But makest glad and radiant with thy presence
The meadow and the lin."

Charles H. Lewis is a member of the Little Rock (Ark.) Silver Club. Have you read Coin's Financial School, the book of the times?.... Fred B. All the sales are governed by law and the firm gives a bond to insure square dealing. The sales are held once a month.... The house of R. Lewis & Co., of Portland, Me., from 1860 to 1880, built, operated and controlled 38 vessels of various sizes, to which two more were added subsequently, an aggregate of nearly 17,000 tons. All of the largest were engaged in the South American trade, making during their lives the home port twice every year, bringing wealth to their owners and business to the city. Seven are now afloat, and two of these have degenerated into coal barges. Besides these forty vessels, the house managed by charter many more, carrying not only the produce of others but also the output of its own mills in Canada, and now after an honorable career of nearly 40 years it is forced by adverse circumstances to call a meeting of its creditors with a prospect of finally winding up its affairs—like its own ships dismantled and destroyed by the force of the elements.

One of Washington's Swords.

Washington by his will left his swords to his nephews. George Lewis, who had second choice, chose the one Washington wore on public occasions while President. This sword was worn by Washington when he resigned his commission at Annapolis. Maj. George Lewis (d. 1821) during his life time gave the sword to his eldest son, Samuel. Samuel (father of 4 sons and 2 daus.) bequeathed it to his eldest son, George W. Lewis, a lawyer of Westmoreland-co., Va. He gave it early in life to his youngest brother, the late Capt. Henry Howell Lewis (d. Mar. 17, 1893, Baltimore, Md.) then in the U. S. Army.

On Mar. 31, 1888, a bill was introduced in Congress authorizing the Secretary of War to buy this sword for $20,000. This bill was never acted upon.

Who has this sword now?

The Robber Lewis.

In the diary of the late Samuel James McCormick, who lived two miles south of Doubling Gap, is the following:

"On Tuesday, the 20th of June, 1830, the sheriff of Franklin-co. arrived with a party in search of David Lewis (the robber, v. p. 47, Vol. V.) and early the next morning proceeded to the mountain southeast of the Sulphur Springs, where they discovered a cave or den, where they found blankets and other articles known to belong to Lewis. But according to the best informations the inhabitants had decamped on the Thursday before."

GENEALOGICAL RECORDS.

Explanations, Abbreviations, etc.

For convenience the records of the various Lewis families are divided into Books and each Book into chapters. At the head of each Book appears the name of the earliest known ancestor of that family. The List of Books is a complete index to the Books as published to this time. New Books will be added from time to time as new branches of the Lewis family are found. As soon as Books are proved parts of others they will be merged into the Books to which they belong. Each name is numbered when first printed and whenever the name is repeated this number follows in brackets. The abbreviations commonly used in genealogical work are used; as b. for born; d. died; m. married; m. (1) first wife; dau. daughter; unm. not married; v. p. see page; etc. Instead of repeating the name of a place in the same paragraph initials only are frequently given.

Hints for Contributors.

In writing matter for the printer use only one side of the sheet, note paper preferred. In giving dates, give year, month and day whenever known. Write all middle names in full. Answer the following questions as fully as possible and give names and addresses of such people as you think may be able to complete the record but get it yourself if possible and spare the editor. Old newspaper files, tomb stones, family Bibles and records, official records of the town, school and church, burial certificates, county and probate records, old deeds and letters are some of the more important sources of information. Don't forget however the stores of information which the old people can give—Get them interested and then "pump them dry." Most important of all don't get discouraged yourself. How can you interest others, if you yourself are not alive with enthusiasm?

Family Record Questions.

1. Name in full; initials are often a source of confusion.
2. When and where born?
3. When and where married and by whom?
4. To whom married? Always give name in full and in case of the wife give her maiden name.
5. Give date of birth of your "better half or halves."
6. Give cause, place and date of death.
7. Names of parents-in-law, being sure to give maiden name of your mother-in-law.
8. Place or places of residence.
9. What is your occupation?
10. When and where educated?
11. What public office have you held?
12. What service in army or navy?
13. What traditions in your family?
14. Give any interesting events in family history.
15. Names of your children with places and dates of birth.
16. If they are married answer questions 3 to 15 inclusive for them.
17. Dates of death for ch. dying unm.
18. Names of your brothers and sisters with dates of birth and as much more of their family history as you can give or obtain from them the complete record.
19. Names of your parents. Be sure to give your mother's maiden name with names of her parents.
20. Dates of birth, marriage and death.
21. Names of your father's parents.
22. Dates of birth, marriage and death.
23. Names of children with dates of birth.
24. Any further history of these uncles and aunts that you can obtain.
25. Anything you can learn of your earlier ancestry. Much of this will probably be fragmentary. It is one object of the LEWISIANA to make this complete for you but you must do your part.

