Generation No. 1

1. Danyell¹ Broadley¹ was born 26 Jan 1588/89 in Bingley, Yorkshire, England², and died 27 Nov 1641 in Bingley, Yorkshire, England². He met (1) Annis Holdroide³³. He married (2) Elsabeth Atkinson⁴ 01 Jul 1607 in Bingley, Yorkshire, England. She was born 1589 in Yorkshire, England⁴, and died Bet. 1624 - 1630 in Yorkshire, England⁴. He married (3) Elizabeth Sheaffe⁴ Abt. 1631⁴. She was born Abt. 1601 in Yorkshire, England⁴, and died Jan 1682/83 in New Haven, Conn.⁴.

Notes for Danyell Broadley:

Bingley, as seen in the early 1800's:

"Bingley with Micklethwaite, the township of East and West Morton, the hamlet of Harden and neighbourhoods.

Bingley, a small market and manufacturing town and with Micklethwaite, forms one township, in the parish of Bingley, and wapentake of Skyrack, West Riding, is 206 miles from London, 20 n.w. from Wakefield, 17 n. from Huddersfield, 11 n. from Halifax, 6 n.w. from Bradford, and about 4 e. from Keighley; situated on the direct road between the two last named towns, and upon an eminence between two pleasant valleys. The town, which consists chiefly of one long street, tolerably built, lies between the river Aire and the Leeds & Liverpool canal, the latter passing close to the town, which is of great advantage to its trade.

The worsted manufacture is carried on in this town and neighbourhood to a considerable extent; and there are several large worsted spinning establishments; others for cotton of minor importance; and several respectable concerns in the malt trade. A court house has been lately erected, in which public meetings take place; but the petty sessions, every fortnight, are still held at the Brown Cow. The places of worship are the parish church, dedicated to All Saints, a neat edifice, and chapels for baptists, independents, and methodists. In the church are some handsome monuments to the memory of several members of the Ferrand family. The living of Bingley is a discharged vicarage, in the gift of the Crown: the Rev. Richard Hartley is the vicar. Here is a free grammar school, for the sons of the inhabitants of Bingley, well endowed, and founded by royal charter, in the reign of Charles the First; and a large one upon the national system, capable of accommodating eight hundred scholars. The scenery in the neighbourhood of Bingley is very agreeable and diversified, well watered and wooded, and studded with many handsome habitations, amongst these, the seats of Walker Ferrand, Esq. Harden Grange, and Edward Ferrand, Esq. St. Ives, may be noticed as beautiful residences. The market, which is held on Tuesday, was formerly well and populously attended, but it has retrograded in advantage to the town, in proportion as that of Bradford has prospered. Two fairs are held annually, but they are not well attended; the periods are, January 25th, for horned cattle, and August 25th, 26th, & 27th, for horses, linen & pedlary. The population of Bingley parish, by the census of 1821, amounted to 7,375, and in 1831, to 9,256, of which last number 8,037 were returned for the township of Bingley and Micklethwaite.

East and West Morton, forms one township, in the parish of Bingley, about two miles from that town, and participates with it in the manufacture of articles produced from the fleece: there are also two mills for the making of paper, and one for cotton spinning and the manufacture of cotton goods. The places of worship are a chapel for Wesleyan methodists, and a small building, which is used alternately, by congregations of primitive methodists, baptists and independents.

The township contained, in 1821, 1,199 inhabitants, and in 1831, 1,209. Harden is a hamlet, in the township of Bingley and Micklethwaite, one mile and a half therefrom. The inhabitants are chiefly employed in wool combing and weaving. Walker Ferrand, Esq. erected, and supports an infants' school, for children of the poor, from two to six years of age; in addition to reading, the girls are taught knitting and sewing.

Population of Harden returned with the township of Bingley and Micklethwaite."

5. Daniell² Broadley (Danyell¹)¹⁸ was born 29 Aug 1613 in Bingley, Yorkshire, England¹⁹, and died 13 Aug 1689 in Haverhill, Essex Co., Mass.²⁰. He married Mary Williams²¹ 21 May 1662 in Haverhill, Essex Co., Mass.²¹, daughter of John Williams and Jane Gould. She was born 20 Sep 1641 in Newbury, Essex Co., Mass.²¹, and died 06 Oct 1714 in Haverhill, Essex Co., Mass.²¹.

