The Society of the Cincinnati in Connecticut.

1783-1893.

BY REV. A. N. LEWIS, CHAPLAIN OF THE SOCIETY IN CONNECTICUT.

THE SOCIETY OF THE CINCINNATI was organized in the Cantonments of the Continental Army on the banks of the Hudson, May 13, 1783.

Gen. Knox, if not the founder, was the principal promoter of the movement. The Baron Steuben also "had something to do with it."*

It was near the close of the Revolution, in some respects the darkest and gloomiest days of the struggle. The disbandment of the Army was near at hand. The pay of the officers and soldiers was in arrears and Congress, tho' often petitioned, did not seem disposed to do anything for the relief of the Army. Many of the officers were bankrupt. Washington, in a letter to Hamilton, says: "It is affirmed to me that a large portion of the officers have no better prospect than a jail."

It was at this time that an anonymous letter, counseling the most radical measures, was scattered thro' every State Line in the camp upon the banks of the Hudson. There was open mutiny in the Pennsylvania Line, in Green's Army at the South, and among Putnam's troops quartered at Redding, Conn. It was the darkest period of the whole war.

The situation suggested to the officers a union among themselves, to endure beyond the reach of Congress, and even after they should be disbanded. Accordingly, in the early part of May, 1783, proposals for the establishment of such an Association were submitted to the State Lines of the Army encamped upon the Hudson. One officer from each Line was informally appointed to meet the general officers on the 10th of May, at Baron Steuben's Headquarters.* The result of their deliberations was the Order of SOCIETY OF THE CINCINNATI.

THE INSTITUTION (or Constitution) provided for a General, State and District Societies.† The State Societies were to meet on the 4th of July of each year, and the General Society triennially. The General Society was to consist of its officers and five delegates from each State Society.

An "order" or jewel was agreed upon. It consists of an American or bald eagle of gold and white enamel, with suitable emblems and inscriptions, suspended from a blue ribbon edged with white, the two colors symbolizing the alliance of France and the United States, to be worn attached to the left lapel of the coat, or on the left breast of the coat, or suspended from the neck.

The following officers were present at the Convention: the Baron Steuben, (who presided); Maj. Gen's. Heath, Howe and Knox; Brig. Gen's. Pattison, Hand, Huntington and Putnam;‡ Cols. Webb, H. Jackson and Corland; Lt. Cols. Huntington, Hdl and Maxwell; Capt. Shaw, (who acted as Secretary, and Lieut. Whiting.

*The Verplanck house in Fishkill still standing.

†No district societies were ever organized.

‡Brother of "old Put."

Thanksgiving.

BY ANNA LEWIS MCCONNELL, ELMIRA,
N. Y.

Give thanks, give thanks, O heart of mine!
For the pleasures you daily enjoy;
For the glorious sunlight that gilds all the earth,
Its radiant beams turning sadness to mirth,
Unmixed with a ray of alloy.
For this beautiful world, its rocks and its rills
And landscape fair to behold;
For the sweetness of flower, and song of the bird,
And music that thrills, till passion is stirred,
Giving praises we cannot withhold.
Give thanks for the sky that arches o'erhead
With its jewels of gold set in blue;
For the storm-king that threatens in grandeur sublime,
For the gift of the rain; free gift of Divine
That cometh for me and for you.

*Marshal Sparks.

For the breath of the wood as we gather its store:

Filling our souls with delight
For mountain and valley that echo our song,
And health-giving breeze as we wander along.

All nature unveiled in our sight.

Give thanks O my soul; for friendship and love

The love that never grows cold;
But liveth and waxeth till hearts blend in one,
And the life that we live is but Heaven begun
Ere reaching the upper fold.

GENEALOGICAL RECORDS.

Explanations, Abbreviations, etc.

