Births, Marriages & Deaths From The Carbon Advocate, 1888-1889

This is the eighth in a series of vital records extracted from the Lehighton Newspaper, The Carbon Advocate.

Like the previous parts, in extracting the births, marriages & deaths, I have not included the following types of items:
1. Items that did not pertain to Carbon or the surrounding counties. I excluded anything west and south of Berks County, and south of Lehigh & Northampton Counties. I generally included anything north of Carbon county.
2. Estate notices.
3. Murder trials.
4. Coroner inquests when they are not part of the original death notice.

In extracting these records, I have copied items as completely and exactly as possible. I have not attempted to correct any spelling errors. If I felt a need to add any text, I did so in brackets. Although most of the papers on microfilm were easy to read, there were some times where the image quality made things difficult. Because of this, researchers are advised to consult the original records.

Hardly a town along the line of any railroad but has one or more cripples as a result.

Death of Mrs. Victor Bowman.

After an illness of only two days, Isabella, the wife of Victor Bowman, of Bowmanstown, passed from this world's affliction into the glory of a brighter land. which she was a firm and consistent communicant, a faithful member. To the sorrowing relatives and friends we extend our sincere sympathy, in this the hour of their great and sore affliction. Deceased was aged about thirty-four years.

"Her suffering ended with the day;
Yet lived she at its close,
And breathed the long, long night away
In statue-like repose,
But when the sun, in all his state,
Allumed the eastern skies,
She passed through glory's gate,
And walked in Paradise."

A Pleasant Gathering.

A very agreeable and pleasant surprise was given our respected townsman, Mr. Daniel Olewine, upon the 73rd, anniversary of his birth, on Friday evening last, the 13th inst. His children and grand children with a few of their relatives and friends, consisting of Rev. and Mrs. Major, Mellie Major, Wm. S. Koch and wife; D. Irvin Olewine and wife; F. Lentz, Gussie Schadel, Esther Koch, Edna Olewine and Master Willie Koch, gathered at the residence of D. Irwin Olewine and proceeded in a body to the home of Mr. Olewine.

As was intended, it was a complete surprise for Mr. Olewine and his good wife, so much so, that the good lady was very much exorcised as to her ability to feed so numerous a party, but her anxiety was of short duration; the guests were provided for by other hands, and when the baskets and hampers had all been emptied, there was no further anxiety as to the guests going away empty. The large table was literally loaded down with good things of every description; and that all enjoyed the repast, was evident to one who came too late for the first table, and was obliged to wait for the second--we thought they never would cry enough.

The evening was spent in pleasant social conversation. Taking advantage of the presence of the Rev. Major, and thinking it it an opportune occasion, Mr. and Mrs. D. Irwin Olewine concluded to have their infant daughter baptized. She received the name of Hazel Amelda. At the close of this impressive ceremony the guests departed for their homes, all hoping that Mr. and Mrs. Olewine may both live long to enjoy many more happy birthday evening's.

On last Saturday afternoon at about three o'clock, after an illness of about two weeks, Mrs. Lydia, widow of the late Samuel O'Brian, closed her eyes in that last long sleep that knows no waking this side of the tomb. Deceased was probably one of the oldest residents in town at the time of her death, having reached the ripe old age of seventy-three years. She was a kind and affectionate mother and a true believer in the power and mercy of Him who "moves in a mysterious way His wonders to perform." Kind and gentle to all with whom she came in contact she had hosts of friends who mourn the loss of a true christian disciple.

Mrs. Lydia O'Brian was one of the family of the late George and Elizabeth Handwerk; she was born in Heidelberg township, Lehigh county, on the sixteenth day of February, A. D. 1815; on March 29, 1833, she was united in marriage to Samuel O'Brian, of Lancaster county, this state, by whom she had seven children, three girls and four boys, two of whom survive--Mrs. Daniel Farren, of town, and Joseph O'Brian, of Wilkesbarre. She was a sister of Mrs. Reuben Peters, of Mahoning; Mrs. Ritz, of Schnecksville, and Mrs. Moyer, of Lizard Creek, all of whom have reached four-score years and more. She leaves thirty-nine grand-children and twelve great grand-children. For over a half century she has resided in this town--for the past thirteen years making her home with Daniel Farren, on Bank street. She was interred in the Lehighton cemetery on Tuesday afternoon, Revs. J. Alvin Reber and Abraham Bartholomew officiating.

"All is dark within our dwelling,
Lonely are our hearts to-day,
For the one we loved so dearly
Has forever passed away.
A mother dear, and a mother kind,
Has gone and left us here behind,
Calm the tumult of thy breast,
For she who suffered is at rest,
Fondly loved and sadly missed."