Notes for Daniell Broadley:

In July (1681), the town met to see about the "parsonage farm," and it was finally leased to Daniel Bradley, for twenty-one years. Mr. Ward's in-creasing age and feebleness were doubtless the reasons for this action, though none are given.

[George Wingate Chase, History of Haverhill, 1861, reprint, New England Historical Press, 1983, 136]

"On the 13th of the same month[August 1689], a small party made their appear-ance in the northerly part of this town, and killed Daniel Brad-ley. They then went to the field of Nathaniel Singletary, near by, where he and his oldest son were at work. They approached in their slow and serpent-like manner, until they came within a few rods, when they shot Singletary, who fell and died on the spot; his son attempted to es-cape, but was quickly overtaken and made prisoner. The Indians then Scalped Singletary, and commenced a hasty retreat ; but their prisoner soon eluded their vigilance, and returned to his home, on the same day, to make glad the hearts of his afflicted relatives. Nathaniel Singletary was a "squatter" on the parsonage lands. The marks of the cellar of his house are still to be seen, on the land now owned by Benjamin Kimball, on the Parsonage Road -a short distance northwest from the gate.

Bradley was killed on the "Parsonage Road," not far from the present Atkinson Depot"

"On the 30th of September, 1690, the following petition of his son, Daniel, was addressed to the Court: "To the honord cortt now siting att ipswige this may signify to your honors that whereas by the prouvidence of God my father Daniel Bradly was slaine by the hand of the heathen and left no will as to the deposing of his outward estate I request my brother Joseph may be appointed administrator.

DANIEL BRADLEY."

This request was granted."

Daniel Bradley's Parsonage Lease

Articles of agreement made and ooncluded this fourteenth of July sixteen hundred eighty and two, between George Browns, Thomas Whittier, Sen., Daniel Ladd, Sen., Robert Ford, and Josiah Gage, as Selectmen of, and in the name and behalf, and by virtue of special order of the Town of Haverhill upon the north of Merrimack River, made April the 4th 1682, on the one part, and Daniel Bradley of the same place, husbandman, on be-half of himself and his heirs, and assigns, and successors on the other part, witnesseth.

1st In primis That the said Selectmen have bargained with, and therefore do hereby let, and to farm set unto the said Daniel Bradley and to his heirs and assigns for the full term of twenty-one years beginning and accounting from the twenty ninth of September next after the date hereof till the next ensuing one and twenty years be fully completed and ended: All that upland in Haverhill lying for two hundred acres, be it more or less, adjoining to land in the present possession of the said Daniel Bradley. The said Two hundred acres being commonly known by the name of the "Parsonage Farm," laid out for the perpetual use and improvement of the Minister or Ministry of the said Town as by their order and Town act dated November 30th 1660 may appear: in the case and condition that now the land is in, as a wilderness and unimproved land: together with twelve acres, or thereabouts of meadow lying in a meadow called the Sawmill Meadow adjoining to the upland, which also by the Town orders and acts is stated to the Ministry, and annexed to the forementioned Parsonage Farm.

2. In consideration of the land and meadow so let, as above-said for twenty-one years the said Daniel Bradley doth hereby bind himself, and heirs, and successors, and assigns that may or shall live upon the said farm, or manage and have the improvement of all or part thereof, and every of them jointly and severally to the Selectmen now in being, and so to such as shall be annually chosen Selectmen of the place during the term, on behalf of the Town, or to each person or persons as the Town or Selectmen shall order from time to time, or for one year or for longer time, to pay to him or them the annual rent of five pounds in good and merchantable wheat, rye, bar-ley, peas, or Indian corn, at the annual price set for the country rate; or in good barrelled, well picked beef and pork, at price current in said Town at the successive times of pay-ment; which is, and shall be annually at or before the first of January; the first payment to be made in January next come twelve months: and the place of the delivery of the pay to be at Lt. George Browne's or Jno. Johnson, Sen.'s now dwelling places, or some other house that is, or shall be between them in Haverhill; or as near to the present Meeting-house as said Browne's or Johnson's, or either of them are.