For convenience the records of the various Lewis families are divided into Books and each Book into chapters. At the head of each Book appears the name of the earliest known ancestor of that family. The List of Books is a complete index to the Books as published to this time. New Books will be added from time to time as new branches of the Lewis family are found. As soon as Books are proved parts of others they will be merged into the Books to which they belong. Each name is numbered when first printed and whenever the name is repeated this number follows in brackets. The abbreviations commonly used in genealogical work are used; as b. for born; d. died; m. married; m. (1) first wife; dau. daughter; unmm. not married; v. p. see page, etc. Instead of repeating the name of a place in the same paragraph initials only are frequently given.

Hints for Contributors.

In writing matter for the printer use only one side of the sheet, note paper preferred. In giving dates, give year, month and day whenever known. Write all middle names in full. Answer the following questions as fully as possible and give names and addresses of such people as you think may be able to complete the record but get it yourself if possible and spare the editor. Old newspaper files, tomb stones, family Bibles and records, official records of the town, school and church, burial certificates, county and probate records, old deeds and letters are some of the more important sources of information. Don't forget however the stores of information which the old people can give. Get them interested and then "pump them dry." Most important of all don't get discouraged yourself. How can you interest others, if you yourself are not alive with enthusiasm?

CHAPTER LXXVIII.

By HELEN PERRY MAXWELL, N. Y. CITY.

Lieut. Noiman (489 v. p. 67, Vol. VI) was wounded in the battle of Cedar Creek (Oct. 19, 1864) and died in a hospital at Winchester, Va., on Nov. 16, 1864. In the sketch of his life in the "Record of the 114th Regiment N. Y. S. V.," it is stated that Norman Mitchell Lewis learned the carpenter's trade in Morrisville, and attended school in the village. In the spring of 1856, a few months before the death of his father, he took up his residence in Norwich, N. Y. His father was in the war of 1812, at Sacketts Harbor. His grandfather Beardslee was in the war of Independence, leaving a widow many years a pensioner, who died in 1857, at the advanced age of one hundred years and six months.

When the cry came for more men, the "carpenter boy" left the plane upon the bench to enter the army. He enlisted in Company C, under Captain Titus, and upon its organization was appointed First Sergeant. In August, 1863, he was promoted to Second, and in November following to First Lieutenant. He was wounded in the right arm at Sabine Cross Roads, and against his wishes, sent to New Orleans. Here he received thirty days leave of absence, visited his friends in the North and rejoined his Company at Morganza, La., two days before his leave expired.*** His funeral was attended from the residence of Mr. Romulus Lewis, brother of the deceased, the services being conducted by Rev. J. R. Lewis, Pastor of the Congregational church. The Madison Observer concluded a notice of the death of this gallant officer, in these words:

"He was a brave soldier and a good citizen, highly esteemed by his relatives and acquaintances, and his untimely fall is sincerely lamented by our whole community."

CHAPTER CCXLIII.

BY S. D. LEWIS, SYRACUSE, N. Y.

In 1846 my uncle, Prof. Tayler Lewis, for the purpose of gathering some statistics regarding his ancestry visited Rhode Island. In the town of North Kingston he found still living a sister of his father, Ruth Tillinghast (2729). In a retired part of the town of Exeter he found the Lewis family burying ground where lie buried his gt. grandfather Jonathan (50) Lewis and Jane his wife together with their five sons, Jonathan, John, Thomas, Caleb and Sylvester and their respective wives. Prof. Tayler Lewis also entered a house in Exeter built by his gt. gr. father, Jonathan (50 in 1734 when his gr. father, Sylvester (101) was seven (nine ? Ed.) years old and where his father, Capt. Samuel (2722) was born and reared. This house, in which both Jonathan (50) and Sylvester (101) died, was then owned and occupied by a descendant of Jonathan (50) named Bates.

Jonathan (50) b. 1690, d. 1783 ae. 93 years.

Sylvester (101) his son, b. 1725, d. 1817, ae. 92 years.

Capt. Samuel (2722 v. Query 43. p. 160 Vol. VI.) his son b. 1752, d. 1822, ae. 70 years.

Sylvester (2738) his son, b. 1788, d. 1874 ae. 86 years.

