GENEALOGICAL RECORDS.*Explanations, Abbreviations, etc.

For convenience the records of the various Lewis families are divided into Books and each Book into chapters. At the head of each Book appears the name of the earliest known ancestor of that family. The List of Books is a complete index to the Books as published to this time. New Books will be added from time to time as new branches of the Lewis family are found. As soon as Books are proved parts of others they will be merged into the Books to which they belong. Each name is numbered when first printed and whenever the name is repeated this number follows in brackets. The abbreviations commonly used in genealogical work are used. as b. for born; d. died; m. married; m. (1) first wife; dau. daughter; unm. not married; v. p. see page; etc.

BENJAMIN LEWIS, Stratford, Ct.
CHAPTER CLXXXV.

FROM ORCUTT'S HIST. OF STRATFORD.

Three lads, were presented at the Fairfield county court, August, 1685, for 'stealing water millions, the last Thursday in the night about the going down of the mone,' from Benjamin Lewis's (1) yard.

They confessed having taken two melons—for which they were fined eleven shillings, cost and damage; and for "night walking," were fined in addition ten shillings each, or in default of payment, to sit in the stocks. They petitioned for a remission of the latter penalty, which was granted.

CHAPTER CCCLXXIII.

By CARLL A. LEWIS, GUILFORD, CT.
AMONG THE HAUNTS OF MY PATERNAL ANCESTORS.

By 6:30 A. M. Thursday morning we were on the road. As we drove away, there to the left was the bridge across the Pawcatuck into Connecticut to Stonington, or as some would have us believe, "Stanton" town, and not so very far away are the graves of those two early settlers, Thomas Stanton and Walter Palmer, from whom my eldest girl, Edith Palmer (926), gets the name Palmer. For the lass can trace to Thomas Stanton on both sides of "her house." But our way lies to the right up by the station and away for Hopkinton, the home of so many Lewis descendants of John's (1) son Daniel (4). Soon after crossing the Pawcatuck, which separates Westerly and Hopkinton, we enter a large, well-enclosed cemetery and driving through find, midway on the eastern side, a tall monument marking the burial place of the ministers of the First Hopkinton Seventh Day Baptist Church, the 11th of whom was the Rev. Charles M. Lewis (v p 188 Vol. XII), who was not only a kinsman (so one of our Lewis friends at the L. L. L. meeting informed us who promised a sketch for an early issue) but also my grandmother's pastor. How often and how many of my ancestors have stood here! For this monument marks the site of the meeting house, the first of which was built about 1680 and the last was moved away but a few years ago. For more than a generation we are told this was the only church within a radius of more than ten miles and had a large membership, at one time over a thousand. Its history—all too brief—may be found in the Seventh Day Baptist Memorial, a publication of the Sabbatarian organ, the Sabbath Recorder, whose editor is now the Rev. Abram H. Lewis (136 v p 18, Vol. XIII) of Plainfield, N. J.

A mile or so farther we come to the old church itself now equipped with steeple and bell and we recall our "Stanton" cousin told us how he had helped at the hoisting of the bell. Lowering skies have changed to rain and we neglect to look for the excavation close by which marks the site of Daniel's (4) house and his well still in use, all of which Mrs. Eugenia Lewis Babcock, whose hospitality we expect to enjoy to-morrow at "El Reposo" (v p 58, Vol. XII) has described in Chapter 349 (v p 105 Vol. XII). With one last look at the far-away bounds of the "Lewis Purchase" we turn to the south for two miles. Then turning east, we soon come to the old Dr. Nathan Kenyon place, whose daughter, Weltha, married Christopher C. Lewis (1067) who also lived here and was town clerk of Hopkinton for over 40 years, an honored Deacon of the church we have just left and one of the most prominent of the many worthy and distinguished descendants of the prosperous Daniel (4).

Here we also are at home. For all this land from road to river was the inheritance of the daughters of Elisha Burdick through whose wife I can trace my third line of descent from John (1) Lewis. [Mary Slack b Mar. 24, 1719, was dau of Abigail Lewis (21) the dau of John (3) v p 125 Vol. 111]. There is the old red-school-house ('tis white now) where my father attended school and now we are on "the third" which came into the Gardner family through the marriage of Lucretia Burdick Mar. 5, 1764, to Deacon Samuel Gardner, the father-in-law of Simeon Lewis (276). We reach the gate which father hastens to open. How many times he and his father before him have opened that old gate! Over across the lots we went to the end of the path to the back door of the old house built in 1766. Front doors in these old houses were used only for weddings and funerals and needed no regular path to the road. In yonder corner room my father, John Gardner (438), was born, but its old clock now marks the time in father's dining room (v p 176 Vol. VI) in New Haven.

