GENEALOGICAL RECORDS.

Explanations, Abbreviations, etc.

For convenience the records of the various Lewis families are divided into Books and each Book into chapters. At the head of each Book appears the name of the earliest known ancestor of that family. The List of Books is a complete index to the Books as published to this time. New Books will be added from time to time as new branches of the Lewis family are found. As soon as Books are proved parts of others they will be merged into the Books to which they belong. Each name is numbered when first printed and whenever the name is repeated this number follows in brackets. The abbreviations commonly used in genealogical work are used; as b. for born; d. died; m. married;

m. (1) first wife; dau. daughter; unm. not married; v. p. see page, etc.

Hints for Contributors.

In writing matter for the printer use only one side of the sheet, note paper preferred. In giving dates, give year, month and day whenever known. Write all middle names in full. Give names and addresses of such people as you think may be able to complete the record but get it yourself if possible and spare the editor. Old newspaper files, tomb stones, family Bibles and records, official records of the town, school and church, burial certificates, county and probate records, old deeds and letters are some of the more important sources of information. Don't forget however the stores of information which the old people can give—Get them interested and then "pump them dry." Most important of all, don't get discouraged yourself. How can you interest others, if you yourself are not alive with enthusiasm?

Family Record Questions.

1. Name in full; initials are often a source of confusion.
2. When and where born?
3. When and where married and by whom?
4. To whom married? Always give name in full and in case of the wife give her maiden name.
5. Give date of birth of your "better half or halves."
6. Give cause, place and date of death.
7. Names of parents-in-law, being sure to give maiden name of your mother-in-law.
8. Place or places of residence.
9. What is your occupation?
10. When and where educated?
11. What public office have you held?
12. What service in army or navy?
13. What traditions in your family?

14. Give any interesting events in family history.

15. Names of your children with places and dates of birth.

16. If they are married answer questions 3 to 15 inclusive for them.

17. Dates of death for ch. dying unm.

18. Names of your brothers and sisters with dates of birth and as much more of their family history as you can give or obtain from them the complete record.

19. Names of your parents. Be sure to give your mother's maiden name with names of her parents.

20. Dates of birth, marriage and death.

21. Names of your father's parents.

22. Dates of birth, marriage and death.

23. Names of children with dates of birth.

24. Any further history of these uncles and aunts that you can obtain.

25. Anything you can learn of your earlier ancestry. Much of this will probably be fragmentary. It is one object of the LEWISIANA to make this complete for you but you must do your part.

CHAPTER CXL.

BY AUGUSTA WHEELER, STRATFORD.

CONNECTICUT.

Catherine Lewis Freeman (1053 v p 182 Vol. IX) m Aug. 29, 1899 Leroy S. Dewey, principal of the High School at Warren, Mass.

Catharine Lewis (1045 v p 182 Vol. IX) d Nov. 5, 1899. This obituary notice was taken from the Narraguagus Times, Cherryfield, Me.

Less than a month ago the Times was called upon to announce the death of an aged resident of Cherryfield, Mr. Everett Lewis. This week it befalls us to record the passing away of his sister, Miss Catherine Lewis at the residence of Wm. Freeman Esq. on Sunday evening, at the age of 84 years. Since the death of her brother, Miss Lewis had been rapidly failing and the end occasioned no surprise to the family and the community, whose esteem she so highly shared. Although of a quiet disposition and preferring home to the mingling with society, she took a deep interest in everything concerning the welfare of the public. From early life Miss Lewis was a constant reader of the newspapers and history and by this means had acquired an extensive knowledge of the country and the political changes it had passed through. All through the anti-slavery struggle she was deeply interested in the proceedings of the two great parties in Congress and watched with keen interest the position of the leading statesmen on that question. She was a great admirer of Blaine and vice-president Hamlin and when speaking of the latter she never refrained from chastising Charles Sumner for his opposition to the vice-president, which led to his displacement on the Republican ticket in 1864.

CHAPTER CXCIV.

DEATHS.

AN AGED RESIDENT OF COVENTRY, N. Y.

