The state of Ohio, Preble County

Court of Common Pleas September Term A. D. 1832

First Judicial District Court of Common Pleas in the state of Ohio

On this twenty first day of September in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and thirty two personally appeared in open court before the Judges of said Court of Common Pleas (being a Court of Record) Philip Henge, a resident of the County of Preble in the state of Ohio aged seventy eight years, who being first advised of his coming to law doth on his oath make the following declaration in order to obtain the benefit of the provisions made by the act of Congress of June the seventh eighteen hundred and thirty two.

Deponent doth that he entered in the army of the United States some time in the Spring of the year of seventeen hundred and seventy five, under Captain Giffers for one year at the Yellow Springs in Chester County Pennsylvania. The corps in which deponent enlisted was intended to join the expedition against Canada. That they marched to Philadelphia when the battalion was put under the command of Colonel Wayne they marched to Philadelphia a short time and were marched to Ticonderoga where they received intelligence of the defeat of General Montgomery before the walls of Quebec. They then went into winter quarters at Ticonderoga and remained there until some time in April seventeen hundred and seventy six to the best of deponent's recollection when they returned to Philadelphia where they arrived some time in the latter part of May or first of June when they were discharged by Colonel Wayne Deponent received a written discharge which deponent left with his father in Chester County Pennsylvania he being then a young man and was lost among the papers of his said father.

which fell into the hands of his son father's administration many years after. Deponit again enlisted in the army of the Revolution some time in August of the year seventeen hundred and seventy six, at Paulus Hook New Jersey, for nine months in what was called the nine months men or "flying camp".
It was in Captain Jacob Wetherling's company that he was enlisted. They marched over to New York, and remained there about two weeks, when they were marched to Fort Mifflin, at Mifflin's point, after remaining at the fort about ten days, this deponit was ordered under the command of deponit, with twelve others, to go to Fort Lee, a new fort on the Jersey bank of the Hudson river to obtain provisions for the detachment in the Fort.
While they were absent on this expedition, Fort Mifflin was taken by the British and all the officers of this detachment, being Captain Wetherling and Lieutenant John X. Tetter, and the men were made prisoners. Deponit then assisted in delivering the cattle which they had there to head quarters as on eight miles from Fort Lee.

Deponit again enlisted in the army of the Revolution at the period head quarters about the middle of <sup>October</sup> September seventeen hundred and seventy six, in Captain Caleb North's company of a Regiment of the Pennsylvania line for during the war of the Revolution. They were then marched to <sup>the</sup> High Pennsylvania and from thence to the white plains, and was present at the battle but not actually engaged in it. Deponit further that after that time they performed various marches through New Jersey, not now particularly recollecting, he was at the battle of Princeton, on the third of January, seventeen hundred and seventy seven, and fought under the immediate command of General Washington. Deponit received a wound with a bullet shot in the right shoulder, in the said battle and was confined from the wound near two weeks. After the battle was over, Caleb North was made a major and the company in which deponit remained was then placed under the command of Captain William North, and that he remained in that company untill March, of the year seventeen hundred and seventy seven, when at the request of General John Clarke, and with the consent of his Officers he took charge of and continued to drive a team for said Clarke, untill the close of the war of the Revolution Deponent received a written discharge some time in the year seventeen hundred and eighty one, or eighty two, but which deponent is unable to state, at Little York, York County, Pennsylvania. Deponent filed his discharge according the papers of his father in Chester County Pennsylvania, but it has been lost among the papers of his father. Deponent served in all, as a soldier of the revolution five years and eleven months - Deponent was born in Chester County, Pennsylvania, on the tenth day of November seventeen hundred and fifty four, and has lived in Pickle County Ohio, seventeen years. Deponent has no documentary evidence, nor does he know of any witness living by whom he can prove his services except John Leggett and Frederick Miller, to whom he is known Deponent hereby relinquishes every claim whatever to a pension or annuity except the present and he declares that his name is not on the pension roll of any agency of any State born to and subscribed in open Court Philip Klingner
