GENEALOGICAL RECORDS.

Explanations, Abbreviations, etc.

For convenience the records of the various Lewis families are divided into Books and each Book into chapters. At the head of each Book appears the name of the earliest known ancestor of that family. The List of Books is a complete index to the Books as published to this time. New Books will be added from time to time as new branches of the Lewis family are found. As soon as Books are proved parts of others they will be merged into the Books to which they belong. Each name is numbered when first printed and whenever the uame is repeated this number follows in brackets. The abbreviations commonly used in genealogical work are used; as b. for born; d. died; m. married; m. (1) first wife; dau. daughterunm. not married: v. p.see page, etc.

Hints for Contributors.

In writing matter for the printer use only one side of the sheet, note paper preferred. In giving dates, give year, month and day whenever known. Write all middle names in full. Answer the following questions as fully as possible and give names and addresses of such people as you think may be able to complete the record but get it yourself if possible and spare the editor. Old newspaper files, tomb stones, family Bibles and recorils, official recorls of the town, school and church, burial certificates, county and probate records, old deeds and letters are some of the more important sourees of information. Don't forget however the stores of information which the old people can giveGet them interested and then "pump them dry." Most important of all don't get discouraged yourself. How can you interest others, if you yourself are not alive with enthusiasm?

Family Record Questions.

1. Name in full; initials are often a source of confusion.
2. When and where born?
3. When and where married and by whom?
4. To whom married? Always give name in full and in case of the wife give her maiden name.
5. Give date of birth of your "better half or halves."
6. Give cause, place and date of death.
7. Names of parents-in-law, being sure to give maiden name of your mother-inlaw.
8. Place or places of residence.
9. What is your occupation?
10. When and where educated?
11. What public office have you held?
12. What service in army or navy?
13. What traditions in your family?
14. Give any interesting events in family history.
15. Names of your children with places and dates of birth.
16. If they are married answer questions 3 to 15 inclusive for them.
17. Dates of death for ch. dying unm.
18. Names of your brothers and sisters with dates of birth and as much more of their family history as you can give or obtain from them the complete record.
19. Names of your parents. Be sure to give your mother's maiden name with names of her parents.
20. Dates of birth, marriage and death.
21. Names of your father's parents.
22. Dates of birth, marriage and death.
23. Names of children with dates of hirth.
24. Any further history of these uncles and aunts that you cin obtain.
2). Anything you can learn of your earlier ancestry. Much of this will probably be fragmentary. It is one object of the Lewishasa to make this complete for you but you must do your part.

BENJAMIN LEWIS, Stratforl, Conn. CLIAITER JNXXIV.
By Helen Phriry Maximell, N. Y. City.
On the records at New Haven, Ct., there is no mention of Benjamin (1) Lewis in the County Court Records and but one in the Colonial. This made Mar. 17, 1686-7, is on p. 3i) of the Book of Possessions, commencing "The lands of Benjamin Lewis sometime planter and inhabitant of Wallingford as they are recorded to him-_-." Evidently a man of wealth as there were nine parcels of land and the records cover a whole page in the book.

Catherine (8 v. p. 23, Vol. I) Lewis. Orcutt and family record give different parentage from that given by Mr. F. C. Lewis on p. 24, Vol. I, viz: ch. of Robert Wells Curtis by his wife Phebe Curtis. Silas and his wife both died in Madison, N. Y., where all their ch. were born.

WILLIAM LEWIS, Farmington, Conn. chapter cyili.
An Interesting Connecticut Clipping.

Lemuel Lewis, who is accredited with the distinction of having built the first house in Plainville and with giving the town its name, celebrated his ninety-second birthday anniversary on the lith of last month at the home of his son, Charles Lewis, at Coventry, Broome county, N. Y.

About sixty frieuds were his guests on the occasion and they presented him with a huge easy chair. A poem was read by Mrs. S. B. Wilder, the versifyer of Broome county.

Mr. Lewis, who has a number of relatives living in the town he founded, was born December 17, 1804, at Wolcott, this state. Here he remained until fifteen years of age, when he located where since has grown this town. Mr. Lewis dwelt in Plainville about sixteen years, going to Coventry November 12, 1835. The old gentleman is an ingenious mechanic and still spends a number of hours each day in his workroom.

