Pacific Administrators Pass

Two former Pacific administrators died in April, Dr. Bert J. Morris, 83, of Berkeley who was Acting President in 1913-14, and Ovid H. Ritter, 76, who retired as Executive Vice-President and Comptroller in 1953. On different campuses in different times, the services of each added to the heritage of Pacific.

Few undergraduates of today who walk in the loveliness of this campus are aware that the creation of so much beauty was made possible largely by the devotion to an idea and the management acumen of O. H. Ritter. His supervision of the landscaping development began with his appointment as Comptroller in 1930. Through the

PACIFIC'S 102nd COMMENCEMENT

THE SPEAKER

Dr. Brooks Hays of Little Rock, the courageous political and religious leader who lost his congressional seat in November to a strong segregationist, will speak for Pacific's 102nd commencement exercises on Sunday, June 14, at 7 p.m. in Baxter Stadium.

An investigation of the write-in election which ended Hays' 15 year span as representative of the Fifth Arkansas District was ordered April 15.

President of the Southern Baptist Convention and regarded as among the most religious of congressmen, Hays is known as a moderate on the question of integration who has applied religious as well as legal principle in seeking solution to the problem. Some observers believe that his election defeat, turning on his forthright stand on the critical issue, has served to greatly increase his national stature and influence.

The speaker is a graduate of the University of Arkansas, and holds a law degree from George Washington University. The College of Ozarks conferred his Doctor of Law degree.

Hays has been a member of the U.S. delegation to the United Nations General Assembly. He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa and several professional fraternities and societies.

THE GRADUATES

Among the more than 400 baccalaureate, masters and doctoral degrees to be conferred there are without doubt scores of interesting stories of personal achievement. None will be more publicized, or deservedly so, than the graduation of lovely blonde coed Jackie Coker who has completed degree requirements despite the seemingly insurmountable handicap of being both blind and deaf.

Aided by the Helen Keller Scholarship given by the American Foundation for the Blind, the State Department of Vocational Rehabilitation, and the California School for the Blind, she came through brilliantly for her sponsors, completed her work at Pacific in February, and already is enrolled in graduate study at the University of California.

Something of her inspiring story and of her companion, Dorothy Klaus, and her life at Pacific, was a feature article in the February, 1957, issue of the Review. Pacific will provide her with two copies of her diploma, one in Braille.

Among second generation Pacificites to receive degrees is Marielle Tsukamoto of Florin, President of the Associated Women Students at Pacific. When her mother, Mary Dekazaku Tsukamoto, class of 1936, recalls her own campus days—and those darker days of World War II when she and her husband, Al, took their five-year old daughter and a few of their personal possessions to an evacuation camp for California Japanese—she is bound to feel the deepest kind of pride as Marielle receives her diploma.

A sociology major at Pacific, Mary Tsukamoto was highly praised by a U.S. government official at the evacuation center who said, "I have never seen so much reliance placed on one person—I turn to her for advice in carrying out my office." Mrs. Tsukamoto was executive secretary of the Japanese-American Citizenship League of Florin. For weeks before the evacuation she interpreted the wishes of the government to her people. Her stirring editorial bulletins led her people to orderly, clear-thinking action. She saved them thousands of heartaches and helped to conserve thousands of dollars of their properties and resources.

Marielle, in student and church life, has well reflected and continued Christian-motivated service to her parents. She is a third generation Methodist, active in her home, campus, and conference youth groups. She has earned membership in Phi Kappa Phi, national honor scholarship society, and in the Knolens, senior women's honorary. She is named in Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities. She has kept the Tsukamoto name an honored one at Pacific.

DEGREES

William McGregor of Concord is president of the class of 1959 which expects to present 338 candidates for baccalaureate degrees. Notably, these will include 16 Bachelor of Science in Pharmacy degrees to the first group to complete their professional education in Pacific's new School of Pharmacy. Estimates in the other fields are 271 Bachelor of Arts, 27 Bachelor of Music, 11 Bachelor of Science, and 13 Bachelor of Science in Engineering degrees.

Dr. Willis N. Potter, Dean of Graduate Studies, hopes 95 will qualify for advanced degrees: Master of Arts 80, Master of Science 6, Master of Music 3, and Doctor of Philosophy (Asian Studies), 6.

Dean J. Marc Jantzen of the School of Education will present about 167 candidates for credential recommendations, 105 general elementary, 20 general secondary and 42 others in 11 special fields.

BACCALAUREATE SERVICE

At 10:30 a.m. the same day Chancellor Tully C. Knoles will deliver the annual baccalaureate sermon in Pacific Auditorium. The Knoles' sermon is a long standing tradition.

Appointed to the Pacific presidency in 1919, he first spoke for the baccalaureate service in 1920. All but three of the sermons since he has given.