Lemuel Lewis, (45 v p 117 Vol. VII) a well known and aged resident of Coventry, died at his home in that town on Wednesday, Dec. 6th, 1899. Mr. Lewis lacked but a few days of being 95 years of age. He was a skilled carpenter and furniture maker, and up to within a year, perhaps, of his death, busied himself in woodworking, making articles that for one of his years displayed rare skill. In the early days his reputation as a carpenter obtained for him many jobs of house building in other towns.

DR. BENJ. N. COMINGS.

Dr. Benjamin Newton Comings [v Helen Maria (475) p 8 Vol. V] died Dec. 4, 1899, at his home in New Britain, Conn. He was born at Cornish, N. H., November 2, 1816. He fitted for college at Kimball Academy at Meriden, N. H., graduating in 1837. He was graduated at Dartmouth College in 1842, and from the medical college at Castleton, Vt., in 1847. After practicing two years in Troy, N. Y., he removed to Rockville, where he remained until 1853. From that time to 1899 he has made New Britain his home. For over 50 years he has practiced medicine and surgery, and two years ago at 81 years of age he had a paralytic shock, from which he never fully recovered.

TWO CHILDREN DEAD.

The New Britain Herald of Monday, Dec. 18, 1899 states:

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Lewis (v p 95 Vol. V) are receiving the general sympathy of their friends in their double affliction, whereby they are deprived by death of two of their three children in forty-eight hours. The Herald, Saturday, told of the death of Mary, aged 5 years and 5 months from malignant scarlet fever, and mentioned that the son, Russell A., aged 3 years, 9 months, was ill from the same disease. Russell died Saturday night, and the funeral was held Sunday morning. The funeral of Mary took place Saturday. The remaining daughter has just recovered from the disease.

CHAPTER CLVIII.

A BRILLIANT WEDDING.

One of the notable weddings of the year in Bridgeport society was that of Robt. Edw. Lewis, eldest son of Rev. Dr. Wm. H. Lewis, (v p 87 Vol V) of St. John's church, and Maude Wyman, only dau of Mrs. and the late Major William H. Mallory, and granddaughter of the late Hon. and Mrs. George Mallory. The ceremony took place at St. John's church at 6:30 this evening, Nov. 23, 1899, the Rev. Dr. Lewis, father of the groom, officiating: The church was splendidly decorated. The best man was John William Lewis, brother of the groom.

The bride was given away by her uncle, Marshall H. Mallory of New York. She was attired in white satin, trimmed with Duchesse lace, and wore a tulle veil held in place by the orange blossoms used by her mother at her wedding. She carried a white prayer book and a bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley.

CHAPTER CIX.

BY ROBERT WALKER LEWIS, RICHMOND, VIRGINIA.

Lewis-Warner-Washington.

Robert Lewis (1) and Elizabeth, his wife, emigrated from Brecon, Wales, to Va. and settled in Gloucester-co in 1640.

Augustine Warner, Sr. (d Dec. 24, 1674, ae 63) emigrated to Va. in 1628 and founded Warner Hall, the family seat on the river Severn. His wife Mary b. May 15, 1614 d Aug. 11, 1662.

Col. John Washington and his brother Lawrence emigrated to Va. in 1655. Col. John m Anne Pope and had 3 ch, Lawrence, John and Anne.

These three families intermarried in every generation and became one race—the Lewis.

SECOND GENERATION.

John Lewis (2) m 1666 Isabella Warner dau of Augustine Warner, Sr.

Fielding Lewis (6) of Fredericksburg who m (2) Betty Washington, only sister of George Washington.

CHAPTER CX.

Ch of John and Elizabeth (Warner) Lewis.

It is stated on the gravestone of the mother of these children that there were fourteen (v p II Vol V) who were born between the years 1690 (probably) to 1720. The best informed writer on Virginian Lewises, who has contributed to LEWISIANA records, Mr. J. M. McAllister, states (v p 136 Vol IV) only three names are known. John b 1692, Charles b 1696 and Robert b 1704.

In the Abingdon Parish Record v p 170 Vol IV, appear the records of births of 6 ch of John Lewis, two of them of Capt. John and Elizabeth his wife and one of these, Robert, bap in May 1704, as above. This would seem to show that Elizabeth, bap Nov. 25, 1702, certainly was a dau of John (5) and Elizabeth (Warner) Lewis. Of the other four, two are ch of John Lewis Esq., such a title as would be expected for one who was a member of the King's Council for the colony. These must also be considered ch of John (5) and Elizabeth (Warner) Lewis. The other two are singularly enough the first and last mentioned. The first seemingly conflicts with one already mentioned but the date 1702 may not be right. The register is badly mutilated. The last could hardly have been a ch of the son John (7) who m Frances Fielding as their ch begin apparently from 1720.