At the breaking out of hostilities between the Colonies and the mother country Samuel (2722) hastened to New York and enlisted in the 1st N. Y. Regt.; was promoted to its captaincy and served throughout the war. [In the record of service of Officers of the Revolution it is stated

"Samuel Lewis (N. Y.) Ensign 3rd N. Y., Nov. 21, 1776; Lieutenant March 1, 1780; transferred to 1st N. Y. Jan. 1, 1781 and served to June 3, 1783. Died Aug. 25, 1822." Ed.]

He was at the battles of Saratoga and the Siege of Yorktown and was an intimate friend of Washington. At the close of the war he settled in Albany, N. Y., m. a Miss Bloodgood and became a member and one of the founders of the Society of Cincinnati and his certificate of membership is still preserved at Albany. Later he removed to a tract of land bordering on the southern bank of the Hudson in Saratoga co. nearly opposite Fort Miller. Here he lived and died and here the descendants of his daughter live to this day.

CHAPTER CCXLIV. (SAMUEL.)

From Harper's Biblical Cyclopedia.

Taylor Lewis, D. D. LL. D., a distinguished Biblical scholar and Congregational divine, was born in Northumberland, N. Y., Mar. 27, 1802. He graduated from Union College in 1820, studied law in Albany, and being admitted to the bar entered on the practice of his profession at Fort Miller. In 1833 he gave up his practice of law and opened a classical school at Waterford, and in 1835 removed his school to Ogdensburg. In 1838 he was chosen professor of Greek in the University of New York, which chair he occupied until 1849, when he was appointed professor of the Greek language and literature in his Alma Mater, and occupied that position until his death, May 11, 1877. Through all the years of his professorate he was a thorough, indefatigable student of Oriental and Biblical literature. He employed his attainments to defend and illustrate the truths of divine revelation. Among his first publications were translations and texts of Plato's works, accompanied with valuable notes and critical dissertations. In 1855 he published his Six Days of Creation, the work by which he became widely known as one of the ablest defenders of divine revelation. Dr. Lewis contributed largely to magazines, both monthly and quarterly, and his contributions to religious journals were almost without number. [In 1856 he published The Bible and Science, in 1860 The Divine Human in the Scriptures, and in 1871 in association with E. W. Blyden and Theodore Dwight, The People of Africa, their Character, Condition and Future Prospects.—Ed.]

CHAPTER XCII.

BY ANNA LEWIS MCCONNELL, ELMIRA, N. Y.

In my father's (Luther 231, v p 21, Vol. VII.) family Bible is a brief history, which I hope soon to send to LEWISIANA. It is the history of three brothers who left England for America; one of them being my father's gt. gt. gr. father. [The Editor hopes to receive soon this bit of history although he must frankly confess that he has little or no faith in the "three brothers" tradition. It should be noticed that as Luther's (231) descent is George (1), James (6), John (35), John (51), James Hawkes (163), John (195), Luthur (231), that it was the gt. gr. father of his gt. gt. gr. father who came from England.

Luther's gt. gt. gr. father John was b. at Barnstable, Mass., Sept. 29, 1656, and came to Hingham in 1675. He was a blacksmith and his house, now used as a shoe store, stood on Main street where E. L. Corthill now (1888) resides. His mother was Sarah Lane the first white girl born at Hingham, Mass., (v p 22 and 30, Vol. II.). He probably never saw English shores.—Ed.]

FRANCIS LEWIS, Signer of the Declaration of Independence.

CHAPTER XX.

BY JULIA L. DELAFIELD, IN HER BIOGRAPHY OF MORGAN LEWIS.

In 1804, Colonel Burr and General Lewis were rivals for the office of Governor, the latter was the favorite of the Federal party, who generally gave him their votes and he was elected by a large majority.