Death Of Two Old Residents.

Thomas Kemerer.

Much excitement prevailed here on Saturday evening by the announcement that our esteemed townsman, Thomas Kemerer, had died suddenly of paralysis of the heart. Mr. Kemerer had been feeling unwell for a week or more, but on this day his general demeanor betokened that he was in better spirits and health than he had enjoyed for some time. After attending a meeting of the Water Company at his office he returned home and feeling somewhat fatigued retired for the night. Shortly after, his wife, going to the room, found him stretched upon the bed, sleeping the last long sleeps which knows no waking. Medical aid was summoned immediately, but life was extinct--no earthly power could restore to his family and friends the living Thomas Kemerer.

Thomas Kemerer was born in East Penn township, Carbon county, on the 8th day of February, 1820. His early life was spent upon the farm; his education obtained in the common school. Honest, industrious, and ever persevering he, at the age of twenty-five years, entered the general store of Jonas Bowman here, as a clerk; in the course of a few years by thrift and merit he entered a co-partnership with Mr. Bowman, the firm name being Bowman & Kemerer. A few years later when the senior member of the firm moved to Weissport, Mr. Kemerer became sole proprietor of the store which a few years before he had entered as a clerk. For a period of fifteen years he was elected and re-elected Justice of the Peace; he was twice elected Prothonotary from 1873 to 1879, and for fifteen years, from 1866 to 1882 was a director in the 2nd National Bank of Mauch Chunk. At the time of his death he was president of the First National Bank in this place, treasurer of the B. & L. Association, treasurer of the Lehighton Water company, secretary of the Cemetery Association, and for many years Superintendent of the Lutheran Sunday school; later he taught a class of men in that institution, who acted as pall bearers at his funeral. He was also the senior member of the firm of Kemerer & Heydt, insurance agents on Bank Street. Interment took place on Thursday morning, the funeral being the largest ever seen in this borough. The afflicted widow and relatives have the sympathy of all our people in this sad bereavement. During the time the funeral procession moved on its way to the cemetery our principal business places were closed as a mark of respect to the memory of a man who had by his influence and energy done much for the town and the welfare of our people.

Mr. Kemerer was married to Juliea A. Dengler, on November 4, 1848. Four children were born to them, three sons and one daughter, the latter only, Mrs. John Seaboldt, surviving.

A HORRIBLE ACCIDENT.
Sixty Excursionists Killed and Two Hundred Injured at Mud Run.

Hazleton, Oct. 11,--The most frightful railroad accident that ever occured on the Lehigh Valley Railroad in Pennsylvania, hapened on Wednesday evening at Mud Run, a small station between White Haven and Penn Haven Junction. The exact manner in which this horrible accident occured cannot be correctly ascertained, all that is known is that two sections from the Father Matthew celebration at Hazleton crushed into each other at the worse place on the whole line for a railroad accident--the tracks there running close beside the Lehigh river on the edge of a presipice seventy to eighty feet above the water. One of the passengers states that the first intimation he had of the danger was the jolting of the cars and the frightful crash caused by the collision, followed by the blood curdling shrieks of men, women and children, and the groans of the injured and dying who lay bruised and bleeding along the tracks, under the cars and on the steep embankment. No mortal pen can paint a true picture of the sad affair which curdles the blood in one's veins as he thinks of the misery, the pain and suffering resulting from this fearful collision.

Great excitement prevails at all the stations along the line, and at this time nothing definite can be gleaned. Passengers on the ten P. M. Central train last night, speak of having beheld a mournful picture at the scene of the accident. Under the dull glare of torches and lanterns the sad yet noble work of lending aid to the injured passengers was proceeded with while outside the pale of the lights all was dark drear.

Latest accounts from the point of the accident place the number of dead at fifty-seven while the number of injured is close on to two hundred.

John McCarty, aged 16 years, accidentally shot and instantly killed William Hutchinson, a boy about his own age at Wilkesbarre on Tuesday.
The Stroller At Weissport. Mrs. Thomas Levis, aged about thirty-four years, of Big Creek, was buried in the cemetery at that place on Sunday. She leaves a husband and one child to mourn the loss of a kind wife and mother.

The Stroller At Weissport. Peter Krum, of Franklin township, an aged and much respected citizen, died late Friday night of diabetes. Interment took place on Wednesday, may relatives and friends following the remains to their last resting place.