The writer would suggest then that 8 of these 14 ch are as follows and in case there were no twins with the suggestive blanks would account for 12 of the 14 between the years 1692 and 1712.

Ch of John (5) and Elizabeth (Warner) Lewis b Abingdon Parish, Va.

7.I. John b 1692 m Frances Fielding. 549.II. (?) -----

9.III. Charles b 1696 m Mary Howell, heiress of "the Byrd."

SAMUEL LEWIS, Somerset-co., N. J.

CHAPTER XXXIV.

BY NETTIE J. SHAFFER, HAMILTON, O.

The information of the different branches of our family is very meagre concerning the earlier generation but all seems to point to the conclusion that Samuel our ancestor was a brother of John (7) one of the 14 ch of Major John (5) and Elizabeth (Warner) Lewis of Book XXXV.

One of the oldest living members of our line, now so enfeebled that memory is gone, used to boast, in years gone by, that the Lewises way back in Wales were of high and noble birth. This is certainly in keeping with the traditional record of the descendants of Edward Lewis of Baskingridge, N. J.

The best informed members of our family remember hearing in their early years from parents or relatives how members of the family then living in New Jersey visited the Washingtons to whom they were related.

The Bayless branch of the family claim that a son of Osee (Lewis) Bayless, a gr son of Zephaniah Lewis (7) traced this relationship through the assistance of a Fielding Lewis of Maryland. However true this may be we have never been able to get hold of that record.

CHAPTER LXXI.

FROM HISTORY OF AUGUSTA-CO., VA.
THE BATTLE OF POINT PLEASANT.

Gen. Andrew Lewis, (3) a member of the House of Burgesses for the county of Botetourt, was then (1774) in Williamsburg attending its deliberations. He was widely distinguished for his great actions and the important services he had rendered his country. He was now in his 56th year, and his strong understanding fortified by large experience. The Governor immediately sent for him, and, after a conference, decided on raising an army and appointing Lewis to its command. He asked the General his views as to a campaign. Lewis soon explained to him a plan of campaign that was simple, bold and judicious. The General knew that no such formidable union of savage tribes as now existed had ever taken place on the continent: that no such able and astute leaders as Logan, chief of the Mingos: Cornstalk, sachem of the Shawanese, and King of the Northern Confederacy: Outacite, the man-killer, King of the Cherokees: and Blue Jacket, had ever been formed against the whites, or occupied such a geographical advantage over their enemy. He informed Lord Dunmore (Governor) that the savages must not only be attacked in front, but on the flank: that he should advance by the Kanawha, or the River of the Woods, to the Ohio, while a co-operating force from Fort Pitt, coming down the river, would be prepared to strike the left of the Indian army, advancing from the west. He explained his campaign in detail, and the Governor heartily approved the prospective acuteness of his plan, and said he would take command in person of the force to move from Fort Pitt. Gen. Lewis immediately left the capital for Staunton, and applied himself, with unexampled energy, to raising from the southern counties his force, and performed such wonders of labor as could hardly have been expected from a human body and a human mind. He selected and appointed his own officers, and under them, volunteers came in with such alacrity that there was no occasion to resort to a draft, which he was empowered to do, if necessary. As the companies were completed in Staunton, they were sent off to Camp Union, on the Greenbrier, and, when completed, the force there consisted of the following:

GEN. LEWIS' FORCE.

I. Regiment of Augusta troops, under Col. Charles Lewis. The captains in this regiment were: George Mathews, (afterwards Governor of Georgia) Alex. McClenachan, John Dickinson, John Lewis (son of Col. Wm. Lewis, afterwards of the Sweet Springs) then only sixteen years of age, but celebrated for his martial spirit and herculean strength: Benjamin Harrison, Wm. Paul, Jos. Haynes, Sam'l Wilson.