We pass around to the front of the house and pushing aside the weeds find on the corner foundation stone "S. & L. G. 1766." The scowling housewife does not ask us in but neither scowls nor the snapping dogs stop us from driving down across the meadow to the walled enclosure which no sale can prevent Gardner heirs from visiting. Here lie the ancestors of Fanny Gardner, wife of Jephtha (280) and Simeon (276) Lewis, and also her youngest dau Mary Ann (387) and husband, Maxson Greene, but she lies with the Lewises at Westerly. We locate the field which has been deeded so often to satisfy R. I. requirements for freemen. It was so deeded to my grandfather, Enoch B. (386) when he came of age. Among father's papers is the old deed of all this land to Samuel Gardner signed by James Rhodes and Ann his wife April 1st in the 1st year of his Majesty George III A. D. 1761. As father closes the gate—for the last time he says—I mark the house opposite, which was built by John Gardner, Fanny's brother, (whose old armchair is my favorite chair at home) and where Simeon (276) Lewis passed his last years.

(to be concluded.)

CHAPTER CCCLXXV.

HERE AND THERE IN THE FAMILY.

Married in Norwich, N. Y., Mar. 27, 1902, by Rev. S. J. Ford, Garfield Prindle and Alta May Lewis (356 v p 3, Vol. III).

Died in Norwich, N. Y., Jany. 29, 1902, Mary Lucinda Hicks (327 v p 2, Vol. III), ae 64 years, dau of Gurdon and Ruth (Lewis) Hicks.

Walter F. Lewis, (2780 v p 117 Vol. VII.) D. D. S., is Professor of Orthodontia, in the College of Physicians and Surgeons of San Francisco.

The Redlands (Calif.) Facts announced Aug. 16, 1902, that Mrs. P. R. Brown [Sarah A. (441) Lewis] stood first in its voting contest. Mrs. Brown and her daughter-in-law will spend two weeks at the Coronado, the most famous of the sea-shore resorts of the Pacific coast, all expenses being paid by the Facts. Connecticut friends of Mrs. Brown will be glad to learn of her success.

Among the testimonials of a "Hair Grower and Dressing," which found its way to LEWISIANA, were those of Edwin R. Lewis (1104) M. D. of Westerly, R. I., and Mr. and Mrs. George A. Lewis (947) of Greenville, Conn.

Macmillans, Publishers, announce "Applied English Grammar, Complete," a two-years' course in grammar for the upper grammar grades of the public schools, by Edwin Herbert Lewis, (158) Ph. D., Prof. of English in the Lewis Institute, Chicago. Cloth 12mo. The book is highly practical and is unique in the amount of time it devotes to the correction of vulgar errors and to practice on the colloquialisms which are sanctioned by usage. Probably no grammar has ever been written with fuller realization of the exact spots where the language of the American boy and girl is weak. Conversational usage is the backbone of this grammar. The author expresses the spirit of every lesson when he writes: "Nor need there be a fear that learning to say 'isn't' will be less educative than distinguishing 'object complements' from 'objective complements.'"

She was a woman unusually bright, intelligent and well-informed on all subjects especially in botany, medicine, religion and politics. She had travelled much in Canada and the U. S. Few have such a memory as hers. She knew more of her Lewis relatives and their records than any other member of the family, and her collection of records—the work of a life time—was probably the best in existence. Unfortunately it was burned with her old papers after her death. [How often LEWISIANA hears this lament! Reader send us your Lewis records to be preserved in print before a like misfortune befalls them.—ED.]

CHAPTER CCCIV.

FROM DAVIS'S HIST. OF WALLINGFORD.

Jared Lewis (68 v p 7 Vol. IV) was born in Wallingford, and was for several years a justly celebrated hotel keeper and merchant in the village. He owned and occupied the lot on which now stands the house and store of Lorenzo Lewis (1685 v p 121 Vol. XII) his grandson. He was a prominent politician. One of the parties at one time assumed the name of Lewis, and the opposition that of Cooke. Politics never ran higher in Wallingford than at this time. He was the father of Isaac Lewis (69), who was keeper of a hotel and merchant at Meriden, and who was the father of the late Patrick Lewis (77), and of Isaac Lewis (75), who is and has been a very successful business man in Meriden for several years.

[The sketch of Isaac C. Lewis (75) concludes as follows v p 121 Vol. IV for life.—ED.]

Mr. Lewis commenced life without a dollar, and by his own exertions and strict attention to business has accumulated a large fortune. He never had a note protested, never was sued, nor has he ever entered a suit against any man. Universally loved and respected, he affords another example in this town, of what honest industry and enterprise can accomplish.

