Rome, N. Y., Feb. 11.—Andrew Lewis of Prattville, Mich., has been visiting his brother, R. W. Lewis of this city. The two enlisted together in the Civil War under Lincoln's first call for 75,000 volunteers, and fought together in twenty-one battles. After the war they returned to Rome, Andrew then going West. This is the first time they had seen each other in twenty-three years. Andrew took back with him the old army musket he used in the war and the old knapsack which had been cared for by the brother here.

It is announced, effective February 15, that Arthur H. Lewis, late of The Arlington, Toronto, Canada, and formerly a clerk in The Grand Pacific, Chicago, The Planters, St. Louis, and The Pfister, Milwaukee, becomes manager of The Altamont, Fort Thomas Ky. This is a beautiful new hotel opened last September and adjoins the military post of Fort Thomas.

Thirty years ago Fay Lewis & Bro., the Rockford, Ill., cigar firm began business in that city and have since continued in the same location. To celebrate the anniversary they invited all their friends to call and smoke a Tom Moore cigar at the expense of the firm. Nearly 3,000 called.

John Lewis, b 1796, m a Bishop; was originally in business in Darien, Conn.; came to N. Y. City, where as John Lewis & Co. was in business at 53 Wall st.; his name published in the Herald in 1837 as one of a list of houses that could not fail; paid taxes on $200,000 worth of real estate at one time; retired in 1840 with a fortune estimated at $100,000; after his wife's death moved to Clinton, Conn., where he was living in 1866.

"Joe" Lewis, the multi-millionaire diamond merchant of London, is now in New York with his wife, who was once the famous stage beauty, Fanny Ward, and their child, Dorothy Mabel Lewis. Although Lewis was born in Russia he boasts of being an Englishman. He came here to inspect some silver mines in Ojalca, Mexico, of which he is the principal owner.

Dr. H. Edwin Lewis, New York City. •
 Managing Editor of the International Journal of Surgery.
 By Courtesy of the American Medical Journalist.

From American Medical Journalist.

Dr. Lewis comes to the International Journal of Surgery completely equipped for his work, having a broad academic education as well as a thorough medical training. For the past nine years he has had a large and varied experience in hospital and general practice in Burlington, Vt., and has studied extensively in this country and in Europe.

The International Journal of Surgery is to be congratulated on acquiring Dr. Lewis's services as managing editor. For a long time the International Journal of Surgery has been one of the leading medical journals of the country, and Dr. Lewis is also to be congratulated on having been appointed to a publication with so broad a field and such splendid opportunities.

Dr. Lewis is a Mystic Shriner, an Elk and a member of a large number of scientific organizations.

From the Burlington Free Press.

Eleven years ago Dr. H. Edwin Lewis came to Burlington and established a medical Journal which soon developed into one of the leading medical publications in the country. Its editorials and articles have been copied by medical journals all over the world, and it has been generally recognized as one of the best and most successful local medical monthlies in the United States. Great credit is due to Dr. Lewis for his energy, perseverance and ability in placing his journal on the substantial scientific and financial footing it has attained.

In 1897 Dr. Lewis graduated from the University of Vermont medical department and immediately after served one year as house surgeon at the Fanny Allen Hospital. On completing his hospital service he entered active practice in Burlington and soon built up a large and lucrative business. Numerous postgraduate studies in this country and Europe have been followed and Dr. Lewis has been recognized as an authority on tuberculosis and pulmonary ailments. In 1902 Dr. Lewis was responsible for the inauguration of an active crusade against tuberculosis in Vermont and principally through his efforts the law creating a tuberculosis commission was brought about. For two years he gave efficient service as secretary of the state tuberculosis commission.

During the past four years Dr. Lewis has had his brother, Dr. Frank Lewis, associated with him in practice and in medical journal work. Dr. Frank Lewis will continue their large practice and Dr. H. E. Lewis will return to Burlington periodically for consultation.

Wishin' Time.

By J. M. Lewis in Inland Printer.
 When the Wishin' time of year,
 When the fishin' time of year,
 When the flowers are a-bloomin'
 And the coixin' rains are here,
 When the mockingbirds are callin'
 And of nights the caterwaulin'
 Of the lovelorn cats are smiting
 The tympanum of the ear,
 Don't you wish that you could go
 Where the country breezes blow,
 And the old trees seem to beckon,
 And to whisper: "Come on, here?"
 When the dreamin' time of year,
 When the gleamin' time of year,
 When the moon shines all the night-time
 And the days are bright and clear,
 When of nights you hear the callin'
 Of the mockingbirds, and fallin'
 Through the darkness comes the whirrin'

Of the crickets to your ear,
 Don't you wish you could skedaddle
 Back to where you used to paddle
 In the branch, back where the breezes
 Seem a-whispering: "Come here."

