

1732 reconstructed census of Mennonites

Ernst Müller in 1895 in his book Geschichte der Bernischen Täufer listed the male Mennonites who were living on the east side of the Rhine River in the Oberpfalz, Germany in November 1731. The list stated the name of the congregation and then listed the names of the male Mennonites. It also listed the leaders of each congregation. The villages in the list are found in Baden. In a second list in Müller's book is a list of the congregations on the west side of the Rhine River in Germany, listing the leaders of the congregation, but instead of naming each male Mennonite in the congregation, the number of families was given. The date for that list is January 1732. Both lists can be found in the Archives of the United Mennonite Church of Amsterdam, Holland.

I have based this 1732 reconstructed census on my family files. I have gone through the family files and tried to place all of the families in the correct location. Corrections or updates by readers would be appreciated. There is no census list for the 1732, but because of the two lists that Ernst Müller mentioned in his book, we have somewhat of a clearer idea of how many families lived in Germany and in which villages. I have also added Mennonites who lived in America, France and Switzerland based on my family files and on Jura Mennonite lists printed by Delbert Gratz.

Here is the reconstructed list of Mennonite males living on the west side of the Rhine River in present day Germany. The names of the congregations given by Müller are underlined with the names of the villages listed under the name of the congregation. Müller lists the number of families in the congregation with associated villages.

Ibersheim Congregation 56 families, includes Osthofen, Herrnsheim and Mückenhäuserhof. I believe that the villages of Alsheim, Guntersblum, Rudelsheim and Hamm were included as well. I have come up with 57 families. The ministers were Jacob Müller, Hans Strickler and Hans Jacob Hiestand. The deacons were Ulrich Hackmann and Abraham Brubacher.

Jura, Switzerland Congregation¹. Many of the names on this list were taken from Delbert Gratz' list of Anabaptists living in the Jura Mountains. Not all of the names listed on Gratz' lists were Anabaptists so I have only listed those that I am sure were indeed Anabaptists. The place of origin is listed in brackets []. All of the villages of origin are located in Canton Bern, Switzerland.