THE KNOLES LECTURES IN PHILOSOPHY

"Free Man In a Free Society" will be the subject of the philosopher Lucius Garvin of the University of Maryland when he delivers the 11th annual Tully Cleon Knoles Lectures in Philosophy at 4 p.m. Saturday, June 13, in Anderson Social Hall. After the Knoles Banquet at 6:30, Garvin will engage in open discussion of his lecture with the 16 1959 Knoles Lecture Fellows, outstanding scholars nominated by their presidents from the faculties of California two-year colleges.

The fellows are Lloyd Bruno, English and world literature teacher at Sacramento Junior College; Jackson C. Carthy, Fresno City College librarian; Dr. Melvin Cherno, instructor in European history at Bakersfield College; Dr. James S. Davis, botanist and biologist at Stockton College; Alvin Hunter, field psychologist and anthropologist of Santa Rosa Junior College; Dr. John Jennings, English literature, Modesto Junior College; Dr. Richardmond D. LeGallais, chemistry, College of San Mateo; Dr. Charles W. Lovy, foreign languages, Contra Costa Junior College; Everett McCartney, philosophy, Vallejo College; Eugene Knight, philosophy, Los Angeles City College; Michael O'Shea, English, Napa Junior College; James W. Parkinson, English and literature, Sierra College; James C. Peabody, Jr., English, San Jose City College; Dr. Carl Richards, mathematics, Santa Monica City College; Orlin H. Shires, Director of Porterville College; and Gardner Waters, philosophy and physical science, American River Junior College.
James Bainbridge of Turlock, class of 1936, is president-elect of the Pacific Alumni Association.

On July 1, he will succeed Sherwood Norton of Stockton, class of 1941. Bainbridge, former Stagg era quarterback, and other members of the Board of Directors and the Alumni Fund Council, were elected April 25 at the annual Alumni College Banquet attended by 250.

Turlock area manager for the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company, Bainbridge has always been active in support of Pacific. He served this year as Chairman of the Pre-solicitation Committee for the Alumni Annual Fund, and is Vice-president of the Board of Directors.

Beck Parsons, class of ’38, a San Jose school supervisor, was elected Vice-President and seven new members were named to the Board of Directors of the association. They are Beverly Barron of Sonora, Rodney Branson of Oakland, Clyde Jones of Ballico, Warren Townsend of Fremont, Henderson McGee of Sacramento, Jack Streblow of Napa, and Richard Patriquin of Pittsburg.

Jones was named Chairman of the Alumni Fund Council to succeed Monroe Hess of San Jose. New vice-president of the fund group will be Dr. Clifford Crummey, minister of Grace Methodist Church, and the secretary will be Mrs. Fay Loveridge of Concord. Five Stockton men were named to the 28 member fund council. They are William Biddick, Howard Lewis, Robert Eberhardt, Thomas George, and Norton.

Re-elected secretary and treasurer, respectively, of the Board of Directors, are Mrs. Jerald Kirsten and Bernard Piersa, both of Stockton.

Pacific President Robert E. Burns presented two annual alumni awards. The first plaque was received by De Marcus Brown, Pacific Theatre director, on behalf of actress Jo Van Fleet, named outstanding alumnus of the year. “In all of my 35 years of direction,” Brown said, “Miss Van Fleet showed the most outstanding promise of any student. I have had the immense satisfaction of watching her grow into one of the finest American actresses today.” He described the standing ovation she received last year. in New York after her final performance in Look Homeward Angel and said that in all of her publicity statements she never fails to mention her training at the College of the Pacific.

The outstanding alumni service award went to Hess. He is chairman of the 1958-59 Alumni Annual Fund which has lifted participation of alumni in support of the college form seven to twenty percent. He said the objective is to reach forty percent participation before the current fund closes on August 31.

Attendance at the Spring banquet was the best ever according to Mel Nickerson, executive director of the association. Henry Hook of Oakland was the oldest alumnus present. Hook graduated from the commercial department of old Napa College in 1886. All Napa alumni became members of the Pacific association when the colleges were merged in 1896.

The banquet and election capped an outstanding Alumni College program, combined with the annual Parents Day schedule. Alumni, students, and parents flocked to hear timely addresses by eight Pacific professors, visited many special displays and exhibits, and enjoyed departmental and residence hall open house periods.

Next big on-campus alumni reunion — Homecoming, October 17.

Critically ill in mid-May and hospitalized in the Oakdale Municipal Hospital, Dr. Rockwell D. Hunt at this writing was making a remarkable recovery — a comeback characteristic of his indomitable spirit. He is aged 91. It took Asian flu, virus pneumonia, and heart trouble to put him down. — but not to stay. Dr. Hunt’s latest book, Fifteen Decisive Events in California History is due from the publishers.
PAUL EASTERBROOK

Paul Easterbrook will become the first principal of the new McLane Senior High School in Fresno, a $6,000,000 plant to open in September. Principal of Fresno’s Washington Jr. High for the past ten years, he moves on to head the new installation on a 40 acre site. The school will open with 1300 students; will eventually have a capacity of 3300. It claims the finest science laboratories and equipment of any secondary school in California, and has special facilities for industrial arts and business education.

