

4 KILLED, 4 HURT IN OHIO'S TRAFFIC

Lakewood Woman on Way to See Daughter's Baby Is Victim.

Traffic on pavements made slippery by an all day drizzle yesterday killed four persons and injured four others, two of them seriously.

Mrs. Felixa Gizler, 45, of 2186 Lakewood Avenue, Lakewood, was killed when struck by an auto at Detroit and Belle Avenues, Lakewood, while on her way to St. John's Hospital to see her first granddaughter, born Friday. She had left the car of her son-in-law, Walter E. Schmidt, 14933 Delaware Avenue, to get some flowers for her daughter when the accident occurred.

A woman, believed to be Pauline Diebold, 2472 Derbyshire Road, Cleveland Heights, was killed when hit by one automobile and thrown into the path of another in St. Clair Avenue N. E. at E. 83rd Street. The driver of the first car was held by the police. Her death brought Cleveland's traffic toll for the year to 280, as compared with 208 in the same period of 1928.

Paul Harberger, 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. V. Harberger of Strasburg, O., was killed when struck by an automobile while playing in front of his home.

Alberta Weyrick, 12, of Kent, O., was killed when hurled through the windshield of an auto when it hit a tree in Mogadore Road, near Akron. The girl's father, K. R. Weyrick, said he lost control of the car when a rear wheel came off.

Four persons were injured when the automobile of Julius Santabarbara, 36, of 10613 Wadsworth Avenue, Garfield Heights, was struck broadside by the car of Paul Tonsing, 35, of 8917 Parkview Avenue S. E., at Turney and Mount Vernon Roads, Garfield Heights. All the injured were in Santabarbara's machine. He is suffering from a possible fracture of the skull.

Kenneth Hines, 8, of 4724 E. 30th Street, was reported dying from a fractured skull. Robert Hines, 40, father of Kenneth, and Tony Santo, 10, of 10613 Wadsworth Avenue, were cut on the face and head. The younger Hines and Santabarbara are in St. Alexis' Hospital. The others were discharged after their wounds were treated.

HIGH LIGHTS OF HISTORY

Andrew Jackson's Ancestry

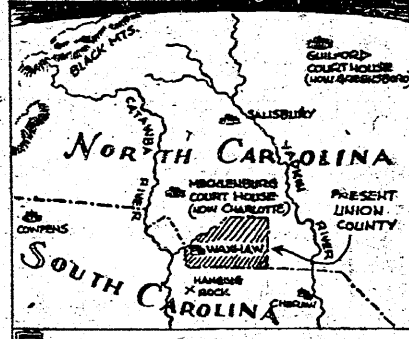

By J. Carroll Mansfield

FOLLOWING THE DEATH OF HER HUSBAND, ELIZABETH JACKSON WENT TO THE HOME OF A MARRIED SISTER, MRS. MCKEY, WHO LIVED NEAR WAXHAW, WHERE SHE FOUND A TEMPORARY REFUGE FOR HERSELF AND HER TWO BOYS, HUGH AND ROBERT.

UNDER THESE SAD CIRCUMSTANCES ON MARCH 15, 1767, A FEW DAYS AFTER THE FATHER'S DEATH, A THIRD SON WAS BORN. MRS. JACKSON NAMED HER LITTLE BOY ANDREW IN MEMORY OF HIS FATHER.

THE BIRTHPLACE OF ANDREW JACKSON STOOD IN WHAT IS NOW UNION COUNTY, NORTH CAROLINA. NOT LONG AFTER ANDREW WAS BORN, HIS MOTHER WENT TO LIVE WITH ANOTHER SISTER, MRS. CRAWFORD, WHOSE HOME WAS JUST ACROSS THE STATE LINE IN SOUTH CAROLINA.

BEING FAIRLY PROSPEROUS, THE CRAWFORDS ALLOWED THE JACKSONS TO BECOME PART OF THEIR HOUSEHOLD, THE WIDOW JACKSON ACTING AS HOUSEKEEPER FOR HER SISTER, WHO WAS AN INVALID, WHILE THE OLDER BOYS HELPED ABOUT THE FARM.

urged the Irish, particularly those in the United States, to support it.

Although a self-exile of Erin who had spent the greater part of his life in England, that fact, if anything, had redoubled his love for his native land.

While the part he played in the long struggle that led to the foundation of the Irish Free State stamped him as one of the great figures in that movement, Mr. O'Connor won fame and many honors in other lines of endeavor.

He was honored by being made a privy councillor and enjoyed the reputation of being one of the most versatile and famous journalists of Europe.

On his 75th birthday, Mr. O'Connor was feted by some 200 members of the British Parliament, a signal tribute in which every party was represented to do him honor.

His wide popularity was said to have been due largely to his policy of never permitting political differences to interfere with personal relations. As to his two principal activities in life, he always regarded himself as a journalist first and a politician after.

Wanted to Be 100. His advancing years did not lessen his love of life and when he was 77 expressed the hope that he would live to be 100. A year before, in a message to the youth of England he said: "Life is a great adventure. Live every hour of it. Don't be buried until you are dead."

Mr. O'Connor was born at Athlone, Ireland, Oct. 5, 1848, the eldest son of Thomas O'Connor. He was educated at the College of the Immaculate Conception, Athlone, and Queen's College, Galway, where he obtained his master's degree. He was only 18 when he earned his bachelor of arts degree.

Newspaper work beckoned Mr. O'Connor and he became a cub reporter on the staff of Saunders's News Letter in Dublin. Three years later he went to London, where he was engaged as sub-editor of Lord Burnham's Telegraph.

TRACKS DOWN FUGITIVES

Posse Trails Two Escaped Prisoners to Mountains.

MOABE, UT., Nov. 17.—(AP)—A posse was closing in on Delbert Webster Pfoutz, 22, and R. H. Elliott, 24, who escaped from jail here yesterday while awaiting trial on a charge of killing Marshal R. D. Westwood here last September.

The mounted posse trailed the fleeing prisoners into the Lasal Mountains south of here and due to the extremely rough country the officers were confident the men had little chance to escape, as they were still on foot. The fugitives are believed to be unarmed.

THE WEEPING MUSE

IS Modern Industrialism about to deal the Art of Music the saddest blow of its history? To blame Machinery as an Instrument of Decadence may seem startling, but it is true that Machinery in the form of Canned Music is elbowing Real Music out of motion picture theatres, thus denying to the masses the cultural influence of a Fine Art.

Surely, if machine-made music displaces the artist in thousands of instances, the incentive for any individual to improve his talent—so necessary in all art—is minimized and music can no longer hold the cultural value that it has possessed. Any art is dependent for its progress upon the number of its enthusiastic executants. Do you, Mr. Reader, find the pleasure in Mechanical Music that you do in Real Music? If you believe that Real Music should be saved to the masses who attend Motion Picture Theatres, make your opinion known to the manager of your favorite theatre. Very likely he will appreciate your frankness for he wants to please his patrons.

... in a cigarette it's TASTE!

...that's why THE BYRD EXPEDITION chose Chesterfield

Few tests are fool-proof—but the Byrd Antarctic Expedition used one when it chose cigarettes for its two years in the ice. Members of the expedition—all men of judgment and experience—were simply asked, "What cigarette do you like best?" And a large majority answered Chesterfield. Picked men, picked cigarettes... cigarettes chosen for the only reason that ever appeals to experienced smokers: dependable good taste—
