North Carolina Counties

I am loathe to write again about North Carolina, after having so recently written Volume 60 about the North Carolina census, but here I am. As a state which began its existence as one of the original British Colonies, the written history of the state begins with Sir Walter Raleigh’s grant from Queen Elizabeth in 1584, but permanent settlement did not become established until groups came from Virginia in 1653.

Naturally, the 100 counties that currently comprise the state formed over time. Here are the counties that are most important to the lineages in this volume:

As you can see, part of the story of these people occurred as these counties were being formed. One of the small towns mentioned, for instance was Rougemont. It is currently in Durham County. Before 1881, however, it was in Orange County. Similarly, people who lived in southwestern Granville County in 1750 could have lived in Granville, Orange and Durham Counties without moving. Alternatively, if they lived a little further east, they could have lived in Granville, Orange and Wake Counties without moving.

Letter from the Editor

Well, this volume all started innocently enough - I stumbled across a transcription of a cemetery that isn’t very far from where I live. It was a Franklin Family Cemetery in Granville County. In looking into my own email archives I found that a FFRU contributor, Leallah Franklin, was interested in this line, so I set about to research it.

Little did I know that Ancestry.com had recently added a few VERY important databases for North Carolina research, namely the birth index and the death certificates database. North Carolina law is significantly more open than many others, and they consider this information to be public knowledge and therefore are willing to publish and share it. Probably one of the largest contrasts with this policy is that of the state immediately to our north, Virginia, but that is a topic for another time.

By researching the death certificates, births, census and the other commonly-used databases I was able to come up with a reasonable amount of information, which I have published here, but because of the wealth of material, it has taken me a few weeks longer than it would otherwise to compile this issue.

In the meantime, Leallah, who has been researching this line for several years, has published a book that not only includes this line, but goes back several more generations, and includes well over 2,000 individuals (compared to my approximate 400).

Lastly, while I was researching this, I found a number of “outlying” records that I was able to connect to each other, and I have therefore included three articles of apparently-related lines in this volume.

Descendants of Chesterfield Franklin
Early settler of North Carolina

Compiled and Edited by Leallah Franklin

Dear Franklin cousins:

After working on this Franklin book for over 40 years, I have finally gotten enough material to make a book. I have gathered over 1700 descendants of our common ancestor Chesterfield Franklin. It spans over 9 generations. I traveled to North Carolina, Virginia, and Salt Lake City several times for information. I have contacted loads of people who are also working on the Franklin descendants. Credit is given in the book to those that have sent me their research. I have also contacted living descendants to get the more up-to-date information for this book.

This book is 7" x 10", acid-free paper, hard bound in medium yellow cover. It contains 178 pages, including index and includes 64 pictures.

Related to families: Abbott, Blackmon, Campbell, Carrington, Collins, Davis, Dean, Delmore, Duncan, Elliott, Faucette, Franklin, Hoyle, Johnson, Jones, Lee, Mangum, Matthews, McFarland, Morgan, Parrish, Roberson, Robinson, Singletary, Slaughter, Stepp, Wilkins, Williams, Williamson, Willford and many more.

This book has been submitted to the Library of Congress. It is published by Gateway Press, Inc., Baltimore, MD. My asking price for the book is for publishing costs only, which is $45.00 per book including postage and handling.

This book will make a nice thing to hand down to our future generations and would be a nice present for parents, grandparents, Mothers Day, Fathers Day, Graduation, Weddings, Birthdays or Christmas.

Library of Congress Control Number: 2008938615

Author: Leallah Franklin

Title: Descendants of Chesterfield Franklin, Early settler of North Carolina

Publication Information: Baltimore, Maryland; Gateway Press, Inc.; c2008.

Format: [xiii], 178 pages. ill.

Copy in FFRU library and inscribed by the author. (Thanks!)

Related families: Abbott, Blackmon, Campbell, Carrington, Collins, Davis, Dean, Delmore, Duncan, Elliott, Faucette, Franklin, Hoyle, Johnson, Jones, Lee, Mangum, Matthews, McFarland, Morgan, Parrish, Roberson, Robinson, Singletary, Slaughter, Stepp, Wilkins, Williams, Williamson, Willford and many more.

Earliest Franklin Progenitor: Chesterfield Franklin (1780/90 - 1845), husband of Temperance Carver and Rebecca Hooper.