II. The Botetourt regiment under Col. Wm. Fleming. The captains in this regiment were: Matthew Arbuckle, John Murray, John Lewis, (son of the General in command), James Robertson, Robt. McClenachan, James Ward, John Stuart (author of a Memoir of this Campaign.)

III. The regiment from Culpeper, under Col. John Field.

Three Independent companies from Washington Co., Va., under command of Col. Wm. Christian. Their captains were: Evan Shelby, Wm. Russell. --- Harbert.

An Independent company from Bedford Co., Va., under command of Capt. Thos. Buford.

These citizen-soldiers were men hardened by exercise and toil. Their bodies seemed inaccessible to disease or pain. War was their element. They sported with danger, and met death with composure. To such men the colony of Augusta, the State of Virginia, and the Republic of the United States owe their present greatness.

WILLIAM LEWIS, a weaver, R. I.

CHAPTER XVI.

FROM OTSEGO, N. Y. FARMER.

On Wednesday afternoon Oct. 11, 1899, at his home in Cooperstown, N. Y., occurred the death of Benjamin Franklin Kipp, the oldest business man in this town and probably of the county. As a member of the firm of G. M. Grant & Co. he was widely and favorably known.

Mr. Kipp was born in Johnstown, April 4, 1811. He came of French and Dutch descent, but his family has been prominent in New York city for over three centuries and a half. The first member to touch upon American soil landed at New Amsterdam in 1635 and twenty years later Governor Stuyvesant named the Kipps as "one of the twenty original families comprising the great citizenship of aristocracy."

The subject of this sketch came to this village in the early thirties from Cherry Valley, where he had been in business for two or three years. He opened a harness store on Main St. just west of the Second National bank building. He continued this in different locations until 1856, when he entered into the grocery business with the late George M. Grant, a relationship which death only was able to part.

On October 19, 1837, he was married to Mrs. Elizabeth Lewis Sisson (16 v p 26 Vol. VII.) a union which proved a long and happy one. He had no children of his own, but to his step-daughter the late Mrs. George M. Grant (Harriet Elizabeth 60 v p 141 Vol. IX) he was a true father, and his devotion to her child and grandchildren has always been one of the paramount passions of his life.

Mr. Kipp was one of the keenest business men that this community has ever known. His keenness was not the brilliant flashing kind, but the cool, quiet every day good sense, which counts so effectively in the long run. His judgment was excellent and his opinion always sought after by his partners up to the very last. His integrity was above reproach, and he practiced honesty for honesty's sake, not simply because it is the best policy. Unlike so many business men, long in the harness, he did not allow himself to fall behind the times but his ideas were progressive to the end, and his interest in the business which he had helped to build up never flagged.

Outside of his mercantile life he had few associates. His interests were bound up in his family, in which he was always gentle, affectionate, thoughtful and kind. He was happy in seeing those about him happy, and in family gatherings, a vein of humor was continually cropping out, little known to outsiders. Another remarkable characteristic for a man of his years, was that in spirit he had never grown old. He was not fault-finding or crotchety or pessimistic, but he loved to live, and could enjoy a good dinner or a family gathering or an afternoon on the lake shore as keenly as in his youthful days.

Record of Life.

DEATHS.

In Preston, Ct., Dec. 5, 1899, Frances King, wife of Emery Lewis, aged 60 years.

William F. Lewis, 68, died at Hartford November 5, 1899, after a short illness. Mr. Lewis has lived for a number of years in Waterbury, and was employed as boss machinist in different establishments. Several years ago he came to Watertown and purchased the well known Bennett French farm, on the east side. A few years ago he gave up working in the shop and devoted his time to his farm. Of late his health had become impaired and he was obliged to remain indoors.

Mrs. Adelina Lewis, wife of Lewis Frost of Marion, died at an early hour this morning (Nov. 25, 1899,) at the home of her husband in Marion. Mrs. Frost retired last evening in her customary health. About 3 o'clock this morning she was awakened and complained of feeling ill. Her condition rapidly became more serious and she expired about 6 o'clock. Mrs. Frost was a daughter of the late Alfred and Rosanna Lewis of Marion, and a sister of Mrs. Judson R. Baldwin of Plantsville. She was an estimable lady, and for many years a member of the First Baptist Church of Southington. Besides a husband, she leaves two sons—James, who is a bookkeeper at L. D. Frost & Sons' bolt factory in Marion, and Lewis Frost of Meriden.