GEORGE LEWIS, Barnstable, Mass. Chapter xcvi.
From "In Memoriam" by John Lewis, Oak Park, Ills.

Mary Maria was born at Suffield, Conn., Mar. 10th, 1846, and died at Oak Park, Ills., Dec. 11th, 1896, of pneumonia. She was laid to rest beside Adelaide, in Forest Home Cemetery. Although Mary was nồ a robust person she was never sick and her demise was entirely un-anticipated.

The outlines of her life may be briefly sketched. Our mother died Sept. 17, 1854, almost to a day of the same age as Mary. Our aunts kept house for father until Mary was about fourteen or fifteen, after which she assumed that responsibility herself. Father sold his farm in 1864, reserving twelve acres, upon which he built a small house and farmed it in a small way. Here father and Mary lived until 1872 , when he sold this place also, and they came to live with me in Chicago. In 1873 we came to live in the house at Oak Park where I now reside. Father [Warren (237 v p 21, Vol. VII.) youngest son of John (195) and Mary (Phelps) Lewis.-Ed.] died here in 1878. Mary has thus been a member of my family for twenty-four years, during which time all but one of the children have been born, and three have grown to manhood and womanhood. She lived a quiet, únobtrusive life, but still a helpful, cheerful and busy one. No one of the family circle can recall ever having heard her speak a cross, unkind or impatient word. She never complained in regard to herself and never found fault in regarl to others. Something of her life here and the estimation in which she was hetd by her Oak Park friends are given in the words of Rev. R. F. Johonnot, spoken at the funcral service.
"She was a typical New Englamd woman. She had what might be called the Puritan temper, and it is from this standpoint of the Puritan character that we can best interpret her life. There was about her a reservedness, a reticence about speaking of herself which is peculiar to this temperament.

The key to her life may be found in the great Puritan word 'luty.' Her life was one of loyalty to her duty as she saw it, and that duty consisted chiefly in a rare devotion to her friends and family. For them no sacrifice of herself was too great. She loved high things: music, poetry, good literature. She was a student and learner, loving knowledge. It has been well said that the highest test of life is the conduct in the home. Here, where all restraint of public opinion is thrown off, we see people as they really are. Tried by this test. the life of Mary Lewis rings true.

ROBERT LEWIS, Gloucester Co., Va Chapter lxxyi.
From Louisville, Ky., Comimercial.
Col. Fielding Lewis, who married Betty Washington, was an active citizen of Fredericksburg, and is said in its official annals to have owned nearly half the town.

The famous portrait at the Lewis homestead, "Marmion," that has been mistaken for that of Martla Washington, is in reality that of Betty Washington, the wife of Colonel Fielding Lewis. This portrait was printed in the Century Magazine, in 1889 , as a portrait of Martha Washington, but in volume 4 of the "Memoirs of the Long Islaml Historical Society" it is remarked: "It is one of the many curiosities of Washington portrature that the portrait of Betty Lewis at Marmion, the Lewis homestend in King George, should be going about the world as that of Martha, Gen. Washington's wife!"

Continning, the Memoirs say: "In $17 \% 3$, Col. Fielding Lewis was chosen a member of the Ilonse of Burgesses. The defect in his eye prevented his entering the field in the Revolution. His title, 'Colonel,' was probably earned by his activity in the manufacture of arms at the 'Gunnery' established by the Assembly in his town, whose patriotic ladies made cartridges while their male relatives were in the field. Col. Lewis freely advanced his means in this work and was never repaid except in depreciated paper. However, he had large lands in the West. He died in January, 15S1, and was buried in the vestibule of St. George's Church, of which be was a vestryman. Washington's diaries and letters show his affection for his brother-in-law, and confidence in his judgment. The portrait of Col. Fielding Lewis at Marmion, a companion to that of his wife, shows that his veracity would not allow the artist to omit the defective eye. He was an able man, and his descendants, known in every part of this country, are geverally persons of character and influence."

The Lewis family is very proud of the family crest, which is now and has been since the marriage of Col. Fielding Lewis and Betty Washington, a combination of the Lewis and Washington family crests. The Lewis crest was a dragon's head and neck, holding in its mouth a bloody hand. The Washington crest was a shield bearing three mullets or spurs above two red bars. The Fielding Lewis family crest is a combination of the two. with dragon's bead as a hanger, and bearing the motto, "Omne solum forti patria est." "Every" land is a brave man's country."