3. The said Daniel Bradley, for himself, and heirs, and as-signs doth covenant and promise as abovesaid, that at his own cost and charge he shall and will within the space of five years next ensuing the twenty-ninth of September next break up, and fence in and plant a good orchard upon the said land, in some convenient place of the full quantity of one acre of ground with a good sort of fruit: in which orchard shall be planted not less than four score good apple trees handsomely placed as is usual in the planting of orchards: and that this orchard shall continually during the time of the lease, and till he resigns up the land to the lessor, be kept sufficient-ly and substantially well fenced so as to prevent any damage to be done to all or any of the trees by cattle or any sort of creatures that are wont, and may if not kept out and pre-vented, do damage to orchards.

4. That the said Daniel Bradley or his heirs or assigns shall not at any time during the said lease directly or in-directly, by himself or themselves or by any other person whatsoever, fall, out down, or make use of any wood or timber, straight or crooked now upon the land or tenement, or that during the term of the lease shall be upon the same, or suffer any other so to do by way of gift, sale, exchange, theft or otherwise if to him or them made known upon the penalty of the Town's, or their Selectmen's, or orders reentry forthwith upon the said tenement, and his or their being turned out of the sane and loosing the remainder of the lease, and suffering each other damages as may upon his, or their being prosecuted in law be recovered against him or them: excepting only what wood and timber, he or they, shall have need to improve for their necessary use and improvement upon the farm for building, fencing, and firewood to be improved upon the said land, and in no wise to be carried off without special and particular license from the Town or from the Selectmen from time to time. PROVIDED nevertheless that of what land he clears and doth fence in for corn land, he or they having first made use of what stuff and timber is suitable for fencing in of that piece, and the other improved land, he or they shall have liberty to carry off and dispose of the rest that is fit for posts, staves, or firewood to any other inhabitant in Haverhill to be in the said Town made use of. 5. That the said Daniel Bradley by himself, or his heirs, or assigns shall build a dwelling-house and out-housing upon the said farm at his own cost and charge without any limita-tion for dimension and If the building at the expiration or end of this lease shall (by men to be indifferently chosen by both parties, viz., the Town or Selectmen on their order, and Daniel Bradley, or his heirs or assigns) be judged and valued to be then worth more, than ten pounds, then the Town is to pay him or them what the said building or housing shall be apprais-ed at more than ten pounds; provided the whole sum of the valuation exceed not twenty pounds. And if they shall be estimated at more than twenty pounds, then the said Daniel Bradley, his heirs, and assigns are to bear the whole charge thereof excepting only one of the ten pounds, or half the twenty above mentioned.

6. That the said Daniel Bradley, or his heirs, or assigns shall constantly during the whole time of the lease, excepting only the three first years, keep and maintain upon the farm by the use and improvement of the said land and meadow what stock of cattle, he or they can by said improvement, that so there may be wherewithall to manure the said land, and keep it in good heart. And therefore to that end the said Daniel Bradley and his heirs and assigns, are hereby strictly obliged and bound, and do covenant with the lessor, that he or they after the first three years of the above mentioned one and twenty years lease, are expired and past, shall not di-rectly or indirectly by him or themselves, or any other per-son or way or means carry off or suffer to be carried off from the said farm at any time any corn in the straw or husk; or any grass, straw, husk or hay; but that it shall be im-proved by maintaining and keeping a stock of cattle on the land: and that he or they shall not carry off therefrom as abovesaid any of the soil or dung that shall arise by the improvement of the said tenement but that all and every part thereof shall duly and truly be laid according to the usual rules of good husbandry upon some part of the tillage land, or improved land of the said farm or tenement for the better-ing thereof.

7. That what land of the said farm the said Daniel Bradley or his heirs or assigns shall at any time break up, or im-prove with corn, and after some use thereof shall think meet to lay the same open and down again; he or they, the last year of their so improving, of the said land or field, shall sow the same with English grain, and with also such a convenient and sufficient quantity of good English hay seed, as is customary in such cases to be mown, that so the farm in time may be overspread with good English grass for mowing or feeding.

8. The said Daniel Bradley, or his heirs or assigns, or tenant upon the farm, shall, at the expiration of the said lease of twenty-one years, leave all the fences that shall be-long to the farm in good repair fit for service. And shall leave at least fifteen acres of kindly land of the farm in good tillage case and condition within a good sufficient fence.

9. That the said Daniel or his assigns notwithstanding the expiration of his lease, or term of twenty-one years upon the twenty-ninth day of September shall have liberty to live upon the farm, and make use of the housing till the tenth of March next following for the spending of his hay and straw, etc. with his stock and for the fitting of his crop for market, and disposing of his corn.