Paul, the first of three brothers, all Pacific graduates and all members of Archangea, was a member of the last class to receive degrees on the old San Jose campus. He played football and basketball under coach C. E. "Swede" Righter. With the exception of his first year as a teacher in the Seale Military Academy, Palo Alto, Paul's career has been in the Fresno schools, most of the years in administration.

He and his wife, Betty are celebrating their 31st wedding anniversary. They have three children. Richard was graduated from Pacific in February and now is in the U.S. Navy Officers Training School at Newport, Rhode Island. Like father, he is an architect. Paul, Jr. was graduated from Fresno State, also in February. Their daughter, Mrs. Duane Lyman, is the mother of two Easterbrook grandchildren, Debbie and Kirk.

Paul is active in Masonry, is a member of the First Methodist Church of Fresno, and currently is chairman of three community service committees: Kiwanis Scholarship Committee, Fresno County Probation Committee, and the Camp Committee of the Salvation Army. His chief avocational interest is the national park service. For 16 years he has been assigned special duty as a ranger in Yosemite Park.

The Easterbrook name has been associated with Pacific for three generations. The senior Easterbrooks, the late C. H. Easterbrook, Methodist Minister in the California Conference from 1907 to 1917, and Mrs. L. M. Easterbrook, now of Los Gatos, sent their three sons to Methodist-related C.O.P. Charles, the second son, class of '27, who married classmate Margaret Jackson, is superintendent of Schools at Porterville. Their son, Charles, Jr., another Archite, was graduated in 1953 and married Luelan Rountree, class of 1954. Harold, the third of the three brothers, class of '34, is Director of Attendance for the Palo Alto Schools. Two daughters, Frances and Marie Elaine, are now enrolled at Pacific.

Wilford H. Carpenter of Brentwood, who operates a Ranch Supply Service, in February was named chairman of the Contra Costa County Housing Authority Board. He has served on the board since 1953.

Mrs. Carpenter is the former Alice Mae Totman '30. They have two children, a daughter, Mrs. Carolyn Huff married to Tom Huff '54 of San Leandro, and a son Kit Carpenter '58. He is now in the Army at Camp Lee, Virginia.

Mrs. Mildred (Jackson) Peters, a member of Epsilon Lambda Sigma, is a teacher in the English department of Ukiah High School which has inaugurated a successful program called "English Without Tears." Also a member of the department is another former Pacific student, Tom Westcoat. The department moves this fall into the entire top floor of the new high school building, complete with a 200-seat Little Theatre.

Wesley Sawyer of the Diamond S. Ranch, Waterford, was elected president of the California Holstein Breeders at the March annual meeting of the California Holstein-Friesian Association. Mrs. Sawyer is the former Maida Strong '29. He is the grandson of Wesley C. Sawyer who served as acting president in 1938.

Mrs. Margaret Seagrave, Hayward music teacher who received her Mus. B. in 1930 and her B.A. in 1951, and whose summer stimulation for the past decade has been in attending the annual Pacific Philosophy Institute, writes that the story about her in the February Review was erroneous in naming her concertmistress of the Oakland and San Jose symphonies. She is a first violinist in both, but lays no claim to the first chair in either. Her new address is 21138 Oak Street, No. C, in Hayward.

Mrs. E. M. Quinn (Mildred Minni), Pacific Conservatory graduate and member of a pioneer Vallejo family, is active in music circles in the Vallejo area where she teaches piano. She is married to Dr. E. M. Quinn.

a one-year appointment as a Guggenheim Fellow in English, for research in early American poetry. He is now an English professor at Louisiana State University. He attended Pacific before graduating from Stanford. He has held teaching positions in Colorado State College, Dartmouth College, the University of Nebraska, and Stanford University.

VirL SWAN, conductor of the 86-piece Junior Symphony Orchestra sponsored by the Greater Vallejo Recreation District, brought his orchestra to Pacific for an outstanding performance. Chief reason in coming, VirL said, was to show college music majors what can be accomplished in almost any community, recreationally speaking. Twenty-one musicians currently playing in the Vallejo Symphony received their first orchestra experience in Swan's junior organization.

Carlos Wood, former Chief Engineer of Douglas Aircraft plant at Long Beach is now Director of Advanced Engineering at the Douglas Santa Monica plant. He deals with forecasting technical trends and will unify and supplement the work being done relative to combat aircraft, transportation by air, missiles and space. Mrs. Wood is the former Madeline Walker '36. They have a daughter, Carla Jeanne, 12. Carlos belonged to Omega Phi and Madeline to Epsilon Lambda Sigma. They live at 6 Maverick Lane, Rolling Hills.

