Dear Sir:—

I am in receipt of a letter * * *

Assuring you that this Committee will do all in its power to make yours a successful day, I am,

Sincerely yours,

E. C. Culp, Secretary,

A St. Louis Clipping.

The Lewis Society of St. Louis, the local branch of a national organization known as the Loyal Lewis Legion, met at the Mercantile Club last night to discuss plans for the celebration of Lewis Day at the World's Fair.

September 23, 1904, is the day appointed by the World's Fair management as Lewis Day. The Loyal Lewis Legion hopes to have on that day the biggest family reunion that was ever held in the history of the world. From 10,000 to 12,000 Lewises are expected.

(Plans were made for a large meeting of the Society on Sept. 23, 1903, when the Committees

GENEALOGICAL RECORDS.

Explanations, Abbreviations, Etc.

For convenience the records of the various Lewis families are divided into Books and each Book into chapters. At the head of each Book appears the name of the earliest known ancestor of that family. From Nat. Cyclo. of Am. Biog.

Loran Ludowick Lewis (18 v p 75 Vol. XII) jurist, b Cayuga co., N. Y., May 9, 1825. His educational opportunities in early life were limited, but he fitted himself to teach in the district schools, and while engaged in teaching read law at night. He subsequently studied with Judge Hulbert, and finished his legal course in the office of Seward & Blatchford, Auburn, N. Y. He was admitted to the bar in 1848, and engaged in practice at Buffalo, N. Y., where he still resides. He has acted as counsel in many celebrated civil and criminal cases, among them the "grape sugar" case, in which he obtained a verdict of $247,125 for his client. In 1869 he was elected to the state senate and in 1871 was re-elected, serving on the committees on canals, commerce and navigation and internal affairs, and acting as chairman of the committee on canals in his second term. He was elected justice of the supreme court at the same time that Grover Cleveland, as candidate for governor, carried N. Y. state by a majority of 200,000. Judge Lewis was the only Republican candidate elected. He remained on the bench from 1882 until 1896, when he reached the constitutional age limit of service in that body and he has since been associated with his two sons as counsel. His brother, the late Dr. Dio Lewis (17 v p 116 Vol. IV) of Boston, was widely known as a journalist, author and lecturer on physiology and hygiene. Judge Lewis

Chapter CCCXXXVI.

The Sally Lewis Association.

The ninth reunion of the Sally Lewis Association was held on Thursday, June 25th, in the First Congregational Church, Southington, Ct. After informal and business meetings of the alumni abounding in many reminiscences of the past dinner was served in the dining room of the chapel. In the afternoon, before a large audience Charles Olney of Cleveland, O., president of the Sally Lewis Association, delivered an address upon the "Old School Days" and the duty of the association's members. Rev. A. N. Lewis (450 v p 148 Vol. IV) of Montpelier, Vt., the association's poet, then read a poem.

A bronze tablet (v p 118 Vol. XIII) about 30 by 40 inches, costing about $500, to be placed in the reception room of the Lewis High School (v p 146 Vol. VIII) was then unveiled by Miss Marion Lewis, great-grandniece of Sally Lewis (461 v p 130 Vol. VIII) and Miss Anita Lewis, great-grandniece of Addin Lewis (486 v p 166 Vol. IV.). After the speeches of presentation and reception Miss Anita Lewis gave a violin solo.

THE BRONZE TABLET.

From the New Haven, Ct., Register.

An excellent bas relief medalion of the late Henry D. Smith, the first principal of Lewis High School, surmounts the tablet, whose inscription follows:

In Grateful Memory of Sally and Addin Lewis,

In Recognition of Their Gifts for the Cause of Higher Education.

in Southington, Conn.

And of

Henry D. Smith,

First Preceptor of Sally Lewis Academy
Erected by

The Sally Lewis Academy Association.
1903.

The Lewis Academy dates back to the early '40's. Sally Lewis willed about $3,000 for a school. Upon the death of her cousin, Addin Lewis, the academy received another endowment and for many years as a result of Sally and Addin Lewis' bequests, the town of Southington had a school that offered educational advantages superior to the schools of surrounding towns. With the advancement of educational institutions in other towns, the academy became the Lewis High School, the latter today being in part supported from what is known as the "Addin Lewis Fund." The first academy building stood where now stands the Town Hall.