THE HARP OF A THOUSAND STRINGS.

The New York Times Saturday Review of Books has had much to say of late concerning the authorship of a very unique and burlesque sermon entitled "The Harp of a Thousand Strings." Its author was Rev. Henry Taliaferro Lewis (339 v p 184 Vol. X), of whom in 1881 the Louisville Courier Journal said Mr. Lewis was a gentleman of rare ability; a poet, wit and humorist of the first order. He was also a Methodist clergyman of the highest standing, of unimpeachable integrity and veracity, and universally respected by all who knew him. He has hosts of friends all over the South and Southwest, from Tennessee to the Gulf, and from Florida to Texas, in many parts of which extensive region he labored as a preacher of the Gospel.

HERE AND THERE IN THE FAMILY.

Ira W. Lewis (1824) of Dixon, Ills., clerk of Circuit Court and Recorder of Lee county, is son of the Hiel Lewis (1825) b Dec. 31, 1816, and nephew of Joseph (1826) mentioned in the Clipping on p 48 Vol. XIII. This Rev. Nathaniel Lewis is Nathaniel (1647 v. p 183 Vol. XI), who had 12 ch., 6 sons and 6 daus.

One of the special features of the Boston Transcript for Wednesday July 30, 1902 was, How Boston Heard the News—A study of the mob in a local theatre on the night of the "Championship"—By O. F. Lewis, (691).

Doctor and Mrs. Bransford Lewis (1130 v p 167 Vol. VIII) departed July 15, for Canada, where they intend spending a month. On their way back they will visit Mr. and Mrs. Edw. S. Lewis (1126) at Haabor Point, Mich.

Silver, Burdett & Co., of New York, announce two cantatas in the Beacon Series of vocal selections. The editor of these two numbers is Leo R. Lewis (690 v p 49 Vol. XII), Prof. of the History and Theory of Music at Tufts' College: member of the Faculty of the Eastern School of The American Institute of Normal Methods. He has put into these new booklets the practical results of years of experience as well as the artistic aims fostered by prolonged theoretical study.

During the coming season it is announced the public will no longer lose those qualities so characteristic of the Rev. John Jay Lewis (689 v p 130 Vol. VI), well-known as "The Apostle of the Passion Play in America,"—his commanding presence, the remarkable play of his mobile features, the charm of his genial personality, and his impressive manner of presenting a subject—as he will appear on the lighted platform in three new lectures.

The Rev. Dr. John Vaughan Lewis of Point Pleasant, N. J., son of Rev. William Henry (721 v p 87 Vol. V), writes that the Rev. Isaac Jones, brother of his gr. mother Mary (Jones) Lewis, was their family genealogist but that all his papers were lost in the Chicago fire. [LEWISIANA supplied the last line of ancestry from George (1).—Ed.]

The Cavalry this morning [Oct. 19th] escorted the President about five miles from camp, when he requested the Troops to return, and at taking leave spoke to Major George Lewis as follows: "George, You are the eldest of five nephews that I have in this Army, let your conduct be an example to them, and do not turn your back until you are ordered." Major Lewis made a suitable reply----The President's five nephews are Major George Lewis (16), Commandant of the Cavalry, Major Laurence Lewis (21), Aid de Camp to Major Gen'l Morgan, Mr. Howell Lewis (23), in Capt. Mercer's troop, and Mr. Sam'l Washington (son of Col. Ch's Washington), and Mr. Laurence Washington (son of Col. Sam'l Washington), both of whom are light horsemen in the troop lately commanded by Capt. Lewis, [promoted to be Major Commandant of the Cavalry, Oct. 17th.]

CHAPTER XLII.

A LETTER TO THE EDITOR.

Of late in Book XL you have given extracts from New York's Famous Families. Now for the truth of history why not give the other side, especially as it is claimed that there are now no living Lewises of this line. Thomas Jones, Justice of the Supreme Court of the Province, in his History of New York devotes a chapter to the character of Francis Lewis. The N. Y. Hist. Soc. Library has a mss. entitled "Annely v Lewis, Instructions to draw Bill," and there are some communications in the N. Y. Gazette and Weekly Post Boy. Even if these are too long to be printed in LEWISIANA that such papers exist should at least be stated. I am

A Lewis but a searcher for the truth of history.

It would seem to the Editor, 1st. that it was now necessary for those Lewises claiming descent from Francis, the Signer of the Declaration of Independence, to prove their claims; 2d. that LEWISIANA is undoubtedly the place to show the falsity of Judge Jones's statements concerning Francis Lewis and his sons. To that end we shall reprint at least this chapter from Judge Jones's work and shall be glad to receive refutations of these charges. It seems only fair to give at the outset an extract from Henry P. Johnston's Observations on this History of N. Y.

