PARK ROW HOLD-UP FAILS.
New York Times (1857-Current file); Mar 31, 1922; ProQuest Historical Newspapers The New York Times
pg. 18

PARK ROW HOLD-UP FAILS.

Two Robbers Flee When Jewelry Store Clerk Flashes a Pistol.

It became known yesterday that on Wednesday evening two armed bandits attempted to hold up Abraham Liebeskind, a jewelry appraiser, in his store, at 129 Park Row, but fled when one of his employes pointed a pistol at them.

Liebeskind said yesterday that he was about to close the store, about 6 o'clock, when the bandits entered and pointed their pistols at him. Isaac Hammerschlag, his clerk, was standing in the rear of the store and heard one of the bandits command Liebeskind to throw up his hands. Hammerschlag whipped a pistol out of his pocket and pointed it at the would-be robbers, whereupon they fled to the street.

Reproduced with permission of the copyright owner. Further reproduction prohibited without permission.