The Society of the Cincinnati in Connecticut.

1783-1893.

By REV. A. N. LEWIS, CHAPLAIN OF THE SOCIETY IN CONNECTICUT.

The objects of the society were "(1) to preserve inviolate those exalted rights and liberties for which they have fought and bled; (2) to promote and cherish, between the respective states, union and national honor; and (3) to cultivate affection and brotherly kindness among the officers, and particularly substantial acts of beneficence towards the officers and their families who unfortunately may be under the necessity of receiving it." The above are known as THE IMMUTABLE PRINCIPLES of the society and are read at every meeting, the members standing.

To carry out the third principle, a fund was established, each officer, on joining, to contribute a month's pay towards establishing it.

The INSTITUTION was signed by Gen. Washington, 9 Major Generals, 9 Brigadier Generals, 11 Colonels, 10 Lieut. Colonels, 7 Majors, 14 Captains, 24 Lieutenants, 5 Cornets, 2 Surgeons, and 1 Surgeon's Mate. Total 93.

Thirteen state societies were organized. From various causes seven (N. H., R. I., Conn., Delaware, Va., N. C. and Ga.) were disbanded. The R. I., Conn., Va., N. H., Del., and N. C. Societies have been re-organized, so that the society now exists in all of the original states except Georgia. The whole number of members in a few years increased to about 2500. The present number is about 500.

The Generals and Colonels of the French Army and officers of the French Navy above the grade of Captain, were also declared eligible and 72 were admitted. Of these 55 were princes, dukes, counts, viscounts, marquises, chevaliers and barons.

Washington signed first by request of the convention.

In a few months after its organization the society was violently attacked as an aristocracy, whose object was "to overthrow the Republic and usurp the supreme power!" It was opposed by Jefferson, John Adams, Franklin, John Jay and others. In some of the states threats of disfranchisement were made against the members. The popular excitement was almost equal to that which assailed the Masonic fraternity half a century later.

At the first general meeting in 1784 Washington was unanimously elected President-General, and remained in office to his death. The following succeeded him;

Alexander Hamilton, N. Y., 1800-1805.

Charles Colesworth Pinckney, S. C., 1805-1825.

Thomas Pinckney, S. C., 1825-1829.

Aaron Ogden, N. J., 1829-1839.

Morgan Lewis, N. Y., 1839-1844.

William Popham, N. Y., 1844-1848.

Henry A. S. Dearborn, Mass., 1848-1854.

Hamilton Fish, N. Y., 1854-1895.

William Wayne, Penn., 1896.

All of the above but the last two were officers of the Revolution.

Membership goes down from father to eldest son. If the eldest son's line fails, then to the second son's line. If all the male lines fail, then to the eldest daughter's line, and so on. If all the lines fail then to the collateral branches.

Honorary members also may be elected as life members, from gentlemen of distinguished merit and patriotism.

(to be concluded.)

GENEALOGICAL RECORDS.

Explanations, Abbreviations, etc.

For convenience the records of the various Lewis families are divided into Books and each Book into chapters. At the head of each Book appears the name of the earliest known ancestor of that family. The List of Books is a complete index to the Books as published to this time. New Books will be added from time to time as new branches of the Lewis family are found. As soon as Books are proved parts of others they will be merged into the Books to which they belong. Each name is numbered when first printed and whenever the name is repeated this number follows in brackets. The abbreviations commonly used in genealogical work are used; as b. for born; d. died; m. married; m. (1) first wife; dau. daughter; unm. not married; v. p. see page, etc. Instead of repeating the name of a place in the same paragraph initials only are frequently given.

Hints for Contributors.

In writing matter for the printer use only one side of the sheet, note paper preferred. In giving dates, give year, month and day whenever known. Write all middle names in full. Answer the following questions as fully as possible and give names and addresses of such people as you think may be able to complete the record but get it yourself if possible and spare the editor. Old newspaper files, tomb stones, family Bibles and records, official records of the town, school and church, burial certificates, county and probate records, old deeds and letters are some of the more important sources of information. Don't forget however the stores of information which the old people can give—Get them interested and then “pump them dry.” Most important of all don't get discouraged yourself. How can you interest others, if you yourself are not alive with enthusiasm?