GENEALOGICAL RECORDS.

Explanations, Abbreviations, Etc.

For convenience the records of the various Lewis families are divided into Books and each Book into chapters. At the head of each Book appears the name of the earliest known ancestor of that family. The list of Books is a complete index to the Books as published to this time. New Books will be added from time to time as new branches of the Lewis family are found. As soon as Books are proved parts of others they will be merged into the Books to which they belong. Each name is numbered when first printed and whenever the name is repeated this number follows in brackets. The abbreviations commonly used in genealogical work are used.

Family Notes.

The suggestion of marking the burying ground of John Lewis (1) in a suitable manner (v p 153 Vol. XVI) appeals to me and if the matter can be brought to a head through our valuable paper, Lewisiana, I would gladly be one to assist in its success (v p 86 Vol. XIII for the treasurer of this fund). I trust through Lewisiana to make good my claims on Lewis lines to admittance to Sons of the American Revolution and Society of Sons of the Colonial Wars.

The Lewis & Clark Centennial Exposition has presented Carl A. Lewis of Guilford a "Commemorative Diploma for Valuable Services."

Lewisiana has received from the Director of the Bureau of the Census a copy of the Statistical Atlas of the 12th Census, a useful and valuable compilation containing not only all the maps and diagrams used for illustrating the Reports of the 12th Census, but a number especially prepared for this publication.

From Philadelphia North American.

Henry Martyn Lewis (294 v p 24 Vol. XVI) president of the White Dental Company, died suddenly at his home, 5520 Wayne avenue, Germantown, Friday, Jan'y 26, 1906.

Mr. Lewis was born in New Britain, Conn., October 24, 1831, and came to Philadelphia in 1838.

He entered the High School but left in 1847 to go into the hardware business. In 1862 Mr. Lewis entered the government service in the Department of Internal Revenue, and in 1867 became chief bookkeeper and cashier for Dr. S. S. White. At the formation of the S. S. White Dental Company in 1881, Mr. Lewis became general manager and upon the death of Dr. James W. White, in 1891, was elected president of the company.

Mr. Lewis was an elder in the Walnut St. Presbyterian Church for twenty-two years. He has been elder of the First Presbyterian Church of Germantown, since his residence there.

GEORGE LEWIS, England to Mass.

Chapter CCCLXXXIII.

By Marcus W. Lewis, Duluth, Minn.

Rodman Lewis (2052 v p 103 Vol. XIV) was born at Barnstable, Mass., and removed with his father's family to Albany co., N. Y., about 1800. He studied for the ministry and was connected with the M. E. Church for a few years, then became a member of the Episcopal Church. He m (1) Statira Patchin; a babe which d in infancy was the result of this union; m (2) Elizabeth Crook; 2 ch. b. 2299. I. Milton. 2300. II. Fannie.

Rodman (2052) was Chaplain in the U. S. Navy for many years. About 1859 he became a resident of Binghamton, N. Y., where he followed the ministry (Episcopal).

He d there May 30, 1869, ae. 77 yrs. 8 mo. 20 da. (His age of 84 yrs. given in Vol. XIV p 103 is in error).

Following is an interesting incident of the life of Rodman Lewis:—He was a member of the Masonic order and highly appreciated the institution. While serving as Chaplain of the Navy, the vessel, having on board the members of the Japanese Embassy, touched at Panama. Being dressed in a common suit, he presented a marked contrast to the glittering display of the other officers of the ship. He saw, on this account, that he received no notice from the Japanese officers. It occurred to him that he would address them in the language of Free Masonry. They immediately responded in same language. The chief of the Embassy fell down on his knees and embraced the uncostumed chaplain with great affection. From that moment the humble teacher of the gospel received more attention and honor than all of his companions.

Chapter CCCLXXXIV.

By Arthur R. Lewis, Marshall, Mich.

Fisher, Booth & Co., of Detroit, wished to back Gleason (1944 v last issue) in the purchase of the Russell House there, but his next investment was the purchase of the Chautauqua Lake Railway from Cory, Pa., to Brockton, N. Y. He was, at that time, reported to be worth a million dollars. The securing of land grants for soldiers and widows of the War of 1812 and dealings in such land warrants, as well as publishing small religious and patriotic papers occupied the later years of his life and he died a comparatively poor man.