John Charles, who attended Pacific from '33-35, his brother, Albert, and their mother, Mrs. Anna Charles, operate the Charles Travel Service in Stockton and Lodi. They have been watching the world shrink during the past 25 years since the firm has been in operation. Accelerated travel and communication have brought the four corners of the world into closer proximity and sent more and more people scurrying about it under the auspices of the Charles Travel Service. Their unusual business enterprise was recently featured in the Stockton Record's People at Work column by Herb Stoy. John is married to the former Margaret Wennhold '37. They have two children.

1936

Palm, Altadena, and have become members of the Altadena Community Church. She is currently teaching in the Council of Churches Released Time program.

1946

Anthony Reid, technical director of Pacific Theatre until 1955 when he became managing director of the Sacramento Civic Theatre, was featured in the March 22 Sacramento Bee by Drama Critic William C. Glackin.

Reporting on his eight days of interviews and conferences at the national assembly of ANTA (American National Theatre and Academy) in New York, Reid was able to give some cheering aspects of how ANTA's Region II (Northern California and Nevada), of which he is president, compares with theatre elsewhere. Reid said Sacramento is high on the list of community theatres and is rated exceptional in children's theatre.

Greetings from Arabia:

Guess it is time to write. Enclosed is my check. Hope it helps fund (Alumni). I have been living here almost seven years now. Came out to teach school but took up housekeeping in 1953. My husband is a graduate of the University of Nebraska. We have one daughter, Cindy Lea, who is almost four now.

Surely would like to receive more Pacific Reviews and Alumni News Letters. About one a year is all I get. At least I keep up with a few of my old friends.

by BILL TUNNELL

Led by a highly successful swimming crew, the College of the Pacific spring sports teams hit just about the expected .500 percentage.

But Coach Christ Kjeldsen’s aquarena did much better than that. The Tiger swimmers splashed to an 8-4 record, two of their losses coming in the early season to the California crew that had been in competition for over two months. Later they lost to UCLA and Cal Poly. The Tigers took the measure of Arden Hills, San Francisco Olympic Club, St. Mary’s, San Jose State, Fresno State, San Francisco State, Cal Aggies and Occidental.

During the twelve meet season, the Tigers smashed 41 meet records, five school records and three Pacific pool standards. The team was anchored by Tom Robinson, Ted Baker and Ed Hinshaw. Robinson was undefeated in the 200-yard butterfly event, Baker was a certain winner in the sprint events, and Hinshaw generally took care of the distance competition.

At the swimmers award dinner, Robinson was awarded the most valuable swimmer trophy, Connor Sutton, a distance man, was selected as the most improved swimmer, while the top honor, captain of the squad, was voted to John Felix.

Coach Sid Hall’s baseballers finished third in the West Coast Athletic Conference on their way to a 9-13 season. The pitching staff of Bob Coronado and Gene Stafford gave the Tigers some excellent hurling but the hitting didn’t keep pace. The Bengals finished .409 in the conference race behind Santa Clara and San Jose State.

The track squad under Coach Bill Gott finished with a 2-2 season. The loss of sprinter Ola Murchinson with a leg injury before the season got underway, crippled the Bengals. Henry Wallace, Willie Hector and Bob Recknagel were the individual stars.

At this writing, Coach Van Sweet’s golf team is in the middle of a disastrous season after losing its first three men before the season started. The Bengals had only picked up one win against 9 losses with the season almost complete.

Coach Mel Moretti’s tennis squad managed to finish with a 6-5 season record. Dick Walsh and Don Landeck were the big guns for the Bengals.

Coach Jack Myers took his gridironers into spring practice, the group including 33 squadmen back from last season, 18 letterman, nine of whom were starters last year.

Led by All America halfback Dick Bass, and an All Coast selection at the guard spot, Carl Kammerer, the Bengals entered the 20-day spring drills looking forward to a 1959 season of tremendous potential.

Back from the starting group of last year were Bass, Kammerer, ends Chuck Lander and Ed Sowash, tackle Wayne Hawkins, guard Willie Hector, center Bob Mazzuca, quarterback Gary Hubb and fullback Henry Wallace.
HARDIN OF C.O.P. COACHES NAVY

Wayne Hardin, coaching disciple of Amos Alonzo Stagg, who won 11 varsity letters while at Pacific, has been named head football coach at the U.S. Naval Academy at Annapolis.

At 32 Hardin is the second youngest coach ever to guide the Middies’ football teams. Athletic Director Capt. Slade Cutter said that Hardin was not an interim coach but “he’s our boy and we expect him to have a long and successful tenure.—He is a man who knows the problems at the Naval Academy and sympathizes with them.” Hardin said that he was retaining three of his colleagues on the Annapolis coaching staff. They include Ernie Jorge, former head coach at Pacific.

