

so much to see the light as to meet its famous keeper, Ida Lewis. She is over fifty years of age now, her hair is slightly streaked with gray, and her face is somewhat rugged and weather-beaten, but she can handle an oar as quickly and as well as when she began her record of life-saving with the rescue of four small boys whose boat had capsized in the harbor. Her salary is $750 and two tons of coal a year. She is the only woman lightkeeper in the country, and the department admits that no light on the coast is better cared for than is Lime Rock by its heroic keeper Ida Lewis.

The Kavanaugh Budget, a fussy little paper published semi-occasionally in the interest of the Campers of the Kavanaugh Camp Grounds says: There seems to be quite an attraction around Mr. Harvey Lewis' cottage, possibly due to the playful black kittens which amuse many, but more likely to the young ladies that congregate each evening and fill the air with sweet song and merry laughter. Seldom have we heard sweeter music than that from the French harp in the hands of the fairest occupant of No. 6. Mr. Henry J. Lewis, Jr., and his family have been on Kavanaugh several summers.

A curiosity exciting much attention is a wind seam taken from the heart of a mammoth cypress tree, which was cut on the shingle mill tract of Finley & Lewis, in Walnut Bottom, Ky. The tree was 130 feet in height, and measured six feet two inches in diameter at the stump. It was forty-six feet from the ground to the first limb, and twenty feet up the limb it was thirty inches in diameter. Expert timber men estimate that there are 6,000 feet of timber in the tree.

GENEALOGICAL RECORDS.

Explanations, Abbreviations, etc.

For convenience the records of the various Lewis families are divided into Books and each Book into chapters. At the head of each Book appears the name of the earliest known ancestor of that family. The List of Books is a complete index to the Books as published to this time. New Books will be added from time to time as new branches of the Lewis family are found. As soon as Books are proved parts of others they will be merged into the Books to which they belong. Each name is numbered when first printed and whenever the name is repeated this number follows in brackets. The abbreviations commonly used in genealogical work are used; as b. for born; d. died; m. married; m. (1) first wife; d. u. daughter; unm. not married; v. p. see page; etc. Instead of repeating the name of a place in the same paragraph initials only are frequently given.

CHAPTER XXV.

BY DR. Z. EDWARDS LEWIS, NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y.

Carll A. Lewis, Esq.:

MY DEAR SIR:—I have duly received your card and your "marked copy" of this month's (July) number of your unique publication entitled LEWISIANA. I have never taken much stock in genealogies for Americans, but freely admit I may be quite wrong in that. However, since you are at my branch of the family I feel under obligation to endeavor to have as correct a list published as possible. Were I not a very busy man in things vital to the present and future, I would take pleasure in contributing all the authentic and I cognize but anyway at my earliest convenience I will send you such bare information as I possess or can without too much difficulty lay my hands upon.

Meanwhile, allow me to set you right in several particulars in your July number. Under the heading of "Notes" you refer to your correspondent of p. 4 (who writes of my family) as "Rev. John C. Lewis". That most admirable man is the REV. JOHN C. LOWRIE, Secretary-Emeritus of the B. of For. Miss. of the Pres. church. I am sorry to say he is not a member of the Lewis family, even remotely. Not unnaturally, as he trusted to verbal information from my sister, Mrs. Wood, his statements are not all absolutely correct. My grandfather's name was Zechariah, not Zachariah. One of my indelible memories of my father, Rev. John Nitchie Lewis, is in relation to this matter. As a little fellow, I went to him one day and asked how to spell my first name. His reply ipsissimis verbis, was, "Z-e-c-h-a-r-i-a-h. You were named for a holy prophet, my son, and not for a wicked King." But my name came through my grandfather, and possibly through other ancestors before him, though I know of none. Very possibly the older Isaac, wishing to find a suitable praenomen to go with his own, when naming his twins, saw some good reason for coupling this special prophet with the patriarch. At any rate they became Isaac and Zechariah. Dr. Lowrie is in error again, in thinking he knew my grandfather "in the forties", for he died in Nov., 1840, soon after my birth. It may have been the thirties or the twenties, as Dr. Lowrie is an octogenarian.

My father (J. N. L.) was the eldest son, not the "second", but was not the eldest child, of his parents, and was the first not the "second" son in the ministry. His next younger brother, Rev. William Beale Lewis, was not settled in New York city, but in Brooklyn. My aunt in Morristown is the widow of Augustus C. Richards, but her name is not "Augusta."