The Stroller At Weissport. Crack! The clear, ringing report of a rifle sounds upon the air and echoes and re-echoes over the hills, a tiny wreath of smoke curls upwards, followed by a heavy fall, a gurgg sound, a gasping, painful sigh, and Joseph May lies dead, shot through the heart by his own hand. The birds twitter, the gentle breezes fan the locks of hair on the dead man's head and move the leaves on the trees and the soul of a suicide journeys on in the mysterious paths of the unexplored land beyond the tomb. For a year past Joseph May has lived with John Otto, on a farm near Pine Run; for some time past he has showed signs of despondency; on Monday afternoon, after writing his will and placing it in his hat, he wandered off to the woods with his gun, a short time afterwards he was found dead with a frightful gunshot wound near his heart, from which the blood was slowly oozing. That the act was premediated is evident from the fact that a clause in his will was a request that he be buried where his body should be found. He was eighty years of age and had only been in this country a few years.

THE MUD RUN HORROR.
More Details of the Horrible Accident that Killed Sixty-four Persons and Injured as Many More.

The latest points regarding the Mud Run holocaust of last Wednesday a week, before Coroner Horn at Mauch Chunk, are as follows:

James Hanighan, brakeman on section No. 4, testified that the train stopped a short distance above the station and that he immediately took red and white lights and started back as far as the dopot. When he saw the approaching train he signaled with his red light.

He was below the platform when he heard one long whistle from the approaching train and thought it was an answer to his flag. When he saw the train coming at a lively rate he flagged them again. He thought they were running at the rate of twenty miles per hour.

Engineer Cook's Story.

Henry Cook, who had charge of the first engine that ran into the ill-fated train, was the next witness. He stated that the train was running at this rate of twelve or fourteen miles an hour when the station was in sight and that he was on the right hand side of the cab on the alert for signals, but saw none. "To see the station flag at the point where we should be able to see it," he said, "it is necessary for me to climb the ratchet, which I did. I expected to see the order board white, switch board white and the red light in its place."

There he did not see and he was almost in the culvert when he saw the signals.

The train was then going at the rate of ten miles an hour, and when Cook observed the danger signal, which was the violent swaying on a white light on the platform, he at once whistled down brakes. This, however, did not extend beyond his own engine, as the other had charge of the train and of the air brakes. Witness admitted that he had been on duty for several days with but little sleep, but he was still fresh and wide awake. The whole of his evidence was a denial of having seen any danger signals when such should have been exposed, and a complaint that there was no torpedoes placed on the rails, as there should have been; neither was there a flagman or light east of Mud Run Station.

The Red Light Exposed.

Thomas McKale, of Pleasant Valley, testified that he was a passenger on the train that was run into and saw the red light, which was waved two or three hundred yards in the rear of the fourth section, that was standing at the depot, to which no heed was paid. This testimony was corroborated by J. W. Slocum, of Mud Run, who stated that the flagman from section No. 4 flagged with a red flag in front of the depot and also waved a red light. "I also," he added, "took a red light and waved it. Every train except this one came in under control. I saw a section boss wave a white lantern. I have no doubt if both engineers had seen his flag the approaching train could have come in under control. Two short whistles were given when the flagman swung his red lantern."

Thomas Major, of East Mauch Chunk, testified that he thought running at the rate of one mile in five minutes was under control. He had never run a passenger train before. He thought that one engine would be sufficient to pull the train, which would also have allowed him a better view. He went on duty Monday night about 9 o'clock, and received about six hours; rest up the time of the accident, although he did not feel sleepy.

The Company's Rules.

A. Mitchell, of Wilkesbarre, superintendent of the Wyoming division, stated that special orders were issued from his office after they had been studied over for several days. They had been posted on all the bulletin boards and the signatures of the employes taken. Verbal instructions were also given to some of the engineers to be careful.

There should have been a red light displayed at the station, he said, and it would have been proper to display one red light on the platform in addition to the flagman. It was the duty of both engineers to look out for signals. There are four men on each train that the company expect to be on the alert for signals. The red light indicates danger and all must always stop. The general rule is that all engines must give one long whistle, which signifies that the train is nearing a station. A train going at the rate of ten miles an hour might stop within the length of a train of eight cars, but he would not consider that under control.

Other evidence not so material was next given, and then the Coroner adjourned the taking of testimony until Wednesday afternoon.

Fireman Pohl's Story.

The Coroner's jury went to Bethlehem on Saturday and took the testimony of Joseph Pohl, fireman on the engine that ran into the fourth section and who is at present receiving treatment at St. Luke's Hospital for injuries sustained in the accident. He said that he was sitting in the cab, and that he saw the white target and afterwards called to the engineer that everything was all right. He then rested his head on his hands and the next thing he heard was the whistle for down brakes, saw the engineer put his hand on the lever, but could not state positively whether he turned it or not. He also stated that he had been on duty from 5 o'clock Wednesday morning up to the time the accident occurred.