The distinguishing act of the administration of General Lewis was the establishment of a permanent fund for the support of common schools. In his first address to Legislature we find the following paragraph: "I cannot conclude gentlemen without calling your attention to a subject which my worthy and highly respected predecessor in office had much at heart, and frequently, I believe, presented, though not perhaps in any official form to your view, the encouragement of literature. In a government resting on public opinion, and deriving its chief support from the affections of the people, religion and morality cannot be too sedulously inculcated. To them science is a handmaid; ignorance the worst of enemies. Literary information should be placed within the reach of every description of citizens, and poverty should not be permitted to obstruct the path to the fane of knowledge. Common schools, under the guidance of respectable teachers, should be established in every village, and the indigent educated at the public expense. The higher seminaries also should receive every support and patronage within the means of enlightened legislators. Learning would then flourish, and vice would be more effectually restrained than by volumes of penal statutes."

In a community such as ours the education of the people would, no doubt, have become in time the settled policy of the State; but we owe a debt of gratitude to General Lewis, that a measure of such vital importance was proposed and carried into effect as soon as the population of the State made it desirable, and its wealth was sufficient to meet the necessary expense.

How are you helping to make LEWISIANA a success?

JOHN LEWIS, Ireland to Virginia.

CHAPTER LI.

FROM HISTORY OF AUGUSTA CO., VA., BY COL. J. LEWIS PEYTON.

Thomas Lewis, the eldest son of the Founder, was born in Donegal, Ireland, April 27th, 1718, and died in Augusta, January 31st, 1790. He was a man of strong and cultivated mind, of spirit and enterprise, and during the colonial period and the Revolutionary War rendered important services to his country. In 1746, he was appointed Colonial surveyor of Augusta, and much of Washington's great wealth was acquired by surveys of land under his authority and in common with him. He and Col. John Wilson represented the county in the House of Burgesses almost uninterruptedly from 1745 to 1767, and they voted, in 1765, for Patrick Henry's celebrated resolutions declaring that this, "general assembly have the only exclusive right and power to lay taxes and impositions upon the inhabitants of this colony; that any efforts in an opposite direction are illegal, unconstitutional and unjust, and have a manifest tendency to destroy British as well as American freedom." In 1775, he was unanimously elected delegate to the Colonial Congress, and was one of the first to enroll his name among the "Sons of Liberty." He was Commissioner of the old confederacy of the thirteen colonies, in 1778, to treat with the Indian tribes who had been defeated at the battle of Point Pleasant, and successfully concluded his negotiations, thus setting free from the defense of the western border thousands of our best troops, who hastened to join the standard of Washington and fight for the independence of their country. He was a member of the convention which ratified the Constitution of the United States, and by a vote so nearly divided that the patriot yet rejoices at his country's escape from the anarchy which would have been the consequence of a different result. He urged with eloquence and ability the adoption of the Constitution and voted for its ratification. After the Revolution, Washington made him a visit at Lewiston, in Rockingham, and there arranged their land claims. Gov. Gilmer says in his sketches of Upper Georgia, p. 548: "My father, then a youth of nineteen, returning from my Grandfather Lewis', where he had been visiting my mother, met Washington fording the Shenandoah river in the dusk of the evening. Washington asked him how he should go to Mr. Lewis'. My father, taking him for some big Dutchman of the neighborhood, who was poking fun at him on account of his frequent visits to the Lewis family, answered, "follow your nose." It is a noticeable fact in a country of such rapid changes as ours that his descendants still own and reside upon his estate of Lewiston, near Port Republic, in the present county of Rockingham, (1882). His great grandson Hon. John F. Lewis, is the present Lieut.-Governor of Virginia; another great-grandson, Hon. L. L. Lewis, is Judge of the Supreme Court of Appeals of Virginia, and a great-great-grandson, D. S. Lewis, is U. S. Attorney for the Western District of Virginia.

CHAPTER XI.

BY MARIA A. LEWIS MANCHESTER, PROVIDENCE, R. I.

Jeremiah (18 v p 25, Vol. VII) one of eighteen children, had limited advantages when young, but being extremely fond of books, began at the age of eighteen to collect a library, and so acquired a good education, being familiar with chemistry, geology, and a great historian at the age of seventy years. But his great excellence was a sound understanding and solid judgment in public and private affairs. He greatly enjoyed the society of his friends, and always took care to converse on some useful topic that might tend to improve the minds of his children. By this means he always turned their attention to what was good, just and prudent.
