Bohon Cemetery

At one time there was a family burial plot contained within a stone wall. All visible evidence has been removed. Owner states that there are still rocks of the old wall below plow depth. The family was reportedly Bohon.

Huebotter Cemetery

Two graves at this location but nothing readable. Reportedly children of a Huebotter family who died during an epidemic.

Sutton Cemetery

in 1930 a pile of stones
Remnants of a cemetery were discovered here in 1955 consisting of the scattered remains of limestone markers. All unmarked or unreadable except for the name, Sutton, 1851.

Unknown

A pile of stones were located at this spot apparently having been moved from the nearby field. No names readable.

Unknown

A slave cemetery was located at this spot. No longer any evidence except for the unusual number of flowers growing there. Reportedly two white persons were also buried there.

Church Cemetery

Small plot with severallimestone markers without inscriptions. Tradition reltes that these were members of the Church family.

LAFON CEMETERY

There are no stones in evidence at this site. The property was obtained by Richard and Edward Lafon in 1831. Sale in 1857 refers to the cemetery of one/quarter acre. Believed to be buried there: Richard and his wife, Elizabeth Hatcher, and some minor children. Possibly Edward and members of his family and possibly some of the Hatcher family.