Provided always, that the said Daniel Bradley or his assigns living there shall not hinder any other tenant that may succeed him from coming upon the farm as soon as the lease is out in September, before winter to plough and prepare, or in the winter time to provide as he shall see most for his till-age and improvement the next year.

10. The said Daniel, or his heirs or assigns or tenant upon the place, shall, at the end of his said term, (or at the said tenth of March) when he is to go off and leave the farm and buildings, leave three good leads of good hay in the housing for the use and improvement of the next tenant, or improvers of the farm in their spring work with their cattle upon the same.

In witness whereof the Selectmen on behalf on themselves and the Town on the one part, and Daniel. Bradley on behalf of himself, and heirs, and assigns, on the other part, for the confirmation of the ten foregoing articles, as they are jointly or severally concerned therein, do hereto set their hands interchangeably.

Notes for Joseph Bradley:

JOSEPH, Haverhill, had a garrison at his ho. wh. was surpris. 8 Feb. 1704, when his w. for the sec. time was tak. by the Ind. and carr. away, her inf. ch. b. after her capt. dying of want. Abraham, his s. liv. to 1754, at Concord, N. H. His ch. Joseph, Martha, and Sarah had been k. 11 Mar. 1697 by the Ind.
[Savage, Vol. I, 234]

24 March 1690 - "As a means of defense, the selectmen appointed six garrisons, and four houses of refuge...The fifth was commanded by Joseph Bradley, and was situated in the northerly part of the town, not far from the house of the late Zebulon Sargent ; it was long since torn down, and no traces of it now remain...Most of the garrisons, and two of the houses of refuge, (those belong-ing to Joseph and Nathaniel Peaslee) were built of brick, and were two stories high ; those that were not built of this material, had a single laying of it between the outer and inner walls. They had but one outside door, which was often so small that but one person could enter at a time ; their windows were about two feet and a half in length, eighteen inches in breadth, and were secured on the inside with iron bars. Their glass was very small, cut in the shape of a diamond, was extremely thick, and fastened in with lead instead of putty. There were generally but two rooms in the basement story, and tradition says that they entered the chamber...with the help of a ladder, instead of stairs, so that the inmates could re-treat into them, and take it up if the basement-story should be taken by the enemy. Their fire-places were of such enormous sizes, that they could burn their wood sled-length, very conveniently; and the ovens opened on the outside of the building, generally at one end, behind the fire-place ; and were of such dimensions that we should suppose a sufficient quantity of bread might have been baked in them to supply a regiment of hungry mouths.

[George Wingate Chase, History of Haverhill, 1861, reprint, New England Historical Press, 1983, 155-157]

15 March 1696/97 - "But to return from this long digression, to our narrative. After the attack on Duston's house, the Indians dispersed themselves in small parties, and attacked the houses in the vicinity. Nine houses were plundered and reduced to ashes on that eventful day, and in every case their owners were slain while defending them. Twenty-seven persons were slaughtered, (fifteen of them children) and thirteen captured. The following is a list of the killed:-John Keezar, his father, and son, George; John Kimball and his mother, Hannah ; Sarah Eastman; Thomas Eaton ; Thomas Emerson, his wife, Elizabeth, and two children, Timothy and Sarah ; Daniel Bradley, his wife, Hannah, and two children, Mary and Hannah ; Martha Dow, daughter of Stephen Dow; Joseph, Martha, and Sarah Bradley, children of Joseph Bradley ; Thomas and Mehitable Kingsbury ; Thomas Wood and his daughter, Susannah ; John Woodman and his daughter, Susannah; Zechariah White ; and Martha, the infant daughter of Mr. Duston."

[Chase, History of Haverhill, 198]

5 April 1696/7 - "To Thomas Dustin, upon the settlement of garrisons. April 5 1696-7. You being appointed master of the garrison at your house, you are hereby, in his Maj's [Majesty's] name, required to see that a good watch is kept at your garrison both by night and by day, by those persons hereafter named who are to be under your command and inspection in building or repairing your garrison ; and if any person refuse or neglect their duty, you are accordingly required to make return of the same, under your hand, to the Committee of militia in Haverhill. The persons appointed are as followeth: -Josiah Heath, sen., Josiah Heath, jun., Joseph Bradley, John Heath, Joseph Kingsbury, and Thomas Kingsbury.

By order of the Committee of militia.

SAMUEL AYER, Capt."