My impression: This pertains to a number of locales, primarily in North Carolina, primarily Granville, Durham, Orange, Vance and Wake Counties. The overall format is Modified Register, with a large number of abbreviations which are unique to this work. It does not use genealogical date format. While the assertions in it are not individually documented, in addition to frequent references to census and other records, the author refers to family interviews, family bibles, and personal correspondence detailing this lineage through the current time. It includes a wealth of anecdotes reaching back into the 18th century which, while some are quite fanciful - even impossible\(^1\) - they paint a vivid picture of this family. The author, Leallah Franklin, is a member of FFRU. If you are descended from Chesterfield, or are interested in this line in any way, I strongly suggest you get a copy of the book (order form included above).

1. A clear example of this would be the family lore that asserts that Chesterfield Franklin received a land grant somewhere in Virginia from the King of England. Chesterfield was born during or just after the American Revolution. The King (George III during this time) didn’t have the power to grant land in North Carolina or Virginia at that time. In fact all of that region had already been granted over a century prior to Chesterfield’s birth, and by the 1750s, land grants were already beyond the Allegheny Mountains into Ohio. Regardless of this, one should never dismiss such stories without research. The land was probably at one time granted by the King (if not by the Virginia Company or by Sir Walter Raleigh - both of which were also royal grants, anyway), and it is entirely possible that it was granted to one of Chesterfield’s ancestors, and this might have been the source of the family lore.

Submitted by Ben Franklin, Editor, FFRU <benz2@earthlink.net>. This information was compiled from the U. S. Census, North Carolina Death Certificates, Granville and Vance County Cemetery Records, SSDI, AWT, and AF. I should explain that this is one of the many lines found in the book by Leallah Franklin mentioned previously in this volume. I have deliberately avoided using material from Leallah’s book, and thus there will be distinct differences between this and her book, but regardless of this, the two largely agree. Per FFRU policy, I have excluded most of the details for those born after about 1930, which while primarily found on the internet, I don’t want to be the one to disseminate them in this medium.

First Generation

1. Thomas Francis Franklin was born 22 Oct 1832 in Orange County, North Carolina, died 12 Mar 1910 in Granville County, North Carolina. While I’m not aware of any documentary evidence, according to family lore, he was the son of Chesterfield Franklin and Rebecca Hooper (married Person County, North Carolina, 26 Aug 1822).

As shown above, in the 1900 Census, they are found in Brunswick County, Virginia. Brunswick County is on the North Carolina border, slightly to the east of Granville County, North Carolina. It would appear from the birth information of the children, that they moved to Virginia sometime between Jun 1891 and Mar 1892.

Between 1901 and 1904, they moved back to North Carolina, probably Vance County, where they were enumerated in 1910. Vance County is south of Brunswick County, Virginia and is the county just to the east of Granville County.

Wiley Pascall Franklin and Dora Weaver

Submitted by Ben Franklin, from the sources listed above. While researching the article “Thomas Francis Franklin and Melissa Ann Teasley, Granville County, North Carolina,” I came across numerous other Franklins in the same area. Leallah’s book includes this family. I have detailed here the various records that I found - Editor.

First Generation

1. Wiley Paschall Franklin was born 16 Dec 1856 in Orange County, North Carolina; died 16 Feb 1917; buried Red Mountain Baptist Church Cemetery, Durham County, North Carolina. He was the son of Henry Franklin and Lucy Collins. Leallah Franklin states that this Henry Franklin is the grandson of Chesterfield Franklin.

22. Some sources have his name as “Wiley Preston Franklin”, but his tombstone has Wiley Pascall Franklin. Evidence shows that one of his grandsons was Wiley Preston Franklin, and this may have caused some confusion.

23. His death certificate has his birthdate as “1 Feb 1850”, and his name as “Wiley W. Franklin”, but his death certificate is very incomplete. The only source of information on the death certificate was the physician. Other sources list his birth as 16 Dec 1856, which agrees with census records.

John W. Franklin and Nancy Cash

Another family in the county was that of John W. Franklin and Nancy Cash. Some people have confused this couple with James Wesley Franklin and his wife, Esther/Easter Pyatte. James Wesley is in the household of Lawson A. Franklin in Watauga County, North Carolina in 1860. James Wesley’s death certificate proves that he is not the same person as John W. Franklin. James Wesley Franklin was born 28 May 1857 North Carolina; died 2 Jul 1924 Altamont, Ashe County, North Carolina. He was the son of Lawson A. and Sarah (Dellinger) Franklin.

1. John W. Franklin was born 1857 in North Carolina; died after 1920. He was the son of Zachariah and Minerva “Nessie” (Roberds) Franklin.