After graduation at C.O.P. Hardin remained as an aide to Stagg and in 1950 took over as football and basketball coach at Ceres High School for two years. He returned as a backfield coach for two years under Jorge and then coached football at Porterville Junior College before going to Annapolis in 1955 as an assistant to Eddie Erdelatz. He is married and has four children.

The Tigers will end their spring drills with the Varsity-Alumni game, the second in the series. Last year’s game was the first of the exciting tilts and was won by the varsity 29-19. Last year’s alumni squad included Duane Putnam, Los Angeles Rams, Clyde Connor, San Francisco 49’ers, and Gene Cronin, Detroit Tigers.

Approximately the same crew is expected back for this year’s game. The contest was set for Friday, May 29 at 8:00 p.m., in Pacific Memorial Stadium.

STAGG NAMED "GREAT LIVING AMERICAN"

Yet another honor was accorded the Grand Old Man of Football, Amos Alonzo Stagg, on April 28 when he was proclaimed one of seven "Great Living Americans" chosen by the United States Chamber of Commerce. Malcolm Matheson, president of the Greater Stockton Chamber of Commerce, attended the presentation in Washington representing Mr. Stagg, who declined to make the trip, but who acknowledged the award in a recorded message. At the presentation the president of the United States Chamber called Mr. Stagg "... a revered gentleman who has been building the character of young Americans and setting an inspirational example for 70 years..."

ROSENBERG GRANT for EDUCATION PROJECT

A grant of $23,800 for Pacific from the Rosenberg Foundation of San Francisco was announced in May by President Robert E. Burns.

The fund is to expand and operate for a second year a project in the School of Education to give specialized training to elementary school principals in the supervision of beginning teachers. The program was started in 1958 with a $13,000 grant from the foundation.

During the first year the project has enrolled 14 rural school principals in San Joaquin and Stanislaus counties. The second year grant will allow enrollment of 28 and the appointment of a second staff employee in addition to Eva Ott, director of the project.

The principals enrolled attend 14 seminar sessions each year on the campus. Between seminars the director visits each school. The typical special problems of new teachers are observed and studied, and techniques are developed for their more effective supervision.

The project was originally proposed because of the loss to the profession of too many first-year teachers who fail to cope with special problems, according to Dr. J. Marc Jantzen, dean of the School of Education. He said the foundation is expected to support the research and training project for three more years. A parallel study at the secondary school level is also supported by Rosenberg funds at the University of California.

Dr. Jantzen believes the experiments point to the establishment of a recognized internship periods for teacher trainees, equivalent to that required of medical graduates.
Dr. Joel W. Hedgpeth, Director of the Pacific Marine Station and an internationally known zoologist, has written a challenging article in the March-April issue of Pacific Discovery, California Academy of Sciences publication, of which he is an associate editor.

Entitled Science at the Seashore, Dr. Hedgpeth's article notes the increasing contribution of marine laboratories to general knowledge and emphasizes the need for greater utilization and expansion of permanent stations and field stations.

He compared the seven present west coast marine stations and several field stations and said that the unique advantages of Bodega Head on Bodega Bay, used as a field station in 1956-57, is the best remaining marine station site available. This is being threatened by the possibility of a power plant installation, and now is under condemnation proceedings. Hedgpeth feels that the loss of Bodega Bay to commercial and industrial interests would be a tragedy for the development of biological science on the Pacific Coast.

Another recognition has been accorded Dr. Hedgpeth with his appointment as one of 100 biologists of the nation to consult on the preparation of a new high school biology course.

According to the American Institute of Biological Sciences, sponsors of the project, the unique collaboration of scientists is intended to create a program using lecture-demonstrations on films with classroom teaching, student study guides, teacher materials, and aids and suggestions for laboratory and field work. Consultants are meeting in small groups to plan the content of the films and printed material. Expected to be ready for use in the fall of 1960, the materials will be made available to teachers and school systems.

Dr. Samuel L. Meyer, Academic Vice-President, served as one of the faculty speakers at the Seventeenth Annual Pastors' School of the California-Nevada Conference of the Methodist Church, April 6-10 at Mount Hermon.

May 8 and 9 he attended annual sessions of the administration committee of the Future Scientists of America at Washington, D.C. A biological scientist, he has been a member of the FSA committee for more than two years.

Dr. Clifford Hand, Assistant Professor of English, will teach two courses in English at the first summer session of the University of California at Berkeley. He will teach a class on the American novel and one in advanced composition.

Rom Landau, professor of Islamic and North African studies, has been elected a life fellow of the International Institute of Arts and Letters which maintains headquarters at Lindau-Bodensee, Switzerland.

The institute, claiming membership of many ranking contemporary writers and thinkers of the world, seeks worldwide cooperation in the cultivation and promotion of arts, letters, and sciences. Landau is distinguished for his books on North Africa, particularly Morocco, including biographies of King Mohammed V.