Eight Men Killed.
Another Horrible Collision on the Lehigh Valley Railroad.

Tamaqua, October 16--At five minutes after 8 o'clock this morning two trains, a freight and a ballast, collided with terrific force on the new branch of the Hazleton and Pottsville, division of the Lehigh Valley Railroad, about two miles east of Delano. Eight men were killed and twenty-three injured, some so seriously that they will die.

Engine 1218, of the Pennsylvania Railroad, left Delano with John Peck in charge of the throttle, with orders to run to Lofty regardless of all other trains. The ballast train, with Engineer John Messersmith in charge, left Lofty with orders to make Tamanend siding and to lay off there to allow both the freight and passenger trains to pass. The ballast train had a caboose and gondola car ahead of it, and was just slowing up to enter the switch when the freight came thundering down the mountain and collided with it.

The two cars ahead of the ballast train contained about fifty workmen, and eight of these were either killed outright or died while being taken out of the wreck. At the point the accident occurred an immense horse-shoe curve is described by the railroad, to lessen the grade from Delano to Quakake and the railroad runs along the side of the mountain down into the Quakake Valley. The branch of the Lehigh Valley Road is used by the Pennsylvania and Lehigh Roads in conjunction.

Engine Peck was running his train at a high rate of speed down the mountain to get out of the way of the passenger train. He claims he saw no signs from the gravel train and did not see them until he was almost upon them. It was impossible to stop his train on the grade, even had he seen them sooner. Peck and his fireman jumped and escaped with few injuries. Messersmith, engineer of the Lehigh Valley Ballast train, says he had sent flagmen out in both directions when he slowed up to enter the switch. They could not be seen, it is claimed, on account of the heavy fog which clung to the mountains side and was so thick as to prevent anyone seeing a few feet ahead.

The dead were taken to Delano and laid out in the station house, and most of the injured were sent by the railroad company to the State Miners' Hospital at Ashland. The force with which the two trains came together may be illustrated by the fact that part of E. W. Gutders' body was found on the smoke stack of the engine of his train. Before the accident he was standing on a car a good way back of the engine. His death was instantaneous.

Most of the killed and injured were Hungarians and members of the new Greek church of Shenandoah. Both engines were completely wrecked, and the two cars which contained the workingmen and were ahead of the ballast train engine were smashed into splinters. It seems miraculous that any of the men in these cars escaped instant death, for the cars were literally ground into kindling wood.

The company are at a loss as to where to place the responsibility, and a thorough investigation will be made. Deputy Coroner Flexer, of Tamanend, opened his inquest this evening, but adjourned until to-morrow in order to take the testimony of the Pennsylvania freight crew, who are in no condition to testify before the jury this evening.

Memoir--Ida L. Leuckel. Miss Ida L. Leuckel, daughter of Mr. Frederick Leuckel, of Lehighton, died in Aspen, Colorado, on Saturday evening, the 17th inst., about 9 o'clock. Her health had been failing for some time past. The best physicians were employed, and all kind friends could do was done for her restoration. As the last resort, on the second day of July, she left her home and friends in the East, and started for the far West, in the fond hope of regaining her health, but alas, it was too late, the improvement was only temporary, and now she is gone. She was a young lady of marked intelligence, an amiable disposition and a generous nature and had received a liberal education. She attended the Model school, at Trenton, N. J., for four years and graduated with honor. Then she went to the Wyoming Seminary, at Kingston, Pa., for one year, and graduated in vocal and instrumental music, after returning from school, she spent a year with her sister, in Leadville, Colo. She was happily converted under the ministry of Rev. J. T. Swindells, and joined the M. E. Church, Feb. 25, 1872, of which she has been a worthy and consistent member ever since. When her sister Mary died she took charge of the Infant Department, in the Sunday school, where she rendered very efficient and acceptable service, until compelled, by impaired health, to relinquish the position, which she did very reluctantly, about two years ago. She leaves three sisters, three brothers and an aged father to mourn her loss, but they sorrow not without hope. When leaving home, she said, to her sisters and friends, If I do not see you again on earth, I will meet you in Heaven." And in her letters, she always assured them that she was ready to die. The family has lost a noble daughter and a cherished sister, society an ornament, and the church a valuable member. "Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord." W. M.

It is uncertain at what time the body of deceased will arrive, but due notice of the funeral will be given to the friends.