[Chase, History of Haverhill, 200]

Spring 1708, "The town by this time was generally alarmed. Joseph Bradley collected a small party, in the northerly part of it, and secured the medicine-box and packs of the enemy, which they had left about three miles from the village. Capt. Samuel Ayer, a fearless man, and of great strength, collected a body of about twenty men, and pursued the retreating foe. He came up with them just as they were entering the woods, when they faced about, and though they numbered thirteen or more to one, still Capt. Ayer did not hesitate to give them battle. These gallant men were soon reinforced by another party, under the command of his son ; and after a severe skirmish, which lasted about an hour, they retook some of the prisoners, and the enemy precipitately retreated, leaving nine of their number dead.

The French and Indians continued their retreat, and so great were their sufferings, arising from the loss of their packs, and their consequent exposure to famine, that many of the Frenchmen returned and surrendered themselves prisoners of war ; and some of the captives were dismissed, with a message that, if they were pursued, the others should be put to death. Perhaps, if they had been pursued, nearly the whole of their force might have been conquered; for the Governor, in his address to the Assembly, says, " we might have done more against them if we had followed their tracks." As it was, they left thirty of their number dead, in both engagements, and many were wounded, whom they carried with them. The French, when they returned, reported very differently from this; they said that they " faced about, and that our people, being astonished, were all killed or taken, except ten or twelve, who escaped."

Military service: Bet. 1690 - 1707, kept Garrison House in Haverhill⁸⁹
Occupation: yeoman farmer

Notes for Hannah Heath:

February 1705, "On the 8th of February, about 3 or 4 o'clock in the afternoon, a party of six Indians attacked the garrison of Joseph Bradley, which was unhappily in an unguarded state-even the sentries had left their stations, and the gates were open. The Indians approached cautiously, and were rushing into the open gates, before they were discovered. Jonathan John-son, a sentinel, who was standing in the house, shot at and wounded the foremost, and Mrs. Bradley, who had a kettle of boiling soap over the fire, seized her ladle, and filling it with the steaming liquid, discharged it on his tawny pate -a soap-orific that almost instantly brought on a sleep, from which he has never since awoke. The rest of the party immediately rushed forward, killed Johnson,; made prisoner of the intrepid woman, and of some others. Pike in his Journal says four. Three persons escaped from the garrison. The Indians, then fearing lest they should soon be attacked by a stronger party, commenced a hasty retreat, aiming for Canada, which was their place of resort when they had been so successful as to take a number of prisoners.

Mrs. Bradley was in delicate circumstances, and in slender health ; still she received no kindness from her savage conquerors. No situation of woman would ever protect her from their demon-like cruelties. The weather was cold; the wind blew keenly over the hills, and the ground was covered with a deep snow, -yet they obliged her to travel on foot, and carry a heavy burthen, too large even for the strength of man. In this manner they proceeded through the wild wilderness ; and Mrs. Brad-ley informed her family, after she returned, that for many days in succes-sion, she subsisted on nothing but bits of skin, ground-nuts, the bark of trees, wild onions, and lily roots.

While in this situation, with none but savages for her assistants and protectors, and in the midst of a thick forest, she gave birth to a child. The Indians then, as if they were not satisfied with persecuting the mother, extended their cruelties to the innocent and almost friendless babe. For the want of proper attention, it was sickly, and probably troublesome; and when it cried, these remorseless fiends showed their pity, by throwing embers into its mouth. ' They told the mother that if she would permit them to baptize it in their manner, they would suffer it to live. Unwil-ling to deny their request, lest it should enrage their fierce and diabolical passions, and hoping that the little innocent would receive kindness at their hands, she complied with their request. They took it from her, and baptized it by gashing its forehead with their knives. The feelings of the mother, when the child was returned to her with its smooth and white forehead gashed with the knife, and its warm blood coursing down its cheeks, can be better imagined than described.

Soon as Mrs. Bradley had regained sufficient strength to travel, the In-dians again took up their march for Canada. But before they arrived at their place of rendezvous, she had occasion to go a little distance from the party, and when she returned, she beheld a sight shocking to a mother, and to every feeling of humanity. Her child, which was born in sorrow, and nursed in the lap of affliction, and on which she doted with maternal fondness, was piked upon a pole. Its excruciating agonies were over it could no more feel the tortures of the merciless savages - and its mother could only weep over its memory. Soon after, they proceeded to Canada, where Mrs. Bradley was sold to the French for eighty livres. She informed her friends, after her return, that she was treated kindly by the family in which she lived. It was her custom, morning and evening, when she milked her master's cow, to take with her a crust of bread, soak it with milk, and eat it; with this, and with the rations allowed her by her mas-ter, she eked out a comfortable subsistence.

