GENEALOGICAL RECORDS.

Explanations, Abbreviations, Etc.

For convenience the records of the various Lewis families are divided into Books and each Book into chapters. At the head of each Book appears the name of the earliest known ancestor of that family. The list of Books is a complete index to the Books as published to this time. New Books will be added from time to time as new branches of the Lewis family are found. As soon as Books are proved parts of others they will be merged into the Books to which they belong. Each name is numbered when first printed and whenever the name is repeated this number follows in brackets. The abbreviations common in genealogical work are used.

Chapter DI.

Among the exhibits at the Portland Fair is that of Miles K. Lewis (3712 v p 193 Vol. XV) patentee of Lewis's Superior Fence Tightener and Automatic Gates. The Fence Tightener keeps all wires the same tension both in cold and hot weather. It is applicable to all wire fences—is inexpensive and as durable as the fence itself. The Automatic Gate has more points of vantage than any other. It can be operated any distance from gate or in any direction. It can be raised to swing above snow drifts. Its construction is marvelously simple and is as enduring as the material of which it is made. One little piece of iron two feet long, two levers and a few shillings worth of wire is all there is of it.

Chapter CCCLXIX.

By Calvin L. Lewis of the Brooklyn Manual Training High School in The Outlook.

Summer camps for boys constitute a new but rapidly growing feature of American education. . . . This recent rapid growth seems to be a result of two things in the modern city educational scene: one, the strong set toward a better physical development; the other, the awakened interest in nature study. In New York, within the past three years, the Board of Education has created a real, live, active physical department, under the supervision of Dr. Luther H. Gulick (1990 v p 25 Vol. XIV) — who, by the way, was a pioneer in boys' camps. . . . Enterprising teachers and lovers of boys have found camps to be a source of help, health and profit. Undoubtedly they have come to stay, and they deserve to.

The Pedigree of Ellis Lewis.

From Merion in the Welsh Tract.

I. Bleddyn ap Cynfyn, Prince of Powys.

The family was of princely lineage, descending in the direct male line from Bleddyn, the son of Cynfyn, who was a Prince of Powys, and was so imprudent as to get himself murdered by the amiable "gentlemen of Ystrad Tywy," in the year 1072. This Prince, in defiance to the advice of his countrymen, m Isabel, dau. of Picot de Say, a Norman Knight, and had by her

II. Cadwgan ap Bleddyn.

Cadwgan, "the renowned Briton," besides being Lord of Ystrad Tywy in Cardigan, was also Lord of Nannau, in Merionethshire.

Tythyn Bryn Mawr, in Merionethshire, appears to have anciently formed a part of the Nannau Estate, which was the early possessions of Ellis Lewis's ancestors, many of whom lie buried in Dolgelly Church.

Cadwgan also fell by the dagger of the assassin (about 1105) and was succeeded, as Lord of Nannau, by a long line of notable descendants. He m Gwenllian, dau. of Gruffydd ap Cynan, Prince of Gwynedd. She was subsequently the wife of Gruffydd, Prince of So. Wales, and is stated to have been killed in battle in 1135. Cadwgan had by her

WILLIAM LEWIS, Rhode Island.
Chapter XXIII.

The Editor has received a few advanced pages of the Greene Family by Mrs. Lora S. La Mauce of Pineville, Mo. The author makes William (1) a brother of Matthew (1117.VIII) and hence a son of Amos and Eleanor (Greene) Lewis. No proof appears although perhaps elsewhere in the work the proof is stated.

One error should be corrected Priscilla (10 v p 189 Vol. VI) m Elias Lewis (365.VIII) and not Charles Lewis and the editor of Lewisiana is not her gr. gr. son.

The author states that Eleanor Greene's sister Mary m Capt. Thomas Briggs, the ancestor of the Arctic explorer, Evelyn Briggs Baldwin (v for his Lewis descent p 180 Vol. XV) and that another sister Amy m Elisha Lewis (1700.VIII v p 147 Vol. IV) "probably a brother to Amos."

It is remarkable that the author's "cross records and private lists" so often quoted did not furnish other possible and quite probable ch. of Amos and Eleanor (Greene) Lewis: viz. Randall (1.I) who m Nov. 21, 1765, Aise Rathbune, and removed to N. Y. State; Paul (29.LXXV) who m Martha Burdick who lived at Hopkinton, R. I.; and Thankful who m Nov. 17, 1765, Eleazer Lewis (3.XI) who removed to Voluntown, Ct.

Bryn Mawr.

From Merion in the Welsh Tract.

It is generally supposed that "Bryn Mawr," so well known as the name of a station on the main line of the Penn. R. R., was chosen at haphazard, because it had a pleasing sound, and, above all, was Welsh. No place in Pa., however, could be more appropriately designated.

Along the rolling side of a steep ascent, less than a mile out on the winding road leading southward from the old market town of Dolgelly, in Merionethshire, backs on the sunlit, craggy hills that ancient message, tenement and field, called since the days of Cadwgan, the renowned Britain, and Heaven only knows for how many hundreds of years before, "Tythyn Bryn Mawr."

The sleepy little pointed stone house, perched on the site of the hendre of an early Welsh Prince, amid its deserted garden, broken down stone walls and dilapidated out-buildings, now the abode of a poor mountaineer, was the birthplace of Rowland Ellis, and was built by his gr. father, Rees Lewis. The property seems to have been lately repaired; a new roof has been put on and the quaint old diamond-pane windows replaced by modern sashes. There was also formerly, it is thought, a portico over the doorway. The walls remain untouched, and the interior is unchanged.

A Pennsylvanian who visited Bryn Mawr a few years since says that it is "a comfortable stone house; the floors are of stone; and it was built by Rees Lewis, gr. father of Rowland Ellis, A. D. 1617, as an inscription on one of the rafters tells. To the right of the house are the remains of an ancient garden which has seen better days. Its walls are gone, but there are traces of old paths, while ancient box and venerable yew-trees tell of what has been."

The Dalton Right.

From The Riddell History.

The "Dalton Right," which consisted of 1,140 acres was in a section then known as "Little Falls Plantation,"—since called Phillipsburgh,—now Hollis, York co., Me., on the west bank of Saco River; originally called the "Rope-Walk," because a long and narrow towship. . . . This land was deeded by Thomas Cutts, of Saco, Aug. 10, 1797, to James Redlon, Thomas Redlon, John Bryant, Ichabod Cozens, Thomas Lewis, and Rufus Kimball of the plantation of Little Falls, in the County of York. . . . The lot of Thomas Lewis seems to have been larger than the other divisions of the Dalton Right; at any rate, it extended northwest as far as the land now owned by Abijah Usher, and possibly as far as the farm of Orrin Davis and Yates Rogers. . . . Thomas Lewis sold his lot to Joseph Ridlon, who built the nice farm buildings now known as the "Uncle Joe Ridlon place" near the village of Bonnie Eagle. The "Dalton Right," has been divided and subdivided many times, but much of the territory is still owned by the Ridlons and their descendants; it was a valuable tract of land and produced every kind of grain and vegetables in abundance.