Family Record Questions.

1. Name in full; initials are often a source of confusion.
2. When and where born?
3. When and where married and by whom?
4. To whom married? Always give name in full and in case of the wife give her maiden name

5. Give date of birth of your “better half or halves.”
6. Give cause, place and date of death.
7. Names of parents-in-law, being sure to give maiden name of your mother-in-law.
8. Place or places of residence
9. What is your occupation?
10. When and where educated?
11. What public office have you held?
12. What service in army or navy?
13. What traditions in your family?
14. Give any interesting events in family history.
15. Names of your children with places and dates of birth.
16. If they are married answer questions 3 to 15 including each.
17. Dates of death for ch. dying unm.
18. Names of your brothers and sisters with dates of birth and as much more of their family history as you can give or obtain from them the complete record.
19. Names of your parents. Be sure to give your mother's maiden name with names of her parents.
20. Dates of birth, marriage and death.
21. Names of your father's parents.
22. Dates of birth, marriage and death.
23. Names of children with dates of birth.
24. Any further history of these uncles and aunts that you can obtain.
25. Anything you can learn of your earlier ancestry. Much of this will probably be fragmentary. It is one object of the LEWISIANA to make this complete for you but you must do your part.

CHAPTER LXXIX.

By HELEN PERRY MAXWELL, N. Y. CITY.

Capt. James Lewis (65 v. p. 24, Vol. I.) is buried in the old Episcopal cemetery at Stratford, Ct. His gravestone states that it is

In Memory of
 Cap. JAMES LEWIS
 Who departed this life
 Jan. the 29 1766
 Aged 89 Years.

In the Congregational Cemetery is a gravestone recording that "Here Lyes the Body of Cap. James Hudson Esq." the father of Capt. James Lewis wife.

There is also in this cemetery a stone erected "In Memory of Samuel Whiting also Elizabeth, his wife." These were the parents of the wife of Judson Lewis (85). I took photographs of all of these grave-stones last summer and can furnish prints of them to those of our readers who desire them.

Farini, a photographer of Bridgeport, Ct., has I believe fine photographic copies of the commission of Capt. James Lewis and also of that of Col. Samuel Whiting.

CHAPTER LXXXI.

From Harper's Biblical Cyclopedia.

Zechariah Lewis (272 v. p. 99 Vol. VI.) a Congregational minister and editor, son of Rev. Isaac Lewis D. D., was born at Wilton, Ct., Jan. 1, 1773. With his twin brother, Isaac, he graduated from Yale College in 1794, and after studying theology at Philadelphia under Ashbel Green, D. D., was licensed to preach by the Fairfield West Association in 1796; and in the same year was appointed tutor in Yale College, remaining in that office until 1799. While a theological student he was a private tutor in General Washington's family. Convinced that his health was too much impaired to fulfill the duties of the ministry, he became the editor of the Commercial Advertiser and New York Spectator. [The remainder of this sketch is practically the account of his life given on p. 164 Vol. IV, and is therefore omitted here. The records of the Fairfield West Association if in existence would it seems settle the disputed point whether Zechariah was a clergyman or not. v. p. 99 Vol. VI. —ED.)

Isaac Lewis (273) D. D., a Congregational minister, was born at Wilton, Ct., Jan. 1, 1773. He graduated from Yale College in 1794, with his twin brother, Zechariah. Remaining at New Haven he prosecuted the study of theology and was ordained May 30, 1798. He was installed pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in Cooperstown, N. Y., in 1800; in 1806 of the Presbyterian Church in Goshen; and in 1812 preached in Bristol, R. I.; subsequently served in New Rochelle and West Farms as a stated supply, and succeeded his father in Greenwich, Ct., in Dec. 1818. He assumed charge of the Church in Bristol, R. I., Nov. 12, 1828. In Sept. 1831, the failure of his voice compelled him to resign his charge, though he still preached occasionally until the time of his death, which occurred in N. Y. City, Sept. 23, 1854.

CHAPTER CCLXVI. (JAMES.)

A CLIPPING FROM THE CONN. COURANT.