Friends far and near mourn the loss of one who by independence, pluck and perseverance, combied with an indomitable honesty climbed well up the ladder that leads to fame, there to scintillate for a little while in the bright world of journalism and then fade. A self-made man, a printer's devil in a country office, then forman, then editor and finally proprietor of the only morning newspaper in Central Pennsylvania. It was hard work, but a natural ambition urged him on with a fevor that no eartly object could swerve; true to friends and party, when friends and party were right, he was... indomitable in his endeavors to promote their cause; he had enemies because he was aggressive, determined and true to the better qualities and the weal of the people. Tears of sorrow may be wiped aways bleeding hearts may be healed, and time may level the grave of our beloved mother, but on the page of memory Indelible impressed, there will ever remain fond recollections of the one we loved so well, and the one we shall see no more. Gone but not forgotten. Dead but not unloved. The sweet voice and smiling face that used to greet us will greet us now no more for ever.

Mother, we are very lonely,
Our loss we deeply feel,
Yet He who has bereft us
Can all our sorrows heal.
We miss our loving Mother dear,
We miss her loving face,
Her vacant chair tells plainly there
Never she'll fill this place.
Oh Lord, teach us to say,
Thy will be done,
And soon we'll meet with Parent dear
And then we'll rest at home. J. A. K.

many years she has been totally blind

Our "Stroller"  Death of an Aged Lady.--Mrs. Hannah Rapp-Miller after an illness of only a few hours, departed this life on Sunday evening. Deceased was born in Wurttemberg, Germany, on September 4, 1801, and emigrated to this country sometime during the year 1869, settling in Weissport with her family, both husbands having died in the Fatherland. She was the mother of eight children, of which number three survive, George Rapp and Carl Miller, of town, and Christian Rapp, of Mauch Chunk. She leaves eleven grand-children and three great-grandchildren to mourn the death of a kind relative. Deceased was a close and consistent member of the Lutheran church, a faithful disciple of God, so that death to her is like stepping from one room to another, and a far better room in the mansions above. Within a month she was aged eighty-eight years, being one of our oldest residents. Interment took place on Wednesday afternoon and was largely attended. Rev. George Sandt officiated.

Our "Stroller"  Horrible Find.--Wilbur Marsh, Robbie Koons and a number of other boys, while bathing in the new mill race, about one hundred yards below the foot-bridge, found the decomposed body of a child probably seven or eight months old, minus one arm and the head. The body was naked and had probably been in the water for several weeks. The boys secured a box and buried the remains in the cemetery on Union Hill. The discovery created no little excitement and quite a large number curiously viewed the body. It is thought that the body came down the river during the high water a few weeks go, and the current, which forms an eddy here, drove it into the place where the find was made. It is very likely only another case of a mother taking measures ungodly to rid herself of an illegitimate offspring, and the body being beyond recognition leaves her safe from justice.

Our "Stroller"  Death of an Old Soldier.--Henry Kreamer, aged forty-nine years, has for many years been a sufferer from disease contracted in the war of the rebellion, in which he participated as a private soldier, being among the volunteers from noble little Carbon, who gave hundreds of her sons to fight the good fight. His last illness dates only a few days before death--the Great Commander calling him home on Sunday. He leaves a widow and eight children in circumstances not as bright as might be. Interment took place on Tuesday and was largely attended by relatives, friends and John D. Bertolette Post, 484, G. A. R., of Lehighton, of which body he was a member. He was a pensioner, but drew but a pittance when compared with his bodily sufferings. May his body rest in peace--all honor to the volunteer soldier.

Our "Stroller"  Happily Wedded.--Our popular young butcher, Fred Wassum, of White street, on Wednesday evening was happily wedded to Miss Tillie, daughter of that old Democratic warhorse, John Brighton, of Coalport. The young couple will make their home here, taking up a residence in the dwelling being erected by the groom and now near completed. The "Stroller" has nothing but the best wishes for the young couple, with the hope that their journey through life may be a pleasant one.

Our "Stroller"  Doings of the Silent Reaper.--Deaths have been quite frequent here of late, especially among the young, many of whom have been called home to the realms above. bereavement.

The Weatherly Murder.
Full Account of the Deed--The Escape and Arrest of the Murderer--His Subsequent Confession.

The borough of Weatherly, in the upper end of this county, was the scene of a most terrible murder at an early hour Saturday morning. The victim was Sabilla Walbert, wife of Albert Walbert, a car builder in the Weatherly shops. The murderer was William Oliver Stangley who boarded with the Walbert family and who also was employed in the car shops at that place. The place where the deed was committed was in a small story and a half house on the side of a hill in the rear of the Presbyterian church. The family consisted of Mr. and Mrs. Walbert, a son and daughter and the boarder Stangley. The story as told before the coroner's jury is that Mrs. Walbert arose from bed at the usual hour and prepared breakfast for her husband and son. Mr. Walbert upon coming down stairs said to his wife, "you had better call Stangley, as it is near time for him to get up and go to work." Mrs. Walbert answered and said that Stangley told her last night that he was not going to work to-day as he did not feel well. Just then Stangley came down stairs and passed out of the house into the yard. After finishing their breakfast, the father and son left home and went to the shops.