In March, 1705, her husband, hearing that she was in the possession of the French, started for Canada with the intention of redeeming her. He travelled on foot, accompanied only by a dog that drew a small sled, in which he carried a bag of snuff, as a present from the Governor of this Province to the Governor of Canada. When he arrived, he immediately redeemed her, and set sail from Montreal for Boston, which they reached in safety; and from thence travelled to Haverhill.

Penhallow mentions this as her second captivity, and Hutchinson says the same ; but Penhallow is, without doubt, his authority. Diligent search has been made to learn the history of her first ; but, thus far it has been unsuccessful. Very accurate traditions of the captivities of the other members of the family, have been transmitted to their descendants, but they have never heard their fathers tell that this person was taken at any other time ; at least, they can give no account of such a fact. We ex-tract the following, from Rev. Abiel Abbot's MS., taken by him from Judith Whiting:-"Destitute of nurses and necessaries, the child was sickly, and apt to cry, and they would put hot embers in its mouth. Be-ing obliged to leave it a short time, on her return, she found it piked on a pole. "' Having been brought home by her husband, she was taken a second time, but not before she had finished and wounded an In-dian, by pouring boiling soap into his mouth." From this, it appears that she was twice captivated; but of the truth of the statement, in this par-ticular, we will not undertake to judge. It certainly does not agree with Penhallow's, and if we rely on one, we must throw up the other, at least, in part."

Mrs. Bradley's deposition, which we give in another place, is conclusive evidence that the above was her second captivity. As we have it from one of her descendants, Mrs. Bradley was engaged in boiling soap, when she was startled by the appearance of Indians at her very door, one of whom exclaimed, exultingly, -" Now, Hannah, me got you." Instead, however, of quietly allowing herself to be captured a second time, Hannah saluted the savage with such vigorous applications of "soft soap," that he quickly gave up the ghost. After a desperate resistance, she was at last made a prisoner. Revenge for the death of their comrade, was doubtless the principal cause of the subsequent tortures of the child by the savages. Their extreme barbarity, in this particular instance, can only be accounted for upon some such supposition. Their ingenuity was always exerted to the utmost in devising tortures for a brave warrior, when taken prisoner, and the case of Mrs. Bradley is but a similar instance of their revenge and cruelty.

On the 29th of the same month in which the attack was made on the garrison of Mr. Bradley, Hertel de Rouville, with two hundred French, and one hundred and forty-two Indians, fell upon the town of Deerfield, Mass., killed forty-seven, and made prisoners of one hundred and twelve of its inhabitants"

[Chase, History of Haverhill, 210-212]

Summer 1707 - "Sometime in the summer of this year, a small party of Indians again visited the garrison of Joseph Bradley; and it is said that he, his wife and children, and a hired man, were the only persons in it at the time. It was in the night, the moon shone brightly, and they could be easily seen, silently and cautiously approaching. Mr. Bradley armed himself, his wife and man, each with a gun, and such of his children as could shoulder one. Mrs. Bradley, supposing that they had come purposely for her, told her husband that she had rather be killed than be again taken. The Indians rushed upon the garrison, and endeavored to beat down the door. They succeeded in pushing it partly open, and when one of the Indians began to crowd himself through the opening, Mrs. Bradley fired her gun and shot him dead. The rest of the party, seeing their companion fall, desisted from their purpose, and hastily retreated."

[Chase, History of Haverhill, 216]

"Among the things which call for mention in our history for 1738, is the petition of Hannah Bradley, of this town, to the General Court, asking for a grant of land, in consideration of her former sufferings among the Indians, and " present low circumstances." In answer to her petition, that honorable body granted her two hundred and fifty acres of land, which was laid out May 29, 1739, by Richard Hazzen, Surveyor. It was located in Methuen, in two lots, -the first, containing one hundred and sixty acres, bordering on the west line of Haverhill ; the other, containing ninety acres, bordering on the east line of Dracut.

