

Miss Alberta M. Houghton.

Special to The New York Times.

DUBLIN, N. H., Oct. 31.—Miss Alberta Manning Houghton, daughter of Henry O. Houghton, the founder of the publishing house of Houghton, Miffling Company, died today at her Summer home in Marlboro, near here. Her life had been passed in Cambridge, where she lived in Garden Street. She was interested in many of the charitable and social activities of Cambridge and Boston.

---

Albert H. Clark.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 31 (AP).—Albert H. Clark, manager and assistant treasurer of the Clark Manufacturing Company, a branch of the National Casket Company, died at his home here today at the age of 79. Mr. Clark, a native of Stonington, Conn., was the son of John Lothrop Clark, who founded the Clark Company.

The New York Times

Published: November 1, 1931

Copyright © The New York Times