The daughter Ida, aged nine years, who was still in bed at this time, arose about ten minutes after eight o'clock. Not seeing her mother she started up stairs to look for her. Upon reaching the top of the stairs she met Stangley and inquired of him "where's mamma?" He told her that her mother had gone to Hazleton and would not be back until ten o'clock. Ida then went to go into the bed room, but was stopped by Stangley, who sent her to a neighboring store. The child went out and upon returning shortly afterwards found Stangley missing and the back door of the house locked. She got into the house through a side door and went up stairs to get her third reader. Entering the sitting room, the first thing that met her eyes was her mother lying on a lounge, blood flowing from her mouth. The child ran out into the street screaming that her mother had fainted and was dying. Several neighbors went to the house only to find the woman cold in death.

When the news became known, excitement ran high and in a short time hundreds of people were on the scene.

Coroner W. W. Buck, who resides at Weatherly, was among those early on the scene and empanelled the following jury of inquest: 'Squire J. W. Hunter, foreman, Thomas Roberts, Silas Bitner, Andrew Hrılacher, Dr. J. B. Tweedle and Hiram Sharp.

The post mortem was made by Dr. Tweedle. The woman's face was badly bruised, both eyes being discolored and the bridge of the nose blacked and swollen. This was evidently done by the man's fist, stunning her, after which he drew a revolver and fired the fatal shot. The ball, which was of 32 calibre, entering the right breast above the sixth rib, passing through the inner lobe of the right lung, passed up through the heart, causing instant death.

After committing the deed, the murderer placed his victim on the lounge, straightened out her limbs and clothing, locked the doors, went to his own room, changed his own garments which were all blood stained and put on his best suit. He then fled, but not however without taking with him what money there was in the house, besides two watches.

After leaving the house he was seen going over the mountain and later on at Black Creek Junction where he boarded passenger train No. 23, and went as far as Slatington, in which neighborhood his parents live. The town council at once offered a reward of $50 for his capture and Constables East, Kessler and Druckenmiller started at once in pursuit. The murdered woman is aged about 38 years. Stangley is a man of about 32 years, about five feet eight inches high, slender figure, light complexion and has a sandy moustache.

Three weeks ago Stangley quarreled with the woman and then threatened to kill her. For this he was arrested and given a hearing before 'Squire Hunter. The matter was settled, he begging off and Mrs. Walbert paid the costs. Stangley brooded over the affair and thus determined to commit the deed.

The verdict of the jury is "that the deceased came to her death by a pistol shot through the heart, and from the evidence adduced the jury believed Stangley to be the murderer."

This is the first murder ever committed in the history of Weatherly. The murderer was captured Saturday evening at Slatington and was committed to jail at Mauch Chunk. The body of the murdered woman was brought Lehighton Tuesday morning, and interred in the cemetery in this place.

Stangley, since his incarceration in jail at Mauch Chunk, has made the following confession.
That he killed her in the kitchen under some provocation brought about by her scolding him for not going to work. That he first knocked her down with his fists and shot her as she lay prostrate on the floor. Two bullets were fired at her, the first passed through one of his fingers and took no effect on Mrs. Walbert, but the second passed through her body as stated in the first part of this article. After having killed her, he carried her up stairs into the parlor. He also stated that he always liked her, but she no longer liked him. This evidently gives us the key to the motive that prompted the murder. Oh, jealousy, thou ugliest fiend of hell. All other passions have their hour of thinking, and hear the voice of reason. This alone breaks at the first suspicion into frenzy and sweeps the soul in tempests. But why should there be jealousy between a boarder and the woman of the house? The man now in custody for the murder and the woman whose death was hastened by him, can best answer this question. Life indeed is real and earnest, but it is not always what it seems to be.

At 8 o'clock St. Joseph's mass for the dying was celebrated by Fathe Tedod Howicz of the Polish Catholic Church at Shenandoah, assisted by Father Duffy, of this city, and Father Patterson, of Ashland. Baronovski then partook sparingly of a substantial breakfast. At 10.22 the march to the gallows commenced. The condemned man walked firmly and showed no signs of trepidation when he ascended the gallows with the exception that his face was pale and his lips quivered slightly. After religious exercises the black cap was placed over his head, the noose was adjusted and at 10:30 the bolt was drawn by an unseen hand. The drop fell and the culprit hung perfectly motionless. In seven and one-half minutes he was pronounced dead and at 10:50 the body was cut down. Death was caused by a fracture of the neck. Between 400 and 500 persons witnessed the execution.