JOHN D. CRUMMEY LEAVES PACIFIC BOARD

John D. Crummey, honorary chairman of the Food Machinery and Chemical Corporation, San Jose, who tendered his resignation on January 31 from the Board of Trustees of Pacific after 31 years, writes to his fellow trustees as follows:

"I can remember when Dr. Guth was President of C.O.P. nearly 60 years ago and my father (the late John C. Crummey, a trustee for 28 years) came home from a Trustee meeting to tell how James A. Clayton, then principal owner and President of the First National Bank of San Jose, used to make up the annual deficit. Then I vividly recall the afternoon Dr. Seaton came into our business office in San Jose to introduce Dr. Tully C. Knowles as his successor as President of C.O.P.

Then came the discussion of, and agreement to, move the College to Stockton and the wonderful growth under Tully Knolles' skilled leadership and in recent years under Dr. Robert Burns' dynamic energy."

John D's daughter, Mrs. Paul Davies (Faith Crummey '26) of San Jose, a current member of the board, has been a trustee for almost 18 years. With the election of her son, Paul Davies, Jr., a San Francisco lawyer, to the unexpired term of his grandfather at the March 31 board of trustees meeting, four generations of Crummey's will have had, and continue to have, a direct influence in shaping the College's expanding program.

Three other of Mr. Crummey's children attended Pacific, Mrs. A. S. Chinchen (Elizabeth Crummey x'24); Dr. D. Clifford Crummey '34, pastor of Grace Methodist Church of Stockton; and Mrs. Robert Foster (Marie Crummey '37) of San Marino.

MEDALS FOR THE L. L. LOOFBOUROWS

Methodist churchman Dr. Leon L. Loofbourow, long associated with the religious life of the west as well as a student and writer of the early history of the state, and his wife, Anna, were accorded signal honors January 25 when each was presented with the Presidential Medal of President Syngman Rhee, the Korean government's highest honor.

Their's were Medals No. 40 and 41. Most of the others have gone to military leaders. Presented at the Hotel Biltmore, Los Angeles, by Korean Ambassador Yun Chan Yang, M.D., the citation accompanying the medals read in part:

"Syngman Rhee, President of the Republic of Korea, October 24, 1958. In recognition and appreciation of their exceptionally praiseworthy service, the Republic of Korea takes pleasure in awarding Presidential Medals to Reverend and Mrs. L. Loofbourow.

"Through their helpful interest in the Korean Christian Institute in Honolulu, Mr. and Mrs. Loofbourow rendered great service to our people in Hawaii. The wisdom of their Christian insight and kindly spirit influenced the lives of scores of young men and women and will continue to extend onward through generations to come.

"The friendship and counsel of Mr. and Mrs. Loofbourow are deeply appreciated by the Korean people, and I am pleased, on their behalf, to award this recognition as a token expression of our gratitude for the contribution they have made as friends of our people and apostles of international understanding and good will."

The Loofbourows were deeply touched that President Rhee recalled his early associations with them in Honolulu more than 40 years ago when the Koreans were the underdogs in Hawaii and elsewhere, and Rhee, a refugee, had a heavy price on his head, said to be $300,000—dead or alive! Rhee and Consul General Cho of San Francisco, then very young men, used to slip into the Rev. Loofbourow's congregation at First Methodist Church, Honolulu.

A graduate of Stanford University and Boston University School of Theology, with a masters degree and a Doctorate of Divinity from Pacific, Dr. Loofbourow has served pastorates of the Methodist Church not only in the islands but in Balboa, the Canal Zone, and in many California churches. He has been a notable builder of churches, from the Klamath River log church to the large and beautiful structures in Burlingame, Modesto, and Richmond. At present he is minister of the Church of the Good Shepherd in Richmond, but plans to retire in June. He also has served the church as a district superintendent and as custodian of its invested funds.

Dr. Loofbourow has headed the Historical Society of the California-Nevada Conference of the Methodist Church, chairmaun the Centennials Commission of the Northern California-Western Nevada Council of Churches, and is a director of the California History Foundation at Pacific. He wrote the story, during the centennial years of the state, the church conference, and the college, of continued Christian pioneering in California, published in 1950 under the title In Search of God's Gold.
HUNT HANCOCK REUNION

A reunion for two distinguished native sons of California ended in Stockton April 23 when Capt. G. Allan Hancock of Santa Maria waved goodbye to Dr. Rockwell Dennis Hunt of the College of the Pacific, and then took off from Stockton Field at the controls of his own speedy Cessna "310" plane.

Captain Hancock, born in San Francisco, is 84; Dr. Hunt born in Sacramento, is 91.

At Hunt’s invitation Hancock flew to Stockton to visit the C.O.P. campus and to talk to an invited group about the U.S. Ballistic missile program and the training of "missile men" for the future. He is chairman of the Citizen’s Advisory Board of the Vandenberg Air Force Base near Santa Maria where West Coast missile and satellite launchings are made.

