milestone was having 3,000 pages online and available for free to anyone to download. Another milestone was that I have finally equalled the number of pages that the first editor, Elaine Giddens, published. She published 1,707 pages (Jan 1992 - Oct 1997: 6 years, 23 volumes, plus supplemental materials1). As of Volume 57, the total number of pages that have been published since I became editor is 1,723 (Jan 1999 - May 2007: 7 1/2 years, 28 volumes).

I hope your research has been making progress and that your successes in 2008 will bring you joy.

1. Supplemental materials produced by Elaine and Johnnye include the Pedigree Volume, Charter Issue, and the Andrea Papers.

First Generation

1.) Benjamin Franklin was born 16 Jan 1788 in Virginia; died 16 Mar 1856 and was buried in the Franklin Cemetery Hardeman County, Tennessee. His tombstone is inscribed “Dr. Benjamin Franklin.”

Benjamin’s family seems to have spent some time in North Carolina, where their first son, Jesse B. Franklin, was born. From census records, it appears that they moved to Tennessee sometime between 1830 and 1840.

Married Eliza W. _____ (born 1800 or 1797, died 16 July 1835 “Age 38 yrs. 18 das.” Hardeman County, Tennessee) and was buried in the Franklin Cemetery Hardeman County, Tennessee.

4. In 1870, same county, Henson Franklin, page 179.
5. Biographical information indicates that “Uncle Henry” and “Aunt Ruthie” stayed with Samuel D. Pinson after emancipation. Did not find any matching census records in Pontotoc County, Mississippi, for these first names under any surnames. See entry for Mary Jane Franklin.
6. Son of Jesse B. Franklin, Benjamin Franklin was born 28 Aug 1847.

Second Generation

2. Col. Jesse B. Franklin was born 2 May 1825; died 25 Sep 1873 and was buried in the Franklin Cemetery Hardeman County, Tennessee.

   CAVEAT: Care must be exercised when researching the records of this county, because another Jesse Franklin, born in North Carolina, who married a woman named Mary can be found here. This second, unrelated Jesse Franklin is Jesse Hardin Franklin, born 1843 in Surry County, North Carolina, son of Hardin P. Franklin, grandson of Governor Jesse Franklin. From the birth places of their children in the census, it appears that they moved to Hardeman County, Tennessee in about 1861.

He married Mary C. Wilson, on 10 Nov 1845 in Hardeman County, Tennessee. She was born 20 Feb 1828 in Tennessee; died 18 Dec 1905 and was buried in Melrose Cemetery, Hardeman County, Tennessee. Her mother, Mary Wilson, born 1803 in Virginia, was living with the Jesse B.’s family in 1870.

6. Mary Jane Franklin, born 1830 in Tennessee; died about 1854 in Pontotoc County, Mississippi.

From W. P. A. History of Pontotoc County, Mississippi, Chapter VI: Antebellum Days:

Sam Pinson, [Judge Joel Pinson’s] oldest son, was deeded a plantation situated about three miles south of Pontotoc on what is now called the Okolona and Pontotoc Road, where he built what was considered in those days a comfortable residence. It was situated in the heart of the wilderness and the fact of its isolation probably accounted for the designation of “Stony Lonesome” as the name. The house was built in 1849, just three years before Judge Pinson died.

It was to here that Sam Pinson brought the bride, Mary Jane Franklin, of Bolivar, Tennessee. She came to him with money and slaves. A peculiar and interesting facts about the slaves of this family is that when the bride came from Tennessee she brought with her old “Uncle Henry and Aunt Ruthie”, who remained at “Stony Lonesome” until the surrender; even then they refused to leave the plantation.

Mrs. Sam Pinson only lived a few years and left a young son, Bernard, and a daughter, Sallie. Mr. Pinson remained in the home after his wife died, and relatives assisted him in the rearing of his motherless children. He enlisted at once when the War between the States broke out but lived through it and for a few years afterward. At his death the two children inherited his property and the daughter, who became Mrs. Ike Bell, fell heir to this part of the estate.

Mary Jane and Samuel moved to Pontotoc County, Mississippi, where Mary Jane died after having two children.

She was the daughter of James Blount Harriss (born 19 Jan 1810; died 3 Jan 1877; served as Hardeman County sheriff, county court clerk, etc.) and Mary Ann (Robb) Harriss. The treaty which opened West Tennessee for settlement was signed on 19 Oct 1818, by Isaac Shelby and Andrew Jackson for the president of the United States, Mr. Monroe, and the chiefs and head men for the Chickasaw Indians. Hardeman County, Tennessee was formed in 1823 from Hardin County and Indian lands. It was named in honor of Thomas Jones Hardeman (1788-1854) who was the first county clerk and had served with Andrew Jackson in the War of 1812. Hardeman later moved to Texas and fought for its independence in 1830.

The first county residents came in 1819 and 1820, followed by rapid settlement, primarily from North and South Carolina, Virginia, north Alabama, and Middle Tennessee.

The first town in the county was established in 1823 on the Big Hatchie River, called “Hatchie Town” or just Hatchie. This was the county seat until on 18 Oct 1825, it was changed to Bolivar. Bolivar was named for General Simón Bolívar, leader of several independence movements throughout South America.