The double murder for which Pietro Baronovski suffered death was committed on Saturday, May 12th, 1888, and was one of the most atrocious in criminal record of Schuylkill, a county unenviably distinguished for crimes of violence.

Death in an Ore Mine.

We gather the following particulars of the death by suffocation of the two men in the ore mines at Millport, from Tuesday's Mauch Chunk Times: Frank Boyer and Isaac Koch, of Millport, this county, met with a terrible death by suffocation on Friday night, between ten and twelve o'clock. They were working in the ore mine of Rutherford Brothers, which is located near that village. The mine is operated on the principle of a coal mine, and consist of a shaft, four feet square, sunk to the depth of one hundred and twenty feet. At the bottom of this shaft they dig a tunnel twelve feet square and four hundred yards long. Boyer and Koch were working at the end of this tunnel and were overcome by the foul air and gases which were confined within these narrow limits. The proprietors recognized the danger of suffocation and commenced to sink a second shaft at the end of the tunnel, for the purpose of ventilation. They were nearly finished and were within two feet of the unfortunate men, when they were overcome and rendered unconscious. Koch was found in a pool of water and Boyer was wedged under a heavy piece of timber. Boyer was still warm and it is believed he could have been resuscitated if he had not been held fast by the timber, which made his immediate removal impossible.

Three shifts of men are employed in the mine, and the men who went to work at midnight made the ghastly discovery. Boyer leaves a wife and one son. Koch was a single man. About twelve years ago the former was a miller in Slatington.

The calamity has cast a gloom over the community and hundreds of persons visited the scene of the accident Saturday. Both were sober and industrious men.

Died at Jeanesville. Howell Green, master mechanic for J. C. Haydon & Co., Jeanesville, died at his residence at that place at 6 o'clock Friday evening. Mr. Green had been ill for several years, but the immediate cause of his death was brain fever and Bright's disease. Mr. Green has been a resident of Jeanesville for a number of years, having come to that place from Minersville, Schuylkill county. In 1869 he formed a company consisting of Messrs. Lawrence, Laubenstine and LaMont, and erected a foundry and machine shops at Mt. Carmel, Northumberland county, who conducted a successful business for several years, until the entire structures were consumed by fire. He was respected by all who was under his supervision, and his place as master mechanic will be hard to fill. A wife, two daughters and a son survive him, who have the sympathy of the entire community in the loss they have sustained. The funeral took place from his late residence in Jeanesville, on Monday afternoon and was largely attended.

His body was found some time afterwards by the crew of another train. The unfortunate man was about 21 years old and lived at Rockdale, Lehigh county.

Local Events Cut Up. Engine No. 29, drawing a freight train crashed into the rear end of a coal train drawn by engine 154, near Parryville, on Wednesday morning between two and three o'clock, mashing four or five cars and the caboose. John Swartz, of this borough, a track-walker who was standing on the tracks watching the men clearing away the debris was struck by a north bound train and killed. The remains were taken to his late residence in South Lehighton, from which place the funeral will take place on Sunday. Mauch Chunk Clips.  Henry F. J. Brown Dead.--Henry F. J. Brown, who for the past sixteen years has been a clerk in the Ordinance office of the War Department, Washington, D. C., died Tuesday morning at the residence of his sister, Mrs. John Ritz, in Mauch Chunk. He had been a sufferer from heart cancer for the space of a year, and last spring, in February, had an operation performed by the late Dr. Gross, of Jefferson College, Philadelphia. He was aged 49 years, 5 months and 23 days, having been born in Ilshofen, Wurtemberg, Germany, May 6, 1840. He emigrated to this country in 1854, and shortly afterwards arrived in this vicinity, where his entire life was spent with the exception of his service in the late war of the rebellion and under the government at Washington. At the breaking out of the war, he enlisted in the three months service and at the expiration of that time again enlisted for three years, in 1861, as a private in Company H, 72d Regiment Pa. Vols. He was honorably discharged in 1863 on account of disability from wounds received in battle. On his return however he again enlisted under Col. Albright in Company A., 202d regiment, where he served until his regiment was mustered out of service August 3, 1865. During Maj. Robert Klotz's term in Washington as a member of Congress, in 1881-82, Mr. Brown, besides filling the duties of his office as clerk in the department, also was private secretary to Mr. Klotz, and between the two, although differing widely in politics, there existed the warmest friendship. Deceased was a member of Chapman Post, No. 61, G. A. R., and his funeral which took place Thursday at 2 p. m., was in charge of his old comrades in arms. He leaves a widow and three children.