CHAPTER XXIX.

HONORED IN THE NORTHWEST.

FRANK P. LEWIS, FORMERLY OF LISLE, ELECTED STATE SENATOR.

Frank Pardee (3) v. p. 84, Vol. IV) Lewis, Republican candidate for State Senator from the Twenty-seventh district, (Washington) was born on the 10th day of March, 1851, in the town of Triangle, Broome-co., N. Y. He prepared for college at the Whitney's Point, (N. Y.) academy, and in September, 1870, entered the class of 1874, in Rochester university, where he joined the D. K. E. Greek letter fraternity. After a clerkship in the law office of Hon. Alexander McDowell he was admitted September, 8, 1874, to the bar of all the courts of his state, and immediately began the active practice of his profession in Lisle, N. Y., where he remained until, on Thanksgiving day, 1839, he left his native state for Seattle. Mr. Lewis was twice elected president of his village, and for several years had been a member and president of the board of education, which office he held at the time he left for this state. In 1881 he was a delegate to the Republican state convention held in the city of New York. For five years from January 1, 1878, he was the law partner of his preceptor, under the firm of McDowell & Lewis, and until Mr. McDowell retired from practice in 1883. The subject of this sketch takes great interest in genealogy, and was the originator of the Lewis League and its monthly paper the LEWIS LETTER. Mr. Lewis is a man of unquestioned integrity, great business ability, and stands high in the estimation of the members of the Republican party and people at large. — Whitney's Point Reporter.

A LOUISVILLE, KY., CLIPPING.

It may be taken as a compliment to Louisville that Prof. James Lewis Howe, one time the chemist of the Louisville Polytechnic and dean of the Hospital College of Medicine, has been elected General Secretary of the American Association for the Advancement of Science for the association's next meeting. Prof. How went away from the Polytechnic some months ago to occupy the chair of chemistry in the Washington and Lee University at Lexington, Va. His selection for that honor was a pleasure to his many friends here; now the fact of his elevation in the largest and most representative American scientific body is brought pleasantly and prominently into notice by the publication in the American University Magazine of an article from his pen on the A. A. S. and its work. To call this article interesting would be unfairly faint praise. It is a resume of facts so condensed as not to be prolix, and so worded as not to be above or beyond the comprehension of the many intelligent people who can and do take an interest in the purely intellectual progress of the country without themselves claiming the distinction of being "scientific."

CHAPTER LIV.

TWO SAMPLE LETTERS FROM THE EDITOR'S DESK.

Dear Sir:

I have the record of Stillman (XLII 30 v. p. 76 Vol. IV) Lewis family and will send it. Your paper for this month (January) has what I call a rich find; going two generations back of Benjamin sure and perhaps three, is something I have wanted to do for a long time. I spent some three weeks in Boston this fall at the Genealogical Rooms looking up ancestry. Among other things I tried to trace back of Benjamin Lewis of Billerica and could not. I stopped at Billerica part of a day, hunted out the double headstone of Benjamin Lewis and his wife and copied it.

I have found also that on my father's side I trace back to Sarah, dau. of William (2 Book XII) Lewis of Farmington, Ct. So you see my mother being a Lewis I am more than half Lewis myself.

H. F. RYTHER,
Barton, Vt.

Dear Sir:

Your postal card and a copy of LEWIS-

IANA addressed to my great-aunt, Mrs. Elijah Peck, Middle Haddam, were forwarded to me, she having died in June, 1893. She lived with me for several years just before her decease, and left me a little "Birthday-book" full of dates of family events. She and my mother's mother were daughters of Ozias Lewis, Jr., and I am much interested in completing the genealogy of our line. I am a very busy man, but just as soon as I can find time, I mean to arrange the information I possess, and complete the genealogy for your paper. I hope the Lewis family will some day publish a book covering the whole ground.

Yours truly,

CHAPTER XXXVI.

BY MARY STARLING PAYNE, HOPKINSVILLE, KY.

My gr. father Gabriel J. (47) the only son of John (10) who had issue, was with his two brothers driven from home by the ill-treatment of his Armistead step-mother. He was for some years in a store in Philadelphia. One day while Congress was in session his uncle, Howell Lewis, private secretary of Gen. Washington, met him and laughed at him for being a "counter hopper." Throwing up his place he returned to Va., but soon went to Ky. to enter the public lands in the land office for his father. Here he acted for years as agent of the Revolutionary officers who were paid in land by the state of Virginia for their services. On the death of Mrs. George Washington in 1802, the executors of her estate employed him to survey and divide among the twenty-three heirs the 30000 acres or more of land which Gen. Washington had in Ky. This he did "to the satisfaction of all concerned" as his uncle, Lawrence Lewis, tells him in a letter now in my possession. The record of Gabriel J. (47) corrected from p. 93 Vol. IV is Gabriel Jones (47) m. Nov. 20, 1807 in Russellville, Ky., Mary b. Nov. 24, 1782, dau. of Maj. Richard and Lucy (Bowker) Bibb. He d. Feb. 7, 1864. ch.