Gleason F. Lewis (1944) d Dec. 10, 1903, at the home of a friend in Jefferson, O., and was interred at Kelloggsville, O. An obituary with picture was published in the Cleveland Leader, Dec. 12, 1903.

Chapter CCCLXXXV.

From New Haven, Ct., Register.

Washington, March 2.—Representative Overstreet, the chairman of the house committee on the post-offices and post roads, today reported a resolution adopted by the committee, calling upon the postmaster general to furnish the house a full statement of the facts bearing upon the order made by him withholding the right and privileges of the mails from the People's United States bank at St. Louis, Mo. The house agreed to the resolution and the postmaster general will probably transmit to congress all the affidavits and papers in the case.

This is a matter in which several Connecticut people are greatly interested and the prime mover in the bank is E. G. Lewis (2209 v p 110 Vol. XV) a former Bridgeport resident. The members of the Connecticut delegation have been urged by many residents of the state to interest themselves in this case and the action of the house is the first step. The committee will carefully consider anything the postmaster general submits and may report its findings to congress, especially if the committee considers the action of the department unjust.

Chapter CCLXXXVII.

From Baltimore Sunday Sun.

Warner Hall was built originally by Col. Augustine Warner, who emigrated to Va. in 1628. It has been burned to the ground three times. The original house is said to have been built of old English brick, three stories high, containing 28 rooms. A small portion of the wing, still standing, bears the date 1635. The old graveyard attached to the place is most interesting and contains the graves of both the Warner and Lewis families.

Palmer, Mass., dau. of Robert and Hannah (Hoar) Smith of Palmer, Mass. She d Nov. 27, 1877, in Winsted, Conn. He resided at Belchertown until 1836, in Palmer until 1838 when he removed with his family of 6 children with a company of about a dozen neighbors and friends to Ogle county, Ill., the whole distance being travelled in prairie schooners and the journey occupied 6 weeks where they settled on government land. He removed from Marion, Ogle co., to Rockford, Ill., in 1852. It was pioneer life with its many troubles and hardships but he had great perseverance and saw his son located near him. His pastor, Rev. Ebenezer Brown, accompanied him to the West and a church was at once organized and a school followed. He was deacon in that church and later at Rockford, Ill. He was a man greatly esteemed and beloved by those who knew him. The last few years of his life were spent with his daughter, Mrs. Juliette Strong, at Winsted, Ct., where he d Feb. 26, 1884, ae. 90 yrs. 8 ch., 7 b Belchertown, Mass., last at Stillman Valley, Ill., v p 122 Vol. XI.

Chapter CXV.

Two Clippings of this Line.

Miss Agnes Lewis left Wednesday for her home in Stillman Valley where on Thursday, Nov. 30, 1905, she was married to Mr. Dickerman. Miss Lewis took a position in the Hinkley School, presumably for the year, but later decided to marry.

Henry Lewis will, within a few weeks, reach the 57th anniversary of his entry into the mill life of Manchester, N. H., as it was in the spring of 1849 that he accepted a position in the cotton flannel department of the Amoskeag Mfg. Co. and he is still at work for the same corporation.

Mr. Lewis was born in Walpole, Mass., Oct. 7, 1831, and attended the schools of his native town. In 1848 he removed to Hooksett, N. H., and there continued studying that year, but the spring following found him at work in the mills of Manchester.

Mr. Lewis remained with the Amoskeag company at the outset but two years and then went to the Manchester corporation, where he was employed in the weaving department. He was also employed in the cotton packing department of this corporation and was next transferred to the cashmere department, where he was engaged for 28 years. During 10 years of this time he was an overseer and designed many of the patterns for cashmere goods.

Mr. Lewis was extensively known as a player of the violin, and his two sons, the late Fred H. Lewis (d Sept. 9, 1898 v p 163 Vol. XI) who was an instructor at the New England conservatory of music in Boston and organist of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, and Walter H. Lewis of Manchester, who is a musician and writer of music of wide repute, undoubtedly inherited their musical talent from their father.

On the outbreak of the Civil War Mr. Lewis enlisted as a member of the 1st Regt. Band and was with the organization a year and one day.

Mr. Lewis represented ward 2 in the common council branch of the Manchester city government in 1868-69, and in the aldermanic branch in 1871-72, and was elected an assessor of city property from ward 1 for 14 years.

In the early 70s he engaged in the boot and shoe business for five years and then went to Worcester for a brief stay. Returning to the Amoskeag mills for two years, he then accepted a position as overseer in the weaving department of the Dexter mills at Providence, R. I.