CONNECTICUT SENATORS.

Eleventh District—John N. Lewis.

John N. Lewis of Voluntown, was born in Exeter, Washington County, R. I., April 23, 1847. He is a son of Deacon James Lewis, and a grandson of Colonel Nathan B. Lewis, a veteran of the war of 1812. After leaving school he taught for a few years, in his own state and in Illinois. In 1870 he was appointed assistant United States census marshal for Exeter and in 1872 he came to Voluntown and entered the employment of the Briggs Manufacturing Company as bookkeeper and paymaster, which position he has retained since. He has been a member of the school board of Voluntown, most of the time since he became a resident of the town and was postmaster under the Hayes, Garfield and Arthur administrations. He now holds the offices of registrar of voters and town treasurer. Mr. Lewis was a member of the House in 1889, serving on the committee on appropriations. He was also county auditor for a term of two years. He is a thirty-second degree Mason and an Odd Fellow.

[John Nelson 670 v. p. 62, Vol. III.—Ed.]

CHAPTER CCLXVII. (JAMES.)

By Mrs. JOHN L. KENYON, WYOMING, R. I.

Concerning the three dumb daughters of James Lewis (v. p. 134 Vol. VI.) I find the following votes on Richmond, R. I. records:

Voted That Edward Pierce of Charlestown George Lewis of Richmond and Samuel Kenyon of Charlestown are appointed Guardeens to Abigail Lewis, Hannah Lewis and Ruth Lewis Dumb Girls all Daughters of James Lewis of said Richmond deceased and their estates they complying with the law in such cases.

CHAPTER CVI.

FROM CAMP'S HISTORY OF NEW BRITAIN, CONN.

Jonathan Lewis (64) was one of the prominent members of the Kensington society for nearly thirty years before the division and the organization of the New Britain Society; and after the division he was one of the leaders of the latter society. He was married to Elizabeth Newell about 1720, and soon after had his home at the south end of East street near Christian Lane. His farm after his death, passed into the hands of his son, Adonijah. He was prominent in military and civil affairs, holding various offices in the military until he was commissioned as Captain. The title was afterwards associated with his name. He was a member of the school committee of Kensington in 1730 and 1731, was one of the petitioners for relief to the north or New Britain part of the parish in 1739, and yet was appointed by the Kensington society one of the committee to seat the new or second meeting-house in Kensington in 1743. He was a petitioner for a division of the society from 1745 to 1752, and strongly advocated the measure. After the New Britain Society and Church were organized, he was, in 1758, chairman of the committee that as agents of the parish memorialized the town of Farmington for a grant of land to Rev. John Smalley, pastor of the church. He was much respected and esteemed.

[Jonathan Lewis b. June 2, 1697, son of William (6) and Phebe (Moore) Lewis, m. Jany. 28, 1720, Elizabeth, b. Nov. 1, 1689 (v. p. 39, Vol. I.) dau. of Simon and Elizabeth (Wrotham) Newell. He lived on East street, then the most important street of the town, near the boundary line of Berlin. The house is said to have been the first house in New Britain in the "Great Swamp" Parish.

In 1741 the General Court (i. e. the Legislature of Conn.) confirmed as officers of a train band at New Britain: Jonathan Lewis, captain; John Paterson, lieutenant, and Daniel Dewey, ensign. At one of the first society meetings of the New Britain Ecclesiastical Society, Capt. Jonathan Lewis was moderator and the following record made:

"At the same meeting it was agreed by vote to chuse a number of men to assist ye Survaier to make a map of this Society and find the Senter of the same as Nigh as they can. Att the same meeting Capt. Johnathan Lewis and Sergt. Ebenezer Smith and Isaac Lee were chosen for the service afor Said."

After the "senter" had been found and the County Court had fixed the "stake,"

Capt. Jonathan was first of the committee appointed "for the Procuring Necessary highways for ye inhabitants of this Society to com to the place appointed by the County Court for them to Build a Meeting House on."