Col. Fielding Lewis owned a large lot of land in Kentucky, now Henry and Warren counties. These lands are now very valuable, and many years ago there was a judgment against the occupants of these lands in favor of the Lewis beirs, but it was allowed to drop, and the matter is now in the hands of some prominent attorneys who are looking into the matter.

Book XL.
FRANCIS LEWIS, Siguer of the Declaration of Independence.

CHAPTER XXIII.
By Helen Evertson Smith in Centcry FOR DECEMBER, 1896.
In a fragment of a letter written by Helen (second daughter of Gilbert R. Livingston of Red Hook (now Trivoli) on the Hudson) to her mother, she says that "we last night attended a great party at Cousin Stuyvesant's; one hundred and twenty-five persons were present. and all of us related to each other." Of course this was nothing remarkable because the few great families of the colonies had intermarried so freely. . The "Livingston clan" alone might easily have numbered as many, no less than twelve families bearing the name having their winter residences within a short distance of one another, and most of them not far from Trinity church. Of these, besides the chancellor, there were the families of his two brothers, John R., a man of singular cultivation and intellectual power, and Henry, familiarly known as "Colonel Harry," who lad gained distinction in Washington's army. Not far away were the houses of their sisters, Janet, the widow of General Montgomery; Gertrude, wife of Governor Morgan Lewis; and a third, the wife of General Armstrong. Brockholst Livingston, son of New Jersey's patriotic war governor, was a judge in the city, and very popular in society; and his brilliant sisters, one of whom was the wife of Chief Justice John Jay, were often there...... "We have attended a dinner or an evening party on every week-day this four months, and sometimes both." As the fashionable dinner hour was three in the afternoon, this did not imply such late home coming as the same thing would now do.-"We were not often at the same house more than once in each month, and were always at the house of a relative. All have vied with each other in efforts to make it pleasant for us."

In my search for information of some of my line, I have gathered many facts which (I think) shonld be published for the benefit of those they would interest and save search necessary to obtain the information. Althongh it may not be as full as some might desire, I give it as ì have arranged it, but do not claim it is complete. It may reach the eye of some one who can add to it. Savage's Die. says: "Philip of Portsmouth, 1665, probably Dover, 16i2, Representative 1680 iu first Assembly under Provincial Gov't. His will was made Nov. 1, 1700."
The first I find of Philip is in N. E. H. © Gen. Reg. Vol. IV, p. 285, which says: "Philip Lewis probably of Dover was a creditor of John Milles estate, of Boston as appears from the settlement, Oct. 응, 1651." Next in Yol. VII. p. 385, "Philip Lewis and Wm. Follet boucht 23 of : saw mill at Bellamy, 16, 5, 1651, of Wm. Pomfret for $£ 4-0-0$." In same Vol. p. 256. In 1653, "Philip Lewis and Henry Langstaff had a lawsuit about land at Bloody Point. He probably lired on the Portsmouth side of the line." Dover Ancient Landmarks, says, "Bloody Point was at the Sou thern entrance to the west branch of the Piscataqua river which was made Newington May 12, 1714." Hackett's Portsmouth Records, p. 22, says, "In 1652, Mar. 14, Robert Pudington with Philip Lewis were to search out the nearest part to cut out heyway, to meet that our nabors of Hampton have made."
N. E. Reg. Vol. 4, p. 24i. He was made a freeman at Dover in 1655. Hackett's Portsmouth Records, p. 37-38. "He signed petition of Town meeting 27 Mar. 1656." "Philip Le wis subscribed 1-10 to support of minister, Dec. 12, 1658."

Brewster's Rambles about Portsmouth, p. 25 , "Philip Lewis was one of the Committee to apportion common lands to the inhabitants and Jany. 22, 1660, had 105 acres in the distribution. He was at Greenland. He evidently came there between 1657 and 1660." Dover Records, N. E. Reg. Vol. 4, p. 250, "He became a resident of Bloody Point in 16 r0."

