All weights are actual whole weights from 1979 onwards. For the first season since 1948, did not use a cleaning machine One small school cleaned by hand. By July 1979 a further 20 km of Bremer Road was bitumenised, bringing the total to 40.6km and leaving only 26 km of gravel. During the season 11 tagged salmon from South Australia were caught in Doubtful Island Bay. Bremer bar open to the sea from June 1978 until March 1979.

Fished for herring with Bentley at Trigelow. Our share was 56.5 tonnes. Fordson tractor and front launching boat trailer used with the jet boat for the first time. The forby was used for the last time. It was left parked at Bentley's for some years before burning in a bush fire. Hunts cannery started accepting whole salmon. Two loads of whole salmon were sent in. The shack was improved by the addition of a workshop and bathroom with an instant gas hot water system. This was the last season in which ice was used when carting fish. Fitzgerald national park of approx 243,000 ha was declared an A class reserve vested in the National Parks Board on 19.1.73.

Caught 6.4 tonnes of herring during the salmon season. John Cleary, George Gaebler and Rod Frost joined Collett's team at Point Charles. First section (2.3km) of Bremer Bay Road was bitumensed. Introduced a jet boat during this season. Only used once or twice in the first season. Commenced using a 240 volt alternator in the camp for lighting. It replaced tilley lamps.