During the Civil War/War Between the States, the Battle of Hatchie’s Bridge (AKA Davis Bridge and Mata-mora) occurred in Hardeman County on 5 Oct 1862. Casualties were estimated at 900 (US 500; CS 400).

Letter from the Editor

This last volume for 2007 will be a little shorter than normal, in order to conform to the 200 pages/year standard, and because several of this year’s issues went a little long. This year FFRU passed several milestones. One milestone was having 3,000 pages online and available for free to anyone to download. Another milestone was that I have finally equalled the number of pages that the first editor, Elaine Giddens, published. She published 1,707 pages (Jan 1992 - Oct 1997: 6 years, 23 volumes, plus supplemental materials1). As of Volume 57, the total number of pages that have been published since I became editor is 1,723 (Jan 1999 - May 2007: 7 1/2 years, 28 volumes).

I hope your research has been making progress and that your successes in 2008 will bring you joy.

First Generation

1.) Benjamin Franklin was born 16 Jan 1788 in Virginia; died 16 Mar 1856 and was buried in the Franklin Cemetery Hardeman County, Tennessee. His tombstone is inscribed “Dr. Benjamin Franklin.”

Benjamin’s family seems to have spent some time in North Carolina, where their first son, Jesse B. Franklin, was born. From census records, it appears that they moved to Tennessee sometime between 1830 and 1840.

Married Eliza W. _____ (born 1800 or 1797, died 16 July 1835 “Age 38 yrs. 18 das.”) Hardeman County, Tennessee) and was buried in the Franklin Cemetery Hardeman County, Tennessee.

4. In 1870, same county, Henson Franklin, page 179.

5. Biographical information indicates that “Uncle Henry” and “Aunt Ruthie” stayed with Samuel D. Pinson after emancipation. Did not find any matching census records in Pontotoc County, Mississippi, for these first names under any surnames. See entry for Mary Jane Franklin.

6. Son of Jesse B. Franklin, Benjamin Franklin was born 28 Aug 1847.

Second Generation

2. Col. Jesse B. Franklin was born 2 May 1825; died 25 Sep 1873 and was buried in the Franklin Cemetery Hardeman County, Tennessee.

CAVEAT: Care must be exercised when researching the records of this county, because another Jesse Franklin, born in North Carolina, who married a woman named Mary can be found here. This second, unrelated Jesse Franklin is Jesse Hardin Franklin, born 1843 in Surry County, North Carolina, son of Hardin P. Franklin, grandson of Governor Jesse Franklin. From the birth places of their children in the census, it appears that they moved to Hardeman County, Tennessee in about 1861.

He married Mary C. Wilson, on 10 Nov 1845 in Hardeman County, Tennessee. She was born 20 Feb 1828 in Tennessee; died 18 Dec 1905 and was buried in Melrose Cemetery, Hardeman County, Tennessee. Her mother, Mary Wilson, born 1803 in Virginia, was living with the Jesse B.’s family in 1870.

6. Mary Jane Franklin, born 1830 in Tennessee; died about 1854 in Pontotoc County, Mississippi.

From W. P. A. History of Pontotoc County, Mississippi, Chapter VI: Antebellum Days:

Sam Pinson, [Judge Joel Pinson’s] oldest son, was deeded a plantation situated about three miles south of Pontotoc on what is now called the Okolona and Pontotoc Road, where he built what was considered in those days a comfortable residence. It was situated in the heart of the wilderness and the fact of its isolation probably accounted for the designation of “Stony Lonesome” as the name. The house was built in 1849, just three years before Judge Pinson died.

It was to here that Sam Pinson brought the bride, Mary Jane Franklin, of Bolivar, Tennessee. She came to him with money and slaves. A peculiar and interesting facts about the slaves of this family is that when the bride came from Tennessee she brought with her old “Uncle Henry and Aunt Ruthie”, who remained at “Stony Lonesome” until the surrender; even then they refused to leave the plantation.

Mrs. Sam Pinson only lived a few years and left a young son, Bernard, and a daughter, Sallie. Mr. Pinson remained in the home after his wife died, and relatives assisted him in the rearing of his motherless children. He enlisted at once when the War between the States broke out but lived through it and for a few years afterward. At his death the two children inherited his property and the daughter, who became Mrs. Ike Bell, fell heir to this part of the estate.

Census Records

Mary Jane and Samuel moved to Pontotoc County, Mississippi, where Mary Jane died after having two children.
Children:

13. i. Sally A. Pinson was born 4 Oct 1852 in Mississippi, died 23 Dec 1925. She married Isaac Bell.

14. ii. Bernard Pinson was born 1854 in Mississippi.

Third Generation

8. William Austin Franklin was born in 1850 and died in 1895 and was buried in the Franklin Cemetery Hardeman County, Tennessee.

He married Ophelia Harriss on 30 Mar 1871 in Bolivar, Hardeman County, Tennessee. She was born 6 Apr 1849 and died 25 Aug 1899. She was the daughter of James Blount Harriss (born 19 Jan 1810; died 3 Jan 1877; served as Hardeman County sheriff, county court clerk, etc.) and Mary Ann (Robb) Harriss. For more on the Harriss family, see Hardeman County, Tennessee: Family History; Hardeman County Historical Society; copyright 2001: Turner Publishing Company, ISBN 1563117576

They had six children: James Benjamin, Robert Bernard, Jessie Ophelia, William A. Jr., Mary Ellen, and Charles Douglas.