He was probably a brother of George of Casco Bay, not a son, as his son Jotham probably married George's dau. Mary, (v p 44, Vol. VII.) George came to Casco Bay in 1640 and Philip was at the mouth of the Piscataqua river in 1651 when Philip, George's son, was a boy. His will made 1, Nov. 1700, on record at Exeter, N.. H., reads:
"I, Phillip Lewis of Greenland in the Province of N. H., in N. E., etc., etc. Whereas in a former will I did give and bequeath unto my son Abraham Lewis a certain tract of Land and meadow ground, and Salt marsh, being on ye northerly side of ye Brooke, on ye N. side of my dwelling house, I do in this my last will order it for my son Abraham's portion, and whereas my son Abraham hath sold ye said tract of land to my son John Johnson, I do in this my will consent to je sale thereof to my said son John Johnson ye bounds and limits thereof as is mentioned in said deed of sale notwithstanding what I have formorly given my son Abraham; I now further give him, flve

Item, I do give and bequeath unto my three grand children, John Lewis, James Lewis and Philip Lewis, my son Jotham Lewis, his children, all my rights of land of whatsoever sort on ye E'ly side of ye Roadway; as also a piece of land on ye W'ly side of ye said; where their father's house standeth, according to the Grant of sd. Lands as also six acres of salt marsh lying in ye town of Hampton. As likewise I do give them my sd. grand children two eights of my saw mill with all priviledges thereunto belonging, on ye same tearms and conditions as Samuel Heyns hath his part which sd. lands and marsh is to be divided between my sd. grand children; as my Executors shall see meet as they arrive at the age of 21 years. Item, I do give and bequeath unto my son John Johnson and my daughter Hannah, my dwelling house and out houses with ye land where they stand with all Rights of Land and meadow ground or marsh whatsoever not disposed of already, to them and their heirs, as also my Corn Mill and Saw Mill with the rights and privileges thereunto belonging. And furthermore I give unto my sd. son John Johnson and my daughter Hannah, all my movable Estate of what sort or kind both within door and without, movable, and immovable of what sort soever. And further, my will is my son John Johnson shall pay unto my grand daughter Hannah Lewis, ye daughter of my son Jotham, ye sum of ten pounds in current pay equivalent to money in a years time after my decease. And further my will is and it is to be understood that if my wife continues after my decease my estate which I have in this my will given to my son John Johnson and Hannah, his wife, shall be so ordered and improved so as may be for ye comfortable maintenance and support of their mother above said during her natural life to be at ye ordering of my Cousin John Tucke and James Philbrooke whome I appoint as overseers concerning ye ordering of ge said Estatefor my wife's mainte nance as above said. And further my will is and I do herely appoint my son Joln Johnson and my danghter Hannalh, his wife, to be sole Executor and Excentrix to this my last Will and Testament.

Book LXXXVII.

JOHN LEWIS, Portsmouth, N. H., 1660. CILAPTER I.
By Geo. Harlin Lewls, New York City.
Stvage's Dictionary says, "Perhaps he was a son of Philip." Lle was evidently wrong if we read Philip's will aright as his son was named Jotham. John Lewis was, with others, fined El0, for building on and appropriating portions of the town commons to their own use withont order, licence or town grant, Jany. 13, 1660. [Brewsters Rambles about Portsmonth.]

He signed a petition with Philip and other inhabitants to the Gen. Court of Mass., Oct. 9, 1665. [J. II.State Papers, Vol. 1, p. 286 ]

In same Vol. P. 456, the deposition of Thomas Cobitt, age about 30 years. "That I, being in the honse of my father-in-law, John Lewis, on Saturday night last. abent 9 or 10 a'clock, that then Mr. Joseph layners came to aforesaid honse, a design to guarrel, began to abuse my father Lewis, and toh him Mr. Mason was coming, and a Governor with lim, and now he should see Maj. Waldron and some of the rest turned out, and he looperl to have as much power as any man upon the island, also that he was at man come in this ship which would buy the whole island, and our houses over our heads; at which my father Lewis, langhed. and told him he should not take his house from him, nor no man else, etc. Sworn this 2 , Oct. 1682. Note, this document throws Savage out as Philip's grand children were John, James, Philip and Hannah. Same Vol, p. 489, in a list of those named as Jurymen, for the Trial of Edward Gove and accomplices is John Lewis of Great Island, 1682.