Hancock and Hunt were acquainted many years ago at the University of Southern California where Hunt was long Dean of the Graduate School and Hancock was President of the Board of Trustees. Author of nearly a score of books, Hunt became California’s first great native son historian.

HANCOCK and HUNT

He believes Hancock to be probably the most versatile of Californians in the annals of the Golden State—and there is much to support his opinion.

Who’s Who in America lists Hancock as a banker. He organized the Rancho LaBrea Oil Company in 1960. Later he was among founders of the Hibernia Bank, now the Bank of California, of which he is vice-president. He is chairman of the board of the California Trust Company, founder of the LaBrea Securities Company, the

Santa Maria Railroad, Rosemary Packing Company—part of the long list of his enterprises.

He is a musician. Former cellist with the Los Angeles Philharmonic, he organized and played the cello for years in the noted Hancock Ensemble.

He is a navigator, licensed as a master pilot who may skipper a vessel of any tonnage on any seas. He is a locomotive engineer and a flier.

He is a scientist who devoted many years to oceanography and marine biology and sponsors scientific expeditions to all parts of the world.

Ever since he provided for the historic trans-Pacific flight of Charles Kingsford Smith in the Southern Cross, Hancock has been devoted to aviation, especially as a part of America’s defense. In 1928 he established the Hancock Foundation College of Aeronautics at Santa Maria. In 1939 General H. H. Arnold asked his help to train air corps pilots. Before World War II ended, 200,00 had been trained there.

Now he is absorbed in the missile and space-age program, particularly concerned with developing the responsibility of the American public for the advance of the program. He wants careers in the missile field made more attractive and better supported.

Captain Hancock brought his assistant, James Barry, and his pilot, Joe Potter, on the hop to Stockton—but he took the controls himself for the return flight, saluted Dr. Hunt and said, “We’ll be home in 55 minutes.”

His father, Marlitt Stark, associated with the Sunsweet Growers, Inc., San Jose, and co-chairman of the Pacific Alumni Fund Council for 1958-
59, and his mother the former FRANCIS RUSSELL, both are members of the class of '27.

A former member of Van Sweet's C.O.P. basketball team, Stark has finished a season with the Ft. Lee, Virginia, army team which compiled a record of 60 wins and three losses.

depression years, his program created one of the most effective of public relations features for Pacific—the attractiveness of its campus.

The beautiful Morris Chapel is another special tribute to Mr. Ritter and his love of Pacific. His intense interest and constant work with the architects and builders in detail was indispensable to the realization of this near perfect example of traditional gothic chapel design. After the building was dedicated in 1942 he wrote the book describing in detail the chapel and its rich symbolism. Memorial services were held for him in this sanctuary.

The academic structure of Pacific also bears the stamp of O. H. Ritter, for he organized and developed the department of Business Administration. It became one of the larger major groups.

A Stanford University graduate, Mr. Ritter was in foreign trade for several years, located in the orient in management positions for the Pacific Mail Steamship Company and the China Mail Steamship Company. In 1920 he returned to California and became Assistant Cashier of the Stockton Savings and Loan Bank until his appointment at Pacific.

Mr. Ritter is survived by his wife, Florence, of Stockton; two sons, Ovid H. Ritter, Jr., Treasurer of the Parr Terminals in Richmond and Irving Ritter of Greenbrae, Business Manager for San Quentin Penitentary; two daughters, Lucy E. Ritter, executive of the California Western States Life Insurance Company in Sacramento, and Mrs. Margaret Franz, concert singer of New York.

Establishment of the Ritter Fund in Business Administration at Pacific was announced in May by President Robert E. Burns.
unique philosophy faculty — Royce, Santayana, Palmer, while across the river at Boston University was Borden P. Bowne. These were giants in their fields, a group rarely equalled. His degrees were: A.B. from Kansas Wesleyan and University of California, B.D. from Pacific School of Religion, A.M from Harvard, and Ph.D. from Boston.

The following nine years were at College of the Pacific as Professor of Philosophy, Dean of Students, and for one year Acting President. His service is gratefully remembered by the College.

World War I took him back to Harvard for two years, this time for the Federal Bureau of Vocational Guidance. In 1920 he returned to Berkeley, where he organized the Wesley Foundation. Bishop F. J. McConnell, who knew the educational field of Methodism well, said of Morris' administration there that it was one of the two most successful areas of Methodist work for college students. His broad educational background and his ironic spirit made it easy for students to seek friendship and counsel. On the campus respect for him was indicated by his admission to the Faculty Club. He also was a member of the American Association for the Advancement of Science . . . Dr. Morris became one of the editors of The Pacific Rural Press. His Home Altar page was a feature of that journal for seventeen years . . . He was President of the Conference Historical Society, and did research in its archives and in Bancroft Library . . . his connection with the Conference came to a happy and appropriate close. F. H. Busher, who succeeded him in the Historical Society, planned the 1959
Showcase of Methodist History to honor him. On April 16 he drove to Sacramento with a group of close friends. At the evening session the President spoke of his place in the Conference. Mrs. George H. Colliver told of his contribution to the College, and Bernice Stephens Smith of his service to Wesley Foundation. A son, Dr. Bert M. Morris, head of the Chemistry Department of San Jose State College, survives him.

