Notes for Jonathan Brockway:

Jonathan Brockway was born at Lyme, Conn. In 1738; baptized there in the First Church, May 28, 1738; married their October 20, 1757, with Phebe Smith of Lyme.

They resided in Lyme after their marriage until eight children had been born to them, during which time it is believed that he followed the sea. He was known as Captain Jonathan at that time. Having accumulated a handsome property, he removed from Lyme, between the years 1772 and 1774 and settled in Washington, N>H. near the outlet of Millen Pond, which was long known as Brockway's Pond. He invested his money largely in the wild land of Washington, purchasing; it is said, about fifteen hundred acres, a considerable portion of which was at the east part of town. He was a man of much enterprise, and built a grist mill at Millen Pond, and later a sawmill at East Washington. He also built a linseed oil mill and a whiskey distillery at the west part of the town the latter being the only establishment of its kind ever operated in town.

The materials used were potatoes, which could be produced with little labor on the newly cleared land. Captain Brockway was of a patriotic turn and twice on the occasion of alarming news from Ticonderoga, he commanded small companies of men, who marched into Vermont to reinforce the American army, but in both cases their services were not required. No portrait of Captain Brockway is in existence, but he is described by those who remember him a man of commanding presence, tall and very powerfully built. He was an honoured and influential citizen of his adopted town and aided largely in its development. His wife died April 5, 1791, at the age of fifty-three. He married for his second wife, Rebecca Jones of Hillsborough, by whom he had one child. Captain Brockway died in Bradford, NH at the residence of his son Asa in January 1829 at a very advanced age.

Reuben, born Washington, October 29, 1774; married Anna? He settled on a tract of wild land, which he received as a gift from his father, and which is now the farm of Samuel Fletcher, he afterward removed to Maine. Two children were born to them in Washington.

Rueben and Rufus came to St. George, in 1805. They left their families there, while they travelled up the river (Magaguadavic) to a little vale surrounded by mountains. They came to Brockway about 1806.

They were granted Lots No. 1 and No. 2 in Jan. 1818, after having cleared for themselves a bit of land and there they built their log cabins. They each got 300 acres, for a total of 600 acres in all, even though afterwards they still bought different parcels of land. This 600 acres was divided by the Magaguadavic River which ran between the 300 acres.

They bought the land from the Government for fifty cents an acre. The houses were little more than rough camps with large fireplaces that served in place of stoves. The brick used in these fireplaces were made by Rueben Brockway.

A sawmill on Upper Trout Brook, together with a machine for making matches, the first Batches used in the little village, was conducted by Reuben Brockway. A few years later he built a gristmill on Brook Sticks, which was burned. The mill wheel from this mill, laid on the bottom of Brook Sticks for years and years, until a few years ago It was brought out and is now placed In our Cemetery with a plaque on it in honor of our pioneer fathers, of which Rueben and Rufus are the two prominent ones mentioned.

Oxen were used In place of horses, and provisions were poled up the river in skiffs, small boats; or carried over footpaths up the Magaguadavic River, for about thirty miles of hilly country.

The place was once swept by fire (called the Miramichi Fire) and a number of buildings were burned among them the schoolhouse, which was later rebuilt.

Reuben also had a sawmill In Second Falls (St. George) which he sold to Mr. Gillmore in 1831. The mill burned in 1824.

The foregoing is just part of a history of Brockway, but it does tell of Reuben and Rufus coming and some of the things they did when they first came here.

I have just received a letter from a relative in Minnesota in which I am informed of the death of Sister Lavinia BROCKWAY, well known in our Province. Sister Brockway and her husband, Deacon Reuben BROCKWAY were among the first members of the Baptist church of 2nd Falls, St. George (Charlotte Co.) For many years their home was open to all the ministers of the gospel who passed that way. A number of years ago, they moved to the State of Minnesota and united with the Baptist church in the town of Anoka. Sister Brockway always prayed that she might live longer than her husband and God granted her request, for on 25th Nov. 1881, he passed through the valley and over the river. On Friday eve. 14th Dec. 1882, she received the summons to come also. Rev. Torbett, pastor of the Anoka church preached the funeral sermon. - W.J. Stewart, Portland, Dec. 26, '82.

Notes for Alfred D. Brockway:

Alfred D. Brockway is being attached as a son of Daniel/David Brockway as this family was in the 1850 census for Calais, Washington Co., ME. They seemed to be there for only the 1850 census as all of the children were born in New Brunswick and the complete family was not in subsequent census for the Calais area. The parents were at Princeton, Washington Co., ME in