"And if----Judge Jones has, in the cases noticed, proved himself a blundering and unreliable witness and writer, what guarantees have we that he has given us truth and accuracy in the many other statements which he pretends to publish as secret history, but which, in the probable absence of records, cannot be either substantiated or denied to-day? Suspicion at once attaches to his entire work. The Judge's continued and pitiless references to----his pen-pictures of and insinuations in regard to----Francis Lewis----how far is the Judge to be followed?----There must remain a conviction that however true the Judge's statements may prove to be in any given case, they still require confirmation."

While in the wilds of the West, he was called upon to perform the awkward operation of extracting a tumor from the throat of an Indian chief which was strangling him. The danger lay in its not being successful, in which case the Doctor would probably have been killed. In 1849, he printed (32 mo. pp 72) at Philadelphia, for circulation among his friends, a few copies of The Bockhesarian Fountain, by Alexander Pooshkeen, and other Poems by various Authors: translated from the original Russian by William D. Lewis. Dedicated to my Russian Friends. This is the first collection of translations from the Russian ever made by an American. Robert Baylis Lewis (11 v p 196 Vol. XII) b at Pendleton, S. C., Jany. 30, 1813, removed with his father to Rock Mills in Pendleton Co., S. C., about 1815. He attended the common schools of the country, and when of sufficient age to begin business, was employed by Mr. Samuel G. Earle of Evergreen, S. C., where he remained in business till after his marriage to Juliet Arabella, dau. of John Howard and Keziah (Jenkins) Hammond, on March 20th, 1839. After his marriage he removed to Dahlonega. Lumpkin Co., Ga. in 1842, where he entered the mercantile business with Major Lewis (18) of Tennessee, and Jonathan Berrien Lewis (19) of Anderson Dist., S. C., both of whom were his cousins. After the death of Major Lewis he bought the interest of J. B. Lewis and continued the business in his own name until 1857, when he sold out to Charles Besser, of Charleston, S. C. He was stricken with paralysis in Nov. 1857, and died at Dahlonega on the 18th of May, 1858, and was buried at that place.

He was an agent of the U. S. Gov., at the time that the Indians were removed to their reservations beyond the Mississippi from the Cherokee Strip now in Hall Co., Ga.

He was also engaged in the Tanning business at Dahlonega, and served as one of the Judges of the Inferior Court of his County.

Few people, in England or elsewhere, do as much in the cause of charity as Mrs. "Sam" Lewis, upon whom the Sultan of Turkey not long ago conferred a decoration in recognition of her remarkable liberality to the destitute of all faiths who are living in his capital. There is scarcely a field of charitable endeavor in which Mrs. Lewis does not figure, either as a giver or as a worker, or as both. When the organizing committee of the King Edward hospital fund published its last report, the list of announced contributors contained Mrs. Lewis' name conspicuously placed opposite to a quarterly subscription of £2,500. Fifty thousand dollars a year to one charity is liberal giving indeed.

ALTOONA, Aug. 13.—William C. Stiffler, of this city, has secured 379½ acres of unsettled land in Logan township, which has an aggregate value of $150,000.

State records show that in March 1793, David Lewis took out patent rights on the tract. Lewis and his heirs disappeared, leaving no record of their whereabouts. The ownership of the land passed to the State by reason of non-payment of taxes. As soon as Mr. Stiffler had mastered the facts of the case he entered a claim for the land and the payment of a small sum to the State Treasury gave him absolute title to the tract. There are two veins of coal underlying it.

The Allegheny county prison board Mar. 11, 1902, elected Edward Lewis warden of the Allegheny county jail. Mr. Lewis was born at Dallas, Wales, Aug. 16, 1860, and was brought to this country by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Lewis, when he was but nine years old. The family resided at Apollo for two years and then removed to the Twenty-eighth ward, Pittsburgh, where he remained until five years ago, when he was married and removed to Knoxville. He was in the employ of the Oliver Iron & Steel Co. for 22 years, leaving it in 1893 to become a deputy sheriff. The last six years of his employment by the steel firm he managed the Woods Run mill. Mr. Lewis is at present a member of the Knoxville borough council. He stands high in the Masonic fraternity, being a member of Pittsburg Commandery No. 1, Knights Templar.

The Detroit Free Press, Sunday, June 8, 1902, had a large (8x16 inches) photographic group showing the family—sons and daughters by direct descent and through marriage, and the gr. ch.—of Alexander I. Lewis, one of Detroit's most honored citizens. In the group were Mr. and Mrs. E. D. J. Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Carpenter and son Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. W. Howie Muir and daus.