Mrs. Bradley's good success in appealing to the generosity of the Gen-eral Court, seems to have stimulated Joseph Neff, a son of Mary Neff, to make a similar request. He shortly after petitioned that body for a grant of land, in consideration of his mother's services in assisting Hannah Duston in killing "divers Indians." Neff declares in his petition, that his mother was " kept a prisoner for a considerable time," and " in their return home past thro the utmost hazard of their lives and Suffered distressing want being almost Starved before they Could Return to their dwellings."

Accompanying Neff's petition, was the following deposition of Hannah Bradley, which well deserves a place in our pages, for its historical interest. The document proves that Mrs. Bradley was taken prisoner at the same time with Mrs. Duston, and travelled with her as far as Pennacook:-

" The deposition of the Widow Hannah Bradly of Haverhill of full age who testifieth & saith that about forty years past the said Hannah together with the widow Mary Neff were taken prisoners by the Indians & carried together into captivity, & above penny cook the Deponent was by the Indians forced to travel farther than the rest of the Captives, and the next night but one there came to us one Squaw who said that Hannah Dustan and the aforesaid Mary Neff assisted in killing the Indians of her wigwam except herself and a boy, herself escaping very narrowly, chewing to myself & others seven wounds as she said with a Hatchet on her head which wounds were given her when the rest were killed, and further saith not.

The above deposition was sworn to before Joshua Bayley, of Haverhill, June 28th, 1739."

Notes for Capt. James Mitchell:

Capt. James Mitchell was not one of the original Scotch-Irish settlers:

The 16 families came to Haverhill on 2 Apr 1719/20, and the men went ahead to Nutfield;

They brought their families up to Nutfield on 11 April 1719/20

-- G. W. Chase, "History of Haverhill", 1861, p. 250

Capt. James Mitchell and Martha Bradley were married in Haverhill 10 Dec 1719

Abigail, their first daughter was born 22 May 1720

James and Martha were "acquainted" by September 1719

in 1709, Abigail and Mary Mitchell were building a pew in the meeting house in 1710, Andrew Michel of Saltonstall's company was issued with snow shoes in 1725, William Mitchel was one of the town sentinels

-- G. W. Chase, "History of Haverhill", 1861, various conclusion: there was a Mitchel(l) family in Haverhill before 1710

219. Rhoda S.⁶ Mitchell (James F.⁵, Martha⁴ Bradley, Joseph³, Daniell² Broadley, Danyell¹)^{257,258,259} was born 22 Aug 1785 in Haverhill, Mass.²⁶⁰, and died 19 Aug 1819 in Columbus, Ohio²⁶¹. She married David Campbell Smith²⁶² 17 Aug 1814 in Haverhill, Mass.²⁶³, son of John Smith and Elizabeth Campbell. He was born 02 Oct 1785 in Francestown, New Hampshire²⁶⁴, and died 04 Feb 1865 in Manchester, Oh.²⁶⁵.

Notes for Rhoda S. Mitchell:

Mrs. Rhoda Smith opened a school not long after their arrival in Columbus and in a few years Miss Harriet Mitchell came out to Ohio to act as her assistant. She continued to live with the family until her sister Rhoda's death in August, 1819, when the following year, she was herself married to David Smith.

Mrs. Harriet Smith died of cholera in August, 1833, during the prevalence of one of the most fatal epidemics that ever visited Columbus. There were almost 200 deaths among the 3,000 inhabitants, one-third of whom fled the city.

In accordance with his express wish the only inscription upon it is in the following words: "In remembrance of David Smith, son of John Smith and Elizabeth Campbell Smith of Francestown, N. H., born Oct. 2, 1785, and died Feb. 4, 1865. Also of Rhoda S. Smith, wife of David Smith, daughter of James F. Mitchell and Hannah Leitch Mitchell of Haverhill, Mass., born Aug. 22, 1785, and died Aug. 19, 1819. Also of Harriet B. Smith, wife of David Smith and sister of Rhoda S. More About Rhoda S. Mitchell:

Date born 2: 03 Aug 1784, Haverhill, Essex Co., Massachusetts²⁶⁶

Notes for David Campbell Smith:

On January 18, 1817, David Smith, then less than two years a resident of Ohio, was elected by the Legislature Associate Judge of the Court of Common Pleas for Franklin county to succeed Alexander Morrison, Jr. The term of office was seven years, but Judge Smith resigned in November, 1825 to accept a seat as Representative from Franklin county in the Twenty-Fifth General Assembly, in 1826.