William Lord Lewis, (42 LXXIX, v p 92, Vol. XI) m June 10, 1903, Newark, Ohio, by Rev. L. C. Sparks, Elnora Maude, dau. of Oren Luke, and Ida Isadora (Jeffries) Ingman, b Mar. 5, 1880, Newark, O. The Newark American Tribune of June 11 says: "A very pretty afternoon home wedding took place yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock, when Rev. L. C. Sparks pronounced the words uniting for life Elnora Maud Ingman and William Lord Lewis, the ceremony taking place at the home of the bride, 499 West Main street. Promptly at that hour, as the sweet strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march pealed forth from under the skillful fingers of Miss Marie Shirer, the bridal party entered the parlor and stood under an arch of ferns and daisies, where the ceremony was performed. The bridesmaid was Miss Laura Odgers, of Cleveland, and the best man was H. Stanley Ingman, brother of the bride, while little Helen Ingman, sister of the bride, carried the ring in a beautiful white lily. The bride was charming in a gown of white chiffon, trimmed with medalions, and carried bridal roses. The bridesmaid looked sweet in her gown of white silk mull and lace, and carried pink roses; Helen Ingman, the little ring bearer, wore pink silk trimmed with lace. The groom and his best man wore the usual black. After the ceremony and the congratulations were over, a most sumptuous wedding supper was served, after which the bridal couple left for Mt. Vernon, where they spent the night, and today will go further north on their wedding trip. The bride was the recipient of many choice and valuable presents from her large circle of friends as tokens of regard. Miss Ingham is the daughter of O. L. Ingham, of the post-office force, and a favorite in her circle of friends. Mr. Lewis, who is a brother of Mrs. F. Martin Townsend, has been a resident of Newark for several years, being a valued employee at the Jewett Car Works. Only near friends of the bride and groom were present.

EVAN LEWIS, Wales to Penn.

Chapter XXIX.

From New Haven, Conn. Register.

The Yale commencement that has just passed into history was exceptionally noteworthy. It was a week which brought out more suggestive contributions to the solution of the ever increasing problems of the squaring of university education to changing practical and public uses than we have seen offered at a Yale commencement in recent years.

There were four addresses which rose pre-eminently among the several speeches of the last three days at the university, which brought out the many phases of this national problem in bold and striking relief.

Another was that offered by Charlton T. Lewis, '53, before the alumni Tuesday morning. Professor Lewis urged the returning in some measure at least of the university curriculum to that high aim of general culture, both of character and of mind, which was the chief and special characteristic of a college education a half century ago. It was a voice "coming out of antiquity," perhaps, but it was a voice also that may well have been heard with attention by the leaders of the universities of today. It is "the well rounded man, the man who can touch elbows with all classes, and all states of social and intellectual conditions," that is, in fact, the educated man, and not the specialist who is to go into the world after his college graduation and render it the most complete and well rounded service. Professor Lewis sounded a serious note when he made his plea for a return to the "culture" that the instructors gave a half century ago. If the times have changed, if specialization is nowadays a necessary preliminary to the fight a man must wage against his intellectual, business and social compeers in the world, no less is culture necessary if he is to be the force he should be in his life work.

Marrriages.

In Detroit, Mich., June 30, 1903, by Rev. H. B. Otte, J. Farrand Lewis and Emma Beyer. Alexander Lewis of Chicago, brother of the groom was best man. Mr. and Mrs. Lewis will be at home after Sept. 1st at their apartments, Ferry ave. and John R. st.

In Waterbury, Conn., April 29, 1903, by Rev. F. B. Stockdale, Leon M. Barnes and Lida May Lewis, both of Waterbury.

Anniversary.

The fiftieth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel A. Lewis was commemorated at their summer cottage at Elberon, N. J., June 9, 1903. Their seven sons and their seven grandchildren were present.

The N. Y. Herald states that Mr. Lewis's public career began in 1868, when he was elected to the office of School Commissioner from the old Ninth and Sixteenth wards. While occupying this position he secured the passage of a resolution abolishing corporal punishment in the public schools of New York city. In 1872 he headed the committee which arranged an entertainment, the proceeds of which formed the nucleus of the present Teachers' Fund. The panic of 1873 threw thousands out of work, and Mr. Lewis was active in raising $5,000, which was used to relieve the needs of the poor who were temporarily deprived of a means of livelihood.

Mr. Lewis was elected Alderman at large in 1874 and later in that same year he was elected President of the Board of Aldermen, holding the leadership in this body for two consecutive terms. He was instrumental in passing the franchise bill of the Manhattan Elevated Railroad and did much to force this franchise through in the face of a fierce opposition. During the term of Mayor Wickham, Mr. Lewis served as acting Mayor in the absence of Mr. Wickham. He retired from public life in 1878 and has since lived quietly with his family in New York city and Elberon, N. J.

Mr. Lewis has long been identified with the charity workers of New York. It was principally due to his efforts that the first money was raised to found Mount Sinai Hospital, and he has served as director of the hospital for twenty-one years. Born in New York city in 1831, Mr. Lewis has grown up with the city, and is naturally proud of its rapid stride into second position in point of population of the cities of the world. He is young in spirit and carries his seventy-two years so easily that he looks twenty years younger than he really is.

Deaths.

In Chicago, Ills., Jan'y 27, 1903, Margaret D. Lewis, ae. 91, formerly of Berlin, Wis., at the home of her dau. Mrs. Frederick Ullman, 282 E. 48th st. Interment at Berlin, Wis.

In Chicago, Ills., Feb. 3, 1903, Lavinia Lewis, ae. 60, res. 3329 State st.

In Chicago, Ill., Apr. 4, 1903, bravely facing death between a runaway horse and a hose cart, at full speed on its way to a fire, Samuel J. Lewis, a machinist, ae. 21, unm. lost his life in an attempt to save scores of people emerging from two theatres from the runaway.

In Watertown, Wis., June 10, 1903, George Burnham Lewis, a prominent manufacturer and business man, president of the G. B. Lewis company, at his home, 408 Washington st. The Watertown Daily Times states that Mr. Lewis was b in Moreau, Saratoga co., N. Y., July 5, 1832. He received an education in his native city and when a young man of 21 came West, reaching this city in 1853, where he remained during the summer visiting with his brothers who had preceded him here. He returned to New York in the fall and shortly after m Sarah J. Inghalsbe. Mr. Lewis tried farming for a while, but his thoughts reverted to Wisconsin and in 1861 he removed to this city and has lived here ever since. In company with his brother, R. E. Lewis, he purchased the water power on the west bank of Rock river. The firm name was then R. E. & G. B. Lewis, and after sawing up the logs which were purchased with the mill and water power, the firm engaged in the manufacture of sash, doors and blinds. In 1870 R. E. Lewis retired and G. B. Lewis became sole owner and conducted the business until 1878 when the firm of Lewis & Parks was formed, and upon the death of Mr. Parks, his son-in-law the firm became known as the G. B. Lewis company, one of the largest manufacturers of beekeepers' supplies in this country. From a small beginning the business of the firm increased rapidly under his guidance and management until it became one of the largest of its kind with a manufactured product which sells all over the world.

Mr. Lewis possessed a quiet and amiable disposition and was a man of integrity. In his business and social life he displayed those characteristics which are so much admired and those who had occasion to have business or social intercourse with him always had a kind word to say in praise of his many good qualities. Mr. Lewis never aspired to political honors, preferring the quiet of his home. For the last twenty years he has passed the winter months in Dunedin, Fla., where he has large property interests, and it was while there early this spring that he was taken sick. By his death Watertown loses one of its oldest and most progressive business men and an honorable citizen who always took pride in his home city and helped in its upbuilding. He will be sadly missed from the family home circle and by his many friends and acquaintances here and throughout the state.

He was a charter member of Unity Council, No. 230, Royal Arcanum. His widow and two children, Mrs. L. L. Parks and George C. Lewis of this city survive. The interment was in Oak Hill cemetery.

Clippings.

At the annual meeting of the Kansas Federation of Women's Clubs in Wichita, Mrs. Cora G. Lewis was elected president. Mr. Lewis, husband of this brainy woman, is a quiet, unobtrusive man who lives only for his wife's success. Devoted to their home life in Kinsley, which is a model one, he cares nothing for society or politics. His patient tenderness when it has seemed to Mrs. Lewis, in her club ambitions, that the world is against her, has done much to keep up her courage, and to help her reach the lofty summit where she now stands. Mr. Lewis is a few years his wife's senior, but it was a love match, and had the usual touch of romance. Although surrounded by business problems he manages to keep in touch with his wife's literary flights and it has been his custom ever since he married to refresh his inner life every day with a bit of poetry. The influence of such a man upon the life that is welded to his cannot be over estimated. Mrs. Lewis owes much to her husband. Women would amount to more if there were more helpful husbands like Mr. Lewis of Kinsley, Kan.

(Mrs. Cora G. Lewis is associate editor of the Kinsley Graphic of which J. M. Lewis, Jr., is editor. Ed.)

Another Irish girl is Miss Ada Lewis, who leaped into local fame in a single night by her presentation of a San Francisco hoodlum in "Reilly and the Four Hundred." For many years there after Miss Lewis's "tough girl" was so well known to the theatre going public that her managers would never let her appear in anything else.