Leslie Vernon Richardson, 79, a Bachelor of Music graduate of the College of the Pacific with the class of 1901, and a noted pioneer orchardist in the Byron area, passed away April 30 at his home in Stockton. Funeral services were held May 4 in Morris Chapel conducted by Chancellor Tully C. Knoles and the Rev. George D. Goodwin of Central Methodist Church.

In paying tribute to Mr. Richardson’s memory, Dr. Knoles said, “No finer spirit, no more disciplined personality have I ever known.” A memorial fund has been established in his honor for the Fireside Room of the new Central Methodist Church, Stockton.

Mr. Richardson leaves his widow, the former Grace Carrer. Their marriage in 1942 was the first wedding ceremony in the Morris Chapel. Mrs. Richardson, for many years secretary to Dr. Tully C. Knoles when he served as president of Pacific, and for President John H. Seaton before him, has been a member of the Pacific Board of Trustees since 1942.

Surviving also are a daughter, Mrs. Gwendolyn Richart of Byron; three grandchildren, and a brother, Galen Richardson, also of Byron.

Always interested in the life of Pacific and the Methodist Church, Mr. Richardson devoted himself to both in many ways through the years, in Byron and for 17 years in Stockton. He was an original member of the Board of Sponsors of the California History Foundation at the Collège. A fine musician, he was long a member and soloist with the Central Methodist Church choir in Stockton. He was a member of Masonic and Odd Fellows lodges in Byron and Brentwood.

Mary Dickson Hotle, 86, a lifelong friend of the College of the Pacific, and wife of William M. Hotle, for 47 years a trustee of the College, passed away March 16 at their home in Sebastopol.

Mrs. Hotle was born in Petaluma to California pioneer parents. Attending the Bliss School as a girl, which she later served as a trustee, Mrs. Hotle completed her education at Pacific.

Beside her husband Mrs. Hotle is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Ben (Marian Hotle) Burdo of Sebastopol, Pacific graduate. She also leaves three grandchildren.

Memorials are being made to the Hotle Memorial Carillon Chimes Fund of the Sebastopol Methodist Church.

William H. Morris, 86, vice-president of Morris Brothers Stationery Company and manager of the College Bookstore, died April 9 at his home in Stockton. Until a recent illness of several months he had been active in the management of the book store for 21 years. He was an enthusiastic follower of Pacific sports.

For more than 30 years he was teacher of an adult class in Grace Methodist Church school and at the time of his death was steward emeritus of the official board of the church. He and the late Mrs. Morris celebrated their golden wedding anniversary with a church reception in 1954, about a year before her death.

Mr. Morris left a son and three daughters, all of whom are alumni of Pacific, and five grandchildren, two of whom are C.O.P. graduates. His son, William E. Morris ’32, is president and general manager of Morris Brothers. His daughter, Clara, class of ’27, is married to Prof. Harold Cunningham of the class of ’25, and now a member of the San Francisco City College faculty. Mrs. Virginia Holden, third daughter of the Morris’s, is a member of the class of ’36 and is associated with the College Book Store. Many of the former school mates and old friends of the late Capt. Scott
Howe were unaware of his passing more that a year ago on Feb. 12, 1958. Masonic services were held at that time in Stockton.

Capt. Howe, 52, of the Military Sea Transport Service attended College of the Pacific from 1924 until 1926. He served in the marine department of Standard Oil until 1941 when he was commissioned in the Navy. He was stationed in Honolulu when Pearl Harbor was bombed. He served on ships in the Pacific and Atlantic, taking part in the invasion of Salerno, and retired as a commander. After the war he commanded tanker ships and then joined the Military Sea Transport Service.

Mrs. Cleo Scougal, head resident of Tau Kappa Kappa sorority for the past two years, died March 16. She came to Stockton from Seattle where she had lived most of her life. She had attended the Cornish School of Music and Arts and for many years taught arts and crafts at her own studio. She also had been an advertising agency artist.

Mrs. Mary Southworth Evans, 90, and widow of the late Samuel Cary Evans, Jr., of Riverside, passed away March 31 in Riverside. In 1889 she attended the then University of Pacific in San Jose. There she met her future husband. He was graduated from Pacific in 1889 with the degree of Bachelor of Philosophy. He later became a state senator.

Mrs. Evans was a longtime officer of Aurantia Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution.