He was also first of the "Comt. to Git the Timber for said House and Bring it to said Stak, and also Bords Sufficient for floors and Bording the outsid in order for Clabording and Shingling and also two thousand of white pine Bords and also the said Comt. are Directed to Allow every man in this society to work in propoction to their Lists, if they see caws, and that the value of Each Man's work be computed by said Comt."

In the spring of 1756 the meeting house was advanced far enough for meetings to be held in it although it was not completed until 1769. During all these years Capt. Jonathan Lewis served on building committees, for supply of the pulpit, for arrangement with candidates for ordination, etc., etc.

With the completion of this meeting-house, for more than fifty years the only public place of assembly, the life work of Jonathan Lewis drew to a close. Soon his name appears no longer on the Society records. He has gone hence. He had 3 (probably more) ch. b.

CHAPTER XCIII.

FROM HARPER'S BIBLICAL CYCLOPEDIA.

William Henry Lewis (21 v. p. 87, Vol. V) D. D., a Protestant Episcopal clergyman, was born at Litchfield, Conn., Dec. 22, 1803. He was rector for a number of years of the Church of the Holy Trinity, in Brooklyn, N. Y., until 1861; when he became rector of Christ's Church, Watertown, Ct., of which he continued to have charge until 1874. He died at Watertown, Ct., Oct. 2, 1877. He published Sermons for the Christian Year, Confession for Christ, The Early Called, Position of the Church, and many tracts.

CHAPTER XCIV.

BY GEO. HARLAN LEWIS, N. Y. CIV.

In the N. E. Hist. Gen. Reg. Vol. 44 in an attempt to identify English homes of early settlers of this country it is stated that from 1638 to 1641 John Bibble had a wife Sibylat Shadwell in Stepney Parish. Ann Bibble was a petitioner for a minister to be settled at Malden, Oct. 28, 1651, so she must have married Robert Jones between that date and the date of her father's will July 1, 1653. After John Bibbell's death his widow Sibell became the wife of Miles Nutt and on Oct. 30, 1674, the wife of John Doolittle and is buried in Malden. The Burying Ground inscription says Sibble Doolittle, wife of John, ae. about 82, Sept. 23, 1690. Her will, Malden, Dec. 25, 1683, written and witnessed by Thomas Cheever, proved 1690, reads Middlesex Records File 4362, 1690, I give unto Obadiah and Mary Jenkins, his wife, and their children all my housing and lands in Malden, with my movables, he paying out of it to my grand children, Robert, Zahary, Benjamin and Rebecca Jones, five pounds a piece, when they come of age. Item: I give unto my grand-child Sarah Browne one pewter platter and to her son Joseph Browne two pewter platters. Item, I give to Hannah Paddick five shillings and to her children, John and Mary, two pewter platters a piece. And I make my grandson, Obadiah Jenkins my executor of this my last will. I nominate and desire my loving friends, Mr. Wigglesworth and Deacon Sprague, ye overseers of this my last will. In witness I have sett to my hand and this twenty-fifth of December, eighty-three. Signed by mark Witnessed by Rev. Thos. Cheever.

SIBYLL DOOLITTLE.

The house of Mr. Wigglesworth was on Cross st. and opposite the land that John Lewis (I. XXXVI.) sold to Paul Wilson just before he died (v. p. 168, Vol. VI). High st. now runs through it.

Obadiah Jenkins was gr. son. of Sibyll Doolittle by marriage of Mary Jones, her gr. dau. He died about 1720. His wife Mary must have died before he did, as she is not an heir to his estate.

Estate of Obadiah Jenkins, File 8875, 1720, Middlesex Records.

By the death of our honored grandfather Doolittle and our honored father Obadiah Jenkins of Malden. The real estate has been valued at £393-10-0. Each persons share in sd. estate, (except Sibbles's share) £60-15-0. Joel Jenkins shall take land prised at (torn out). Obadiah Jenkins shall have land valued at £244-0-0. It is also agreed that Joel Jenkins shall pay unto his sister Mary ye wife of Zakeriah Howard £60-15-00, and also sd. Joel must pay to his sister Anna Teal £28-00-00, and Obadiah Jenkins must pay to his sister Annabel the remaining part of her legacy which is £32-15-00. It is also agreed on ye sd. Obadiah Jenkins pay to his sister Lydia, ye wife of Noah Upham, £60-15-00, and also ye sd. Obadiah shall pay to his sister Sarah Jenkins £60-15-00. Obadiah Jenkins hath already paid unto his sister, Sibble Howard £29-00-00, out of his part of ye sd. estate; which is her whole share. And ye above sd. Obadiah Jenkins, doth give his sister Sarah Jenkins free Liberty to continue and dwell in his dwelling house so long as she continueth a single woman and no longer.