He is now secondhand to overseer Charles E. Chapman in the Amoskeag mills, is active and capable, and is apparently destined for many more years of usefulness.

Mr. Lewis has been quartermaster of Louis Bell Post, G. A. R., for 14 years, and is its present commander. He is also a 32d degree Mason, Mystic Shriner, Knight Templar and Odd Fellow and member of the Unitarian Society.

He is married, his wife formerly being Miss Hannah E. Beach of West Salisbury, Vt.

Mr. Lewis is one of the oldest mill men in New Hampshire in point of service and is believed to be the only survivor of Walter Digaam's famous 1st Regt. Band which went to the front in 1861. He has seen Manchester grow from a small hamlet to a thriving city of 70,000, population.

JOHN LEWIS, Ireland to Virginia.
Chapter CXIX.

From Historic Families of Ky.

In most of the references to John Lewis (1) it has been said that his father was the son of a French Huguenot, who fled to Ireland after the revocation of the Edict of Nantes: an error that is none the less singular from the fact that John Lewis himself, the gr. son of the alleged refugee, was b in Ireland, of an Irish mother, in 1678, fully eight years before the revocation.

Lewis is not a French name, but is as distinctively Welsh as Llewellyn—from whom their descent is more likely than from any Frenchman—or Howell, or Griffith. Of those bearing the name now in Ireland there is not a family that does not directly trace itself to Welsh origin. In Cromwell's time, Welshmen of the name were among the Protestant settlers in Ulster and from these the soldier race of the valley unquestionably came. More certainly than their name itself, their immense size, herculean strength, martial bearing, dauntless courage, their fair skins and every physical, mental and moral characteristic, attest their mingled Pictish and Celtic origin.

In Samuel Lewis's (31) company at Braddock's defeat Andrew Lewis (3) was the lieutenant of the company and Thomas (2), William (4) and Charles Lewis (5) privates.

John S. Lewis (4 v p 93 Vol. X) b Va. Feb. 25, 1780, d Feb. 29, 1848, one of Wilkinson's co. most worthy citizens as well as one of its earliest settlers. At the age of 14 he commenced flatboating down the river to New Orleans for his father, carrying tobacco, provisions, etc. and each time having to make his way back overland, following the Indian and Natchez trails to his home in Ky. He was quite prominently connected with the early history of Wilkinson co. and with the Indian troubles. He distinguished himself to such a degree as to receive the title of colonel by general consent. Some few years after 1800 he came to Woodville, and is credited in Claiborne's history as having built the second house in the place. Here he engaged in merchandising for a great many years and became quite well to do. He invested quite heavily in the West Feliciana R. R. and the Planter's Bank of Woodville. After retiring from his mercantile pursuits he devoted his time to his plantation near Woodville and there he spent the remainder of his days.

WILLIAM LEWIS, Corn. to Vt.

Chapter XIX.

From a sketch by his gr. son Col. Wm. E. Lewis in a Memorial Tribute. Dr. Joseph Lewis (3 v p 94 Vol. XIV) was b in Old Lyme, Ct., in

Nov. 1746, and came to Norwich, Vt., in 1767. During his minority he showed a fondness for the study of medicine and devoted much of his time during the last years of his residence at home to the study of that science. After settling in Norwich he devoted a year or two to further study, after which he commenced the practice of medicine and continued in practice for more than 55 years. During a large portion of this time from 1785 to 1820, thirty-five years, his practice was large and extended not only through Norwich but into Thetford, Sharon, Strafford and Hartford, Vt., and Lebanon, Hanover and Lyme, N. H. The larger portion of this practice was performed on horseback. In winter, when the roads became impassable for horses, the doctor resorted to snowshoes, guided through the wilderness by blazed trees. Always ready to do what he could to relieve the suffering and ills of the settlers of those days, no plea of inclement weather or poor health was made, in order to shirk his duty in visiting the sick. The poor and destitute were welcome to his services, and none who showed a desire to pay were pressed to do so.

In 1775 the doctor suspended his practice, having been appointed surgeon's mate and was ordered to join Arnold's expedition against Quebec. . . . After passing through most of the successes and defeats of the army in Canada he resigned his commission and returned home and resumed his practice.

On the 16th of Oct. 1780, Dr. Lewis on horseback, with his son Lyman (4 v p 126 Vol. XIV) five years old, behind him, was visiting his patients at quite a distance from his residence, when he heard that the Indians were at Royalton and had burnt that place.

He took his little son from the horse, gave him instructions how to find his way home, borrowed a gun of a neighbor, and immediately left for the field of conflict.