[The present offices of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian church are on "Fifth Avenue, on the corner of Twelfth Street—a remarkably fine old mansion, the home of the late James Lenox. It is one of the historic houses of New York. Now that it is no longer a private dwelling, many sight-seers are attracted by its Gothic architecture to visit its wide halls, its carved woodwork and high wainscoting, its two storied library and picture gallery"—The Outlook, Aug. 18, 1894.]

CHAPTER CXLIV (SAMUEL).

BY M. S. LEWIS, LEADVILLE, COLO.

Everett Channing (1712 v. p. 120 Vol. IV) Lewis was educated in the public schools of Providence, R. I., and Worcester, Mass. He learned the machinist trade at the former place but is now head draughtsman at the Wardwell Sewing Machine Works at Woonsocket, R. I. He has been a life long temperance worker and at present is a member of the United

Order of the Golden Cross. He m. July 11, 1877 at Prov. by Rev. Augustus Woodbury, Martha Emma, b. Sept. 17, 1850 dau. of Jeremiah Cole. ch. b. Providence, R. I. 1921.I. Emma Gertrude b. Aug. 31, 1878. 1922.II. Ralph Claffin b. June 19, 1884. 1923.III. Helen Irene b. Apr 27, 1894.

Myron Seaver (1713) Lewis was educated in the public schools of Providence, R. I., and Worcester, Mass. He learned the trade of book binding at which he worked a number of years. He afterwards kept books and in 1880 entered the employ of Gorham Manf'g Co. in the case department. He was employed by that company eleven years or until 1891 when he went to Colorado. He was book-keeper but now has charge of the storehouse of the Arkansas Valley Smelting Co. at Leadville.

He is a descendant of Roger Williams, being of the ninth generation. He is an ardent temperance worker, and a member of the Sons of Veterans in R. I. and Colorado. He m. July 12, 1881 at Prov. by Rev. Frederick A. Hinckley, Laura Beulah b. Sept. 27, 1848 at Scranton, Pa., d. June 8, 1889 at Prov., R. I., widow of Adoniram Judson Wood, and dau. of Mark J. and Mary Wight (Pierson) Axford of Oxford, N.J. (v. Sept., 1889, LEWIS LETTER.)

Myron S. and Laura B. Lewis had 1 ch. b. Providence, R. I.

1924.I. Myron Wood b. Mar. 9, 1889, d. Prov Oct. 2, 1890, buried at Swansea, Mass.

CHAPTER CXLV (ISRAEL).

The Editor has always supposed that the Augustus J. Lewis who m. Susanna dau. of Simeon and Penelope (Kenyon) Perry was the Augustus J. (632 v. p. 51 Vol. III) whom the town records give as son of Amos (87) and Mary (Hoxsie) Lewis and in that belief has worked out a long line of descendants.

But he is unable to take the "burden of proof" which the letter on p. 60 of this number throws upon him and hence has started these records as a new Book. Who can help?

CHAPTER CXLVI (JAMES).

By ROLLIN H. COOKE, PITTSFIELD, MASS.
REV. CHARLES B. LEWIS.

Charles Byron Lewis was born near Delaware, O., Oct. 18, 1839. His father, Jabish Y. Lewis (1210 v. p. 22 Vol. IV) was a local preacher, and his mother, Lydia Foster Lewis, of Williamstown, Mass., was an educated Christian, who though dying when he was ten exerted a great influence over him. She prayed each day with her six sons, placing her hand upon the head of each. Three of them were regular ministers; two died young, as class-leaders; and the youngest died at 12, a faithful Christian. Charles was converted before his mother's death, at Newark, O., and at the age of 11 joined the Methodist Episcopal church at Johnstown, O., where he was living with his uncle, David Lewis, of Ohio Conference.

During the next five years, while a student at Delaware, he was entreated by his half-brother, a successful lawyer in Brooklyn, N. Y., to come to him, under promise that "he would educate him for business." His father urged him to go but he pursued his course at the poor students' hall. At 16 he began teaching; two years later was licensed, and continued studying, teaching, and preaching, until Lincoln's call for three months' men, when he enlisted in Co. H., 87th O. Vol. Inf., returning after six months to continue his course at Delaware. In the autumn of 1862 he received work on Amesville Circuit, his brother, J. W. Lewis, being preacher in charge. June 23, 1863, he was commissioned 2d Lieut. in Co. A, 129th Reg., O. Vol. Inf., returning after nine months on discharge for hemorrhage of the lungs.

A cousin of mine, the late Capt. Henry Howell Lewis, of Baltimore, went to England and studied the genealogy of our family. He found that Robert Lewis, the emigrant, was the fourth son of Sir Edward Lewis of Van and Ednigton, Wales, and not the son of Gen. Robert Lewis, of Brecon, Wales, as is stated in Chap. 13, p. 137, Vol. IV. He traced the family back fourteen generations from Sir Edward Lewis to Kydnor Lewis of Wales. His daughter Miss Virginia T. Lewis, has all the papers and is an authority on the subject. She would be very glad to give you all the necessary information.

[Many interested subscribers are hoping that Miss Virginia T. Lewis will in an early number favor them with some of this material. Ed.]

CHAPTER XXIV.

(From Louisville, Ky., Courier-Journal.)

In the early fall a suit will be filed in the United States Court by the heirs of Col. Fielding Lewis, which will involve property valued at three million or more dollars. The property in question consists of 30,000 acres of land, 11,000 of which is situated in Henry county, Ky., and the remaining 19,000 is in Warren county. A portion of the latter tract is included in the city limits of Bowling Green.

As the title to the land is dated back over 100 years, there is much interesting history connected with the suit. In 1778 Col. Fielding Lewis and his brother-in-law, Gen. Geo. Washington, located on and laid claim to vast tracts of land in the western part of Virginia. at that time known as Kentucky county. This afterward became the present State of Kentucky. Col. Lewis' portion, which consisted of 30,000 acres, was left by will, in 1781, to his six sons, John, Fielding, Jr., George, Lawrence, Robert and Howell. At that time this portion of Virginia was but sparsely settled, a great portion of it being a dense wilderness. At Col. Lewis' death the land was not considered of great value and was neglected, although the title for it was retained. The county of Kentucky became a State in 1790, and as settlers began to be attracted here the land gradually became more valuable.

In 1826 the heirs of Fielding and Lawrence, the only two of the six sons having issue, brought suit through their agents to dispossess such persons as had settled upon the land, and to have it restored to them. The suit, after being in the courts ten years, was finally decided in favor of the plaintiffs, and the land was restored to its former owners. The Sheriff was directed to have the land vacated, but owing to the neglect of the agent of the Lewis heirs to pay a claim of $80 this was never done.

The surviving heirs to this vast estate are George Washington Lewis and his sister Hannah, whose father on his deathbed, in 1852, informed them of the property and of the existence of a missing will. A search was made for the will, but it was not found until two years ago. It was thought that the will had been filed at Frankfort, and it was there that a search was made without success. It was finally found in Warren county.

Mr. John C. Lewis, the well-known dry goods dealer of this city, is a son of Mr. George Washington Lewis, and is consequently much interested in the suit.

By H. J. LEWIS, JR., LOUISVILLE, KY.

GEN. ANDREW LEWIS' WILL.

"In the name of God, Amen. I, Andrew Lewis, of the county and parish of Botetourt, make this, my last will and testament. I resign my soul to its Creator in all humble hopes of its future happiness, as in the disposal of a being infinitely good. As to my body, I leave it to be buried at the discretion of my executors hereinafter named. And as to my worldly estate, I dispose of it in the following manner and form:

First. I give to my beloved wife two negro men and two negro women for her lifetime, with a right to work one-third part of the farm I live on, called and known by the name of Birchfield. Also such part of the stock, not exceeding the sixth part, as she may find it necessary for her support for life.

To my son John, I give the tract of land on which he lives, containing 470 acres. Also a tract of land on both sides of Greenbrier river, at the mouth of Ewing's Creek, containing 480 acres. Also 1,000 acres on Sinking creek, in the Kentucky county part of my 5,000 tract, and that he take 1,000 acres in a body, at either end of this tract as may best please him.

To my son Samuel I give all my lands near Staunton, in Augusta county, there being three distinct tracts, to-wit: the Stone House tract containing 470 acres, and a tract joining the lower end thereof, on which I lived, containing 630 acres, and the third, joining the south-east side of the two above named tracts containing 185 acres, deeded to me by Robert Beverly. Also a tract of land in Greenbrier county, on the Sink-hole lands, containing 1,200 acres. I also give him my gold watch.

To my son Thomas, I give the tract of land joining the upper end of the tract I live on, known by the name of Burks or Old Place, containing 283 acres, and on the north side of Roanoke river. Also a tract of land on the north side of Greenbrier river, near to Weaver's Nob, and known by the name of Richland, containing 1,170 acres. Also a tract in Greenbrier county, on which John Cook lives, containing 500 acres and known by the name of Falling Spring tract. Also a tract containing 200 acres, joining the southeast end of the Warm Spring tract, and on both sides of the Warm Spring branch.