A Farmer Commits Suicide.  Henry Elias Fritz, aged 46 years, a well to-do farmer residing near Leibyville, in West Penn township, committed suicide on Thursday afternoon of last week by hanging himself with a leather strap in a blacksmith shop on his premises. He was last seen alive about 3 o'clock, when he went to the shop to do some work. It was between 6 and 7 o'clock when he was discovered hanging by a young man named Miller and Gideon Zeigler. His body was then cold, and apparently he had been dead some time. The suicide was for several years proprietor of the White Bear tavern, about a half mile from Summit Hill. He sold the property about a year ago and purchased what is known as the Zeigler farm, near Leibyville. It is reported that he regretted selling the White Bear property, and offered to re-purchase it and pay the present owners $1000 more than he received for it. No reasons are known why he took his life other than despondency over his supposed loss of money in disposing of the White Bear property.

Our "Stroller." A typhoid fever epidemic prevails alarmingly in East Weissport. Thus far about twenty cases have been reported as follows: Joseph Ruff, Joseph Weiss, Clara Rhoads, Emma Beever, William Beever, Webster Campbell, four cases in the family of Harry Trainer, three cases in the family of Constantine Hepner, Mrs. Lillie Boyer and Mrs. Alex. Graver. All possible care should be taken to prevent a further spread of the disease which it is said prevails on account of the pond of stagnated water between the Central railroad and the canal bank. If this is so, and there seems to be no doubt of the fact, it should be drained and filled up at once, thus freeing the atmosphere of the poisonous effluvia which has worked out such direful results thus far. The three schools in the east end, taught by Messrs. Quint Arner, George Wagner and S. Snyder, have been closed and will not be re-opened until the fever has abated. Since the above was put in type Wm. Beever has died.

Weissport Etchings. Death is no respecter of persons: last Saturday morning ere the shadows of darkness had been dispelled by the breaking of a new day, the dark messenger claimed Rev. Aaron F. Leopold, for a score of years a resident of East Weissport, esteemed and honored by all who knew him; a kind, generous and faithful husband, father and friend. He was born in Saucon, Northampton county, on the 2nd day of May, in the year 1819; his father and mother were Joseph and Hannah Leopold, thrifty and fairly well-to-do farm people and upright christians, who taught their son the fear of God and the justice of right at all times. He was educated in the common schools of the district, and that he was of exceptionally bright mind is evident from the fact that when only eighteen years of age he was elected to teach the township school and was also organist in one of the Lutheran churches. In 1865 he was ordained a preacher of the Evangelical church and filled charges in the following order: 1st, Lehigh circuit; 2nd, Milford circuit; 3rd, Kutztown; 4th, Womelsdorf; 5th, Weissport; 6th, Schuylkill; 7th, Harrisburg; 8th, York; 9th Easton; 10th, Parryville. In 1844 he was married to Fietta, daughter of Thomas Frey, of Columbia, and the result of their union was the birth of five children, two sons and three daughters, all of whom survive, viz: Mrs. Dr. Andrews, East Weisspot; Mrs. C. V. Arund, Tioga County; Mrs. J. H. Burger, Allentown; Rev. S. T. Leopold, Norristown, and Rev. W. A. Leopold, Pottsville. He was for a long time a sufferer from chronic intestine catarrh, which was the immediate cause of his death. Interment took place on Wednesday morning, a large concourse of sorrowing relatives and friends following the remains to their last resting place on the hillside, where they will await the final resurrection.

Weissport Epitomized.
An Auspicious Wedding.

On Tuesday, Nov. 25, the sun shone brightly over the hills and into the home of Francis Yundt, of Weissport, where a happy couple were united together in holy wedlock. The bride was the accomplished Miss Laura M. Yundt, whose reputation as a lady and a teacher is well known and remembered by the people of Lehighton and Weissport. The groom was the well-known Milton A. Koons, one of the chief clerks in the employ of the C R. R., of N. J., at Mauch Chunk, which position he has long, ably and creditably filled. Only the immediate relatives were guests at the wedding, but judging from the many handsome gifts, it would seem that many friends, though not present in body, were at least present in some other tangible form. The ceremony was conducted at 10 o'clock a. m. by the Rev. G. W. Sandt and after a bountiful repast was served, the happy couple took the 11 o'clock train en route for an extended trip through Maryland and Virginia. After their return the bride and groom intend locating at Slatington, at least temporarily.

May the sunshine of your wedding day
Be lengthened out through life;
And the blessedness of virtue's way,
Confirm you man and wife.

A Friend.