CHAPTER XXXVII.

BY J. M. McALLISTER, ATLANTA, GA.

I have read in a late number of LEWISIANA what purports to be, an account of the tragic end of Lilburn and Isham Lewis by Atlanta H. Taylor Pool. That there is enough truth in this to give colour to the fiction, there can be no doubt, but as a whole, it is a sensational "newspaper story." The record of the indictment and the tradition of the suicide of Lilburn Lewis, are no doubt true, the balance is fiction pure and simple, built upon these facts. Nor is there anything, except the imagination of the writer, to sustain the theory that the indictment had any foundation, or in any way gave rise to the suicide.

What "Pool" says in regard to the suicide and its causes, is entitled to the same credit, as is his account of Isham Lewis after the suicide and no more, and this latter is absolutely incredible.

My uncle, Robert Lewis Cobbs, was surgeon of Coffee's Brigade at the Battle of New Orleans. He attended all the wounded and saw all the dead. There were only thirteen (six were killed) altogether. Isham Lewis was not there. My uncle had been in Ky. with his Lewis relatives and knew Isham personally. He spent the last eight years of his life at my mother's in Va. and from time to time gave me most minute accounts of the battle.

It is not my intention to come to the defence of any one, in contravention of history, but in the interest of the "truth of history" to combat fiction as far as possible. The whole history of this affair, is that Lilburn and Isham Lewis were indicted, that Lilburn suicided and that Isham was never brought to trial.

CHAPTER XXX.

The Editor recently was much interested in the Memoirs of John Howe Peyton by the author of the History of Augusta County, Va., Col. John Lewis Peyton. From these letters containing many interesting items concerning members of Book XLV the Editor hopes to make some extracts when he can secure a copy of the book. It is to be regretted that the records given are not more complete especially in the matter of dates. The "pedigree" given is not so complete as that in Vol. IV of LEWISIANA which is tantalizing enough to "ye genealogist."

CHAPTER XXXI.

By HENRY J. LEWIS, JR., LOUISVILLE, KY.

The following extracts are of interest in regard to the earliest ancestor of this branch of the Lewises.

For over fifty years subsequent to 1738, Augusta County, Va., comprised what is now the States of West Virginia, Kentucky, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan and part of Pennsylvania. Col. John Lewis was the first white settler of all that territory.

Col. John Lewis, the Founder, was constituted the leader of the community until 1745. In 1745, Dec. 9th, he was placed at the head of the court, and continued in this position until he went down, nearly twenty years later, in peace to the grave.

The first sermon ever delivered in the county was preached in Col. John Lewis' house, by Mr. James Thompson, in 1739.

Possessing an ample fortune, Col. Lewis dispensed much hospitality, especially to strangers. While entertaining with generosity, he was careful that his establishment should not degenerate into luxury.

As from this time, 1752, John Lewis, the Founder, is uniformly styled Colonel, it cannot be doubted that he was about this time commissioned Colonel, or chief officer of the militia.

He was also called "Lord of the Hills."

Among the old families who have left Augusta County are the Lewises, who removed to Bath, Monroe and Greenbrier Counties, and the Valley of the Kanawha, and have thence branched off into the south, the west and southwestern States; the Prestons, who removed to Montgomery county and have since followed the path of the Lewises.

CHAPTER III.

By M. LEON LEWIS, MALDEN, MASS.

Daniel (6) m. Mary Hull, Jan. 8, 1810. He was a man of unusually short stature and during the latter part of his life worked as a tailor. He was undoubtedly a man of brains, and his humble calling, in his day of pioneer settlement, must not be taken as indicating any social or intellectual inferiority. At one time he was connected with a weekly newspaper, published near or at Buffalo, and wrote editorials for it on the then controverted question of whether the Erie Canal should end at Black Rock or Buffalo Creek.

From our Washington Letter we receive the following in regard to Daniel Lewis: "He was a courteous gentleman, a fair poet, and an honorable man. He it was who was taken prisoner in the War of 1812 and taken to Canada and imprisoned, but sent back to Buffalo on parole of honor, to return at a given day unless he could effect an exchange. I have heard my mother tell of the anguish she felt when that day arrived and no British prisoner had been found to take his place.

My father bade good-bye to his sorrowful family and prepared to take the boat, when lo—a man appeared and he rejoined his happy family. Those were terrible days when the British troops with their Indian allies burned Buffalo, and my mother, with a babe in her arms and a little girl by the hand, fled out of Buffalo to escape the Indians. Then it was that her home was burned and all the savings destroyed and the end of the war found them so poor that your grandfather and his brothers had no easy time to get their education, having to struggle along."