Signed by Joel Jenkins, Obadiah Jenkins, Zachariah Howard, Mary Howard, Benjamin Teal, Anna Teal, Noah Upham, Lydia Upham, Samuel Howard, Sibillah Howard.

Ch. of Obadiah and Mary (Jones-Lewis) Jenkins (m. Jany. 11, 1677) were these:

I. Joel.

II. Mary m. Zachariah Howard.

III. Annabel.

IV. Lydia m. Noah Upham.

V. Sarah b. Mar. 9, 1685, m. — Taylor.

VI. Ann b. Oct. 29, 1687, m. Benjamin Teal.

VII. Obadiah b. Apr. 4, 1690, d. Feb. 4, 1762, m. 1720, Mary Grover, no ch. In his will made Feb. 3, 1762 (Middlesex Records, File 8876) he mentions his wife and his sisters Sarah Taylor and Lydia Upham.

Middlesex Decds, Vol. 10, p. 432, Benjamin Jones of Swansea, in Mass., Planter for £3-0-0, paid by Obadiah Jenkins of Malden, Planter, quit-claims his right to one eighth of certain lands given us by my grandfather, John Doolittle. Dated 20th Oct., 1695.

This is a brother of Mary and one mentioned in the wills of Sibyll and John Doolittle and connects Joseph with Swansea again as well as the document published in Chapter VII. v. p. 168, Vol. VI.

The Homestead of Obadiah Jenkins was in the present City of Everett. From the description it could not have been very far from the present corner of Locust and Main Sts. perhaps a little farther south. Zachary Howard m. Mary Jenkins, Dec. 27, 1710. Benjamin Teal. m. Ann Jenkins, Dec. 31, 1712. Obadiah Jenkins, Jr. m. Mary Grover, Jan. 5, 1720-1. In the sale of the R. E. of Obadiah Jenkins, Jr., who died in 1762, is a description which makes it appear that it was in whole or in part that of his father. It is bounded south by Rev. Eliakin Willis, whose house is still standing on Main St in Everett.

NOTE.—The evidence in Chapters 89, 90 and 94 seems to be conclusive that Obadiah Jenkins m. Mary Lewis, widow of Joseph (11) and that Joseph (11) was father of Joseph (49) and Sibble (50). If it is true that there is no evidence to show any connection between Joseph (11) and his children with the other children and grand children of George (1) likewise the claim that Joseph (11) is Joseph (3. XXXVI) so far fails of proof in that as yet no connection between Joseph and his children and the other children and grand children of John (1. XXXVI) Lewis of Malden has been shown with the single exception of residence in same town. Ed.

Abraham Lewis (29) Suffolk Probate Records, 6662, Vol. 30, p 225, 1734. Isaac Lewis (26) of Rumney Marsh Whereas your brother Abraham Lewis (29) late of Rumney Marsh, Wheelwright, deceased, you are appointed Administrator, Dec. 23, 1734. Widow, Sarah at Rumney Marsh in 1744. Probably had son Abraham (168) as following would indicate.

This deed conveys the share of Elizabeth, widow of John (28), who is spoken of as a daughter of Isaac (12) in her husband's homestead and is recorded Vol. 49, p 95 and 96, Middlesex Records. Are her heirs. I. Isaac Lewis (26) of Chelsea, husbandman, Joseph Lewis (27), of Charlestown, Shipwright, Abraham Lewis of Reading, Husbandman, William Sargent, of Boston, Mariner, John Sargent of Malden, Thomas Douglas of Malden, Yeoman, and Mary his wife, Robert Livingstone of Chelsea. Blacksmith and Zibah, his wife and Thomas Jenkins, the heirs of said John Lewis late of Charlestown, for £200-0-0 paid by Richard Hunnewell of Charlestown, Joiner, all the third part of Dwelling house and land being in Charlestown which is part of the estate of the late John Lewis, deceased. Dated April 13, 1744, and signed by Isaac, Joseph, Abraham and Hannah Lewis, Lillian, Mercy and John Sargent, Thomas and Mary Douglas, Robert and Zibah Livingstone (v p 164. Vol. VI.)