Clippings.

HERE AND THERE.

The thoroughness with which the "Oliver Goldsmith" cast has been selected is shown by the fact that so capable an actress as Miss Jeffereys Lewis has been engaged for the part of Mrs. Featherstone. Few actresses of Miss Lewis' years have had the experience that she has had, and have been as successful in as many diverse roles. After three seasons with Wallack she joined Augustin Daly's company, playing leading roles there for several years.

James Hamilton Lewis, former Congressman from the State of Washington, a picturesque person of great magnetism, went to England as the representative of the miners in the Atlin district in Alaska, who claim $25,000,000 which they say John Bull has taken from them by enforcing the rule that only British subjects may hold property there. Mr. Lewis did not return with the money, but he had the consent of the Canadian representative, to lay the claims before the Joint High Commission, after they have been submitted to the State Department.

Mr. Lewis returned to this country, and on being asked how his Vice-Presidential boom was getting along, replied:

"I received seventeen votes for the place at the Chicago convention. I would not decline the nomination. I think the Vice-Presidency belongs to the Pacific next time."

THE RISE OF CONGRESSMAN
LEWIS.

FROM THE PHILADELPHIA RECORD.

A gentleman in the city who is a close friend of Congressman James Hamilton Lewis, of Washington, tells the following story of how Mr. Lewis made his entrance into popular favor out in Washington. Lewis arrived at Spokane during the boom. He had just graduated from the University of Virginia and had been recently admitted to the bar. Like many another he reached Spokane almost penniless. He put up at one of the cheapest boarding houses and began to look over the field. On the second evening after his arrival in the city, a mass-meeting of the citizens was announced to discuss some of the innumerable schemes that booming cities have for alluring capital and raising the price of corner lots. Lewis had fallen in with another young lawyer whose condition was similar to his own. He proposed to his fellow-barrister that as they had nothing else to do that they go around to the meeting. The meeting was in progress when they arrived, and "leading citizens" of the town were being called upon to speak. Lewis was not long in grasping the situation, and he whispered to his friend. The latter shook his head, but Lewis whispered still more and finally carried his point. His friend arose and announced that "he felt sure that if the chairman would call upon our gifted fellow-townsmen, James Hamilton Lewis, he would be glad to speak." The people began calling "Lewis! Lewis!" and at length he went upon the platform and gave one of his characteristic speeches. Language flows readily with him, and he carried the audience by storm. He then reciprocated by calling upon his friend for a speech.

From that day on Lewis was a popular man. Times were often hard with him and his clothing was sometimes threadbare, but somehow he always managed to have a fresh button-hole bouquet, for which the people nick-named him "Dude Lewis." Soon after his speech he formed a partnership with his friend, and the firm is now one of the leading law partnerships on the Pacific Coast.

96. In all the accounts of Francis Lewis, Signer of the Declaration of Independence it is stated that he was buried in Trinity Churchyard. Where? Who can tell? The writer has carefully examined this celebrated place—where many of illustrious name rest—but can find but one monument of a Lewis (v next query Ed.) Surely the resting place of this foremost merchant of New York City ought to be known and suitably marked. Has he living descendants? Do not they care for their grand sire's fame?

94. (further details.) My mother, Maria E. Lewis b Loudon Co., Va., Feby, 28, 1828, was dau of Charles Lewis and Rebecca Nice or Neece. Mother thought that gr. mother Prather as she heard her called must have married again. When mother was an infant the family moved to Louisville, Ky., where they apparently bought a home. Thence they removed to near Terre Haute, Ind., where they seem to have had an interest in some timber lands. Here the 2d child Charles was born and the father died. Soon afterwards the widow m a Goodwin (who proved a rascal) and soon died. Goodwin, with the help of an old nurse of the children, secured the property, (said to be considerable) moved to Louisville, secured the house there which soon burned down, and abandoned the children. They were raised by an estimable man named Clark who reared them as if they were his own. He removed to St. Louis and was in comfortable circumstances. My mother marrying well neither she nor my father cared to inquire into the matter, and I fear now it is too late for me who desire to know my Lewis ancestry. The old nurse is said to have resided at St. Louis and New Orleans, and to have offered at least once to make a confession.