He died in early life, in his 25th year, and scarcely anything is left of him on earth but the colour of his name, the memory of his talents and virtues. The best of his writings are in prose, descriptions of scenery and delineations of character. His Mammoth Cave and Wanderings in the Green Run Country are productions of great beauty and felicity of execution. Ah! quis desiderio it aut modero tam chari capitas. His genial, generous and affectionate nature attracted to him many warm hearts who loved not less than they admired him."

CHAPTER X.

FROM LIFE OF THE REV. SAMUEL SAVAGE LEWIS BY AGNES SMITH LEWIS.

On Wednesday, Sept. 9th, 1857, Mr. Lewis left Liverpool for Quebec, and passing through Montréal and Toronto, began on the farm of Mr. Sewell, South Yarra, a repetition of the life he had led in England (last two years) with the exception that beet-root and Indian corn shared his attention with turnips and wheat, and that whole weeks seem to have been devoted to digging potatoes. Three years were passed in similar fashion. * *

In 1861 he obtained a situation on the Prince Consort's Model Norfolk Farm, near Windsor, and devoted himself to his duties, which in the year following were pleasantly varied by his being frequently deputed to attend on foreign visitors, especially at the time of the Great Exhibition. * * * His diaries during the four years of his stay are a monotonous record of farm work, relieved by occasional bursts of despondency or impatience with the life he was leading, expressed chiefly in Greek. * * *

From this time (an operation performed on his eyes, Nov. 16, 1864) his power of seeing was curious. He wore powerful spectacles, which enabled him to see minute objects quite near. Without the spectacles he could describe objects on the far horizon, but there was a middle distance of a few yards where he did not recognize his best friends.

Apr. 5, 1813, dau. of Samuel and Elizabeth (Thompson) Hart, of Farmington, Ct. He had a deed June 12, 1772 from Ezra Fellows, of Sheffield, Mass., of land on Maple Hill, in West Stockbridge, originally laid to David Naunannekanuck. At first town meeting in W. S. June 28, 1774, Benjamin Lewis, was made clerk and treasurer, having settled in town from Avon, Ct., then Northington, a part of Farmington.

Before he left Northington, a church was organized in 1750 and the meetings were held at the house of Benjamin Lewis until the meeting house was completed in 1754. The house was on the east side of the Farmington River, near the old burying ground, but no trace remains, nor was there any in 1829 when Capt. Morgan Lewis' father pointed it out as the place of his birth. The Hist. of Hartford Co., page 5, gives facts relating to the organization of the church which grew out of separate meetings held as early as 1746.

The late Capt. Morgan Lewis, of Hartford, Ct., thought that Benjamin was son of another Benjamin, and it is quite probable that the Benjamin at whose house meetings were held, was the father of Benjamin b. 1729, for the latter was not married until 1754 and was not likely to have been a householder in 1750 although it was not impossible. Capt. Lewis thought that a Benjamin was the one who first came to this country. 5 ch. b.

AUGUSTUS JOHNSON LEWIS, 1760—1851, Charlestown, R. I.

CHAPTER I.

EAST GREENWICH, R. I., June 17, 1890.

MR. C. A. LEWIS, DEAR SIR:

Your last duly received * * * * Augustus Johnson Lewis, Sen., was an illegitimate child of Mary Lucas, the daughter of Augustus Lucas, Jr., whose father Augustus Lucas, Sen., came to Newport in 1700. He was a French Huguenot and had a son and a daughter who afterwards was known as Madam Johnson. Augustus Johnson was a lawyer and King's Attorney at the breaking out of the Revolutionary War. This Johnson and Mary Lucas were cousins and by him she had this Augustus Johnson Lucas so called. They were rich and the affair was hushed up. They bought a large tract of land in Charlestown. The child was placed in the hands of one Joseph Hoxsie. The name was changed from Lucas to Lewis and at the death of Hoxsie the whole estate was owned by this Lewis family and portions of it are still owned by members of the family.

What I have stated was told me by Augustus Johnson Lewis, Jr., and he also made the statement that there was no Lewis outside of their own immediate family that was in any way connected with them. The elder Augustus J. lived to be a very old man. I knew him in his lifetime, but not until he had partially lost his faculties. He was a Revolutionary Pensioner for many years. * * * *

Wishing you success in your investigations, I remain, Very Truly Yours,

JOHN R. PROUD.

EXPLANATION:—The Roman numerals at the left denote the generations. Stars are placed after the names of the youngest member of each family. All on the same line are of the same generation, and hence are consins with the exception of names between the stars which are brothers and sisters. If you preserve your copies, and of course you do, send for an extra copy, cut this page into strips on the division lines and paste the strips together. Then you will have a complete diagram of your family so far as it has been published. All additions and corrections you can furnish will be very thankfully received.