In Vol. 39 p 407, is the deed of the other two thirds of the house by the Administrators, viz; Isaac Lewis (26) of Boston, Yeoman, and Joseph Lewis (27), of Charlestown, a Shipwright, Administrators on the estate of our brother John Lewis (28) late of Charlestown for the sum of £250 paid by Richard Hunnewell, West Middle St. Dated Oct. 31st, 1738.

Abraham (168) probably married Elizabeth Atwood in Malden, Dec. 12, 1728, as we find his will in Middlesex Probate Records, Vol. 26, p 141, dated Jan. 9, 1754, wife Elizabeth in which he only names Elizabeth his wife and as heirs mentions his son Benjamin Foster and Mary his present wife.

FRANCIS LEWIS. Signer of the Declaration of Independence.

CHAPTER XXI.

By JULIA L. DELAFIELD, IN HER BIOGRAPHY OF MORGAN LEWIS.

Very soon after the General's return to Staatsburgh he recovered his health, which had been somewhat impaired by his last northern campaign. He could still lay his hand on the top rail of a fence and jump over it; he never wore an overcoat; he never entered a carriage if it were possible to go on horseback. His soft auburn hair was mingled with gray, but it still waved in abundance around his high forehead. His teeth were superb; one of them he broke accidentally. The first time that it ached he took the proper instrument from its case, went to a looking-glass, fastened it round the troublesome bit of ivory, and drew it himself; the others he carried with him to his grave.

We were a merry family of young people in those days. I often wonder at the General's patience in allowing his house to be filled as it was, year after year, with tutors, governesses, drawing and dancing masters—all that the tastes and the wants of a dozen children of all ages made desirable. [Maturin Livingston, after marriage, spent summers at Staatsburgh, but the trouble of moving his family twice a year proving too much, he sold his New York residence and bought Ellerslie at Rhinebeck, where a mansion was built commanding a beautiful and extensive southern view of the Hudson. Before the family moved into it however, a change of plans occurred, Ellerslie was sold, Staatsburgh enlarged and made the permanent home for both families. Ed.] Carriages and horses of every description were at our disposal; perhaps I owe the health which enables me at this moment [1877] to write the life of my grandfather, to a fleet and beautiful mare, which always stood ready in the stable to carry me over the country.

When peace had brought prosperity to the United States and commerce to New York, General Lewis decided that his grandchildren ought not to live entirely in the country, and for several years he devoted his surplus income to building a double house on two lots that he owned in Leonard street, near the corner of Church street. There may be people still living who remember pleasant dinners and evening parties at that house before the waltz was permitted or the polka the fashion.

The General, as well as my father, believed in the value of real estate in the island of Manhattan, and he had early invested in town lots; when he lived in Leonard street, he found occupation and interest in improving his unproductive property. He built rows of houses in Church street and West Broadway. He put up several blocks of houses in the eastern part of the city, besides stores in Maiden Lane. It gives me pleasure to say, for the credit of his descendants, that this property is essentially in their hands.

In 1832, his house at Staatsburgh was burnt to the ground. . . . The General occupied himself that summer in building another house at Staatsburgh on the site of the old one. The plan was drawn by my mother, and the result was a really handsome country house, more convenient than the first; yet I do not think that any of us are as fond of it as we were of the ugly mass of red bricks in which, with one exception, we were all born.

The following deed (Essex-co., Deeds, Lib. 66, fol. 248) would show that Thomas (v p 27 Vol. VII) had other ch. than Mary who married Rev. Richard Gibson.