The following year, early in 1816, David Smith and Ezra Griswold, Jr., established and commenced the publication of the Ohio Monitor, a weekly protective tariff, anti-slavery Democratic newspaper. ... Mr. Griswold soon sold his interest in the Monitor to Judge Smith, who remained sole proprietor and editor of the paper until October 5th, 1836, more than twenty years, when he sold it to Jacob Medary.

In 1820, and again in 1822, the State printing was given by joint resolution of the General Assembly to the Ohio Monitor, though it does not appear that its editor was known as the "State Printer". This office was not created by the Ohio Legislature until the session of 1824-25, and was' evidently considered of more importance then than it is to-day. George Nashee was the first incumbent of the new office, and David Smith was successively elected State Printer three times by the Legislatures of 1831, 1832 and 1833.

On September 27, 1836, David Smith was appointed by his friend, Amos Kendall, Postmaster General, to a clerkship in the Dead Letter Office at Washington. He continued in the Government service for a number of years, probably until after the inauguration of President Polk in 1845.

David Smith was for very many years - probably more than sixty - a devout, consistent and useful member of the Methodist Episcopal Church: He was among the first officers of the old Town Street M. E. Church at Columbus, and was for a long time superintendent of its Sabbath School

...

... until within a few months of his death. This occurred, after a stroke of paralysis, and lingering sickness, in February, 1865. His sufferings were intense; he was almost speechless, articulating only with the greatest difficulty,

...

Notes for John Wallace Gill:

John W. Gill, Sr. was educated with others, afterward notable in Ohio and national history, under a very able tutor and instructor, a Mr. Brooks, at St. Clairsville, O. He early developed into a great business man, and about 1840, removed to Wheeling, West Va. where for many years he took a leading part in public affairs and enterprises, and engaged successfully, in many kinds of business.

He was founder of the Wheeling Seminary; took a prominent part in the erection of the great Suspension Bridge; the projection and completion of the National Pike highway; encouraged and owned stock in the first telegraph line, and in many other public enterprises of that early day.

He engaged in merchandising and marketing by flatboat between Wheeling and New Orleans; in banking; in paper manufacture; in iron and steel manufacture, and was particularly active in the culture of Silk cocoons, and the manufacture of fine silks and velvets; these productions were beautiful in design and substantial in quality, and took many medals at fairs, both at home and abroad. A number of these medals are kept in the family of the late Charles W. Gill at Galveston, Texas. He manufactured and introduced the first Silk American flag. It is difficult to compress into brief space the many interesting phases of his active career.

The deplorable business reverses and depression prevailing in the Buchanan administration, swept away much, if not all his accumulations and in 1864, he acquired a large block of land just west of Springfield, Ill. Here he spent the last years of his life in clearing and improving and bringing into a high state of cultivation a valuable farm, from rough hilly land and virgin forest. After his death in 1872, the family reaped the benefits of his foresight, work and genius, and for more than fifty years this farm was a home for his widow and children and did not pass away from them until after her death in 1907.

In stature tall, in demeanor dignified and commanding, of urbane disposition, quick in perception and action, he attracted and received consideration from all with whom he came in contact, and was adored by his wife and family as the embodiment of wisdom and knowledge.

Isaac was small and wiry but Joseph was large, overgrown and clumsy. They were taken to Lake Winnepisogee (Lake Winnepesaukee, NH) and placed with an Indian family. They understood enough of the language to learn that they were to be taken to Canada in the Spring. In April Isaac planned his escape without informing Joseph. He finally told him that he was afraid he would not wake up. On the appointed night, all were asleep and snoring, including Joseph. After Isaac had stolen fire making material and some moose meat and bread, he tried to wake up Joseph. Joseph turned over and said out loud, "What do you want?" Isaac laid down quickly pretending to sleep. He later left without Joseph but he had awakened and followed him. At daybreak, they hid in a hollow log as the knew the Indians would pursue them. Their dogs discovered them in the log, but the dogs recognized Joseph and Isaac and they were given the moose meat. By that ruse, they escaped and survived several days living on roots and berries. At one point they happened upon an Indian camp but were not discovered. Isaac had to leave Joseph at one time but returned for him later. He ended up carrying Joseph part of the way. They arrived in desperate condition at Fort Saco, Maine." [George Wingate Chase, History of Haverhill, 1861, reprint, New England Historical Press, 1983, 179] .
