LOCUST VALLEY, L. I., May 15.—Miss Marion Gordon Tully, daughter of former State Senator and Mrs. William John Tully, was married to Reeve Hoover, son of Mr. and Mrs. William David Hoover of Washington, D. C., this afternoon in the picturesque St. John's Church, Lattingtown, near here. Quantities of pink rambler roses were used to decorate this quaint little edifice, of which the bride's father is a warden. The chancel was banked with tall Cybodium ferns and pink ramblers, while on the altar were vases of lilies. The side walls of the church were hung with Southern smilax interspersed with sprays of the roses. The floral decorations were arranged in such a manner as not to hide the wonderful wood carvings, a salient feature of the church and the gift of the Morgan family.

Owing to the smallness of the church, the guests were limited to relatives and a few intimate friends, and while they were assembling there was a program of organ music by Kyle Dunkel, organist of the Cathedral of the Incarnation in Garden City. The ceremony was performed at 3:30 o'clock by the Right Rev. Ernest M. Stires, Bishop of Long Island, assisted by the rector of St. John's, the Rev. Charles W. Hinton.

The bride, who is a niece of Alanson Bigelow Houghton, American Ambassador to Great Britain, was escorted by her father, who gave her in marriage. She wore a gown of pearl-colored satin embroidered in seed pearls and embellished with old family point lace. The long court train was of the same lace combined with tulle caught here and there with clusters of orange blossoms. Her voluminous tulle veil, which fell from under a cap of point lace, was fastened to the coiffure above each ear with a cluster of orange blossoms. The bride's only ornament was a string of pearls, and she carried a bouquet of white orchids, gardenias and lilies of the valley.

Her Sister Maid of Honor.

Miss Alice Bigelow Tully, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and Mrs. Alan Gillespie Rinehart, her cousin, was matron of honor. Their gowns were of maize colored Spanish lace over chiffon of the same shade with orange colored ribbon sashes. They wore picture hats of maize colored straw trimmed with ribbon of a darker shade. The other bridal attendants, Mrs. Glen Walker Cole of Corning, N. Y., a cousin of the bride; Mrs. James Crate Larkin of Buffalo, Mrs. Richard Porter Davidson and Miss Louise Ireland of Washington, D. C.; Miss Mary McLean of Massillon and Miss Barbara Burns of Omaha, wore frocks of corn colored chiffon veiled with Spanish lace of the same shade and reseda green ribbon sashes. They wore picture hats of corn colored straw trimmed with green ribbons. All the attendants carried bouquets of varied Spring flowers with pink predominating.

J. Austin McAleenan Jr. of New York was best man for Mr. Hoover. The ushers were John F. White and Alan Gillespie Rinehart of New York, Beauregard Sweeney of San Francisco, William T. Harris of Detroit, George P. MacNichol Jr. of Toledo, Fairfax Stuart Landstreet Jr. and Philip McKnight Zenner of Huntington, W. Va.; Richard Porter Davidson, H. Spottswood White and F. Marion Law Jr. of Washington, D. C.

While the invitations to the church were limited more than 600 were invited to the reception at Almar, the Tully country estate on Feekes Lane, about two and a half miles from the church. Many of the guests motored from near-by estates, all of which are filled with house parties over the week-end. Special cars were attached to certain trains for Locust Valley from the Pennsylvania Station and returned with the guests after the reception.

The house was decorated with smilax, pink ramblers and Spring flowers. The bride and bridegroom received in the music room, which was decorated with Cybodium ferns and American Beauty roses.