I Hannah Mace, of Ipswich, widow, for good will toward my loving children, George Hibberd and Joseph Jewett of Rowley, To Joseph, John, Elizabeth and Gibbins Mace, of Ipswich, I give said George Hibberd and Joseph Jewett, one-third of all the upland and salt marsh, belonging to first division, on North side Saco river, in Saco, alias Biddeford, Me.

To the other four children, Viz: Joseph. John, Elizabeth and Gibbins Mace, their four parts divided equally.

To said two sons, George Hibberd and Joseph Jewett Jr., all my share in the upper division or North west checker.

To my other children Joseph, John, Elizabeth and Gibbins Mace, all my right of the Lower checker, on North side of the dividing line and out of my son John Mace's part, I make reserve of £100, being for a debt he owes to my son-in-law, Charles Miller; and all other rights, etc., I give to my other children above, which falls to me by my mother Judith Gibbins, or my grandfather Thomas Lewis, by a Patentee with Richard Benoton. Dated, May 21, 1720. Folsoms Saco p 173 says Thomas Lewis land was set off to Gibbins as heir, Nov. 12, 1680.

James Gibbins gave deed which reads as follows:

Whereas there have been some motions by several of the men at the westward to remove themselves to Saco river and settle upon the eastern side, and in order thereunto have by Benjamin Blackman been encouraged by disbursing moneys in part payment of a purchase of land of James Gibbins, of Saco, in the Province of Maine, Yocoman, will assent and consent of my wife Judith, for and in consideration of a valuable sum to me in hand paid etc., have given etc., unto Benjamin Blackman, clerk, in the same town resident a tract of land lying and being upon the said river of Saco, beginning at a small run on the north of Mr. Bonython's old plantation, extending itself up the said river 3 miles and $\frac{1}{2}$ and 18 poles and back from river two miles, being the whole of 2d, division of the Patent land laid out to me, the said James etc. Dated Dec. 12, 1683.

In Westhampton, L. I., Sept. 10, 1896, James Lewis, the actor. Born in Troy, N. Y., in 1840, he leaves a widow, Mrs. Dora Lewis, but no ch.

Clippings from N. Y. papers:

So large a funeral, to the theatrical world so impressive, and withal so simple, has seldom gone in and out of the doors of the Little Church Around the Corner. The edifice seats 1,600 persons. Every seat was filled when, to the solemn strains of Chopin's funeral march, the little weeping procession passed up to the flower decked chancel.

That the American people who are aware of the theatre and who appreciate the best it has to offer were duly grateful to Mr. Lewis for what he did, for the wholesome fun that he diffused, for his rich and varied skill in the denotment of comic traits, is not doubtful. He was a successful man honored, and rewarded in his own country and others. London, Edinburgh, and Dublin, Paris and Berlin, recognized his admirable talent, and applauded it no less heartily than his compatriots.

Yet when one tries to think of the younger men who could play Mr. Lewis' parts or fill the void which his death leaves, one realizes how fine an artist has been taken from us. Mr. Lewis had the gift of comicality, which is rarer than humor. He could make an audience laugh by his mere presence, and he added to the effect of this endowment by long and persistent labor to round out his personations on the artistic side. He had his limitations, of course. His personality was one never to be concealed and he shone through all the long list of parts that he played.

When the Boston company came to New York in 1869 to play an engagement in the old Waverley Theatre, in Broadway, Mr. Augustin Daly was just beginning his managerial career. He went, saw and was conquered by Lewis, and engaged him on the spot as leading comedian for his theatre. This is twenty-seven years ago—a long time for an actor to be before a New York public with never a blemish on his fame as an artist nor a reproach to his reputation as a gentleman.

During this long period Lewis created many new parts, notably Bob Sackett, in Bronson Howard's "Saratoga," and he was the American original of Cheviot Hill in "Engaged," of Perkin Middlewick in "Our Boys," besides adding much to such Daly successes as "A Night Off," "The big Bonanza," "Love on Crutches" and "Seven-Twenty-Eight."

No estimate of the man would be complete which failed to recognize his worth and modesty as a man as well as his gift as an actor. In a profession where there is every temptation to seek notoriety, Mr. Lewis lived almost in obscurity. His name never got into the newspapers except in connection with his work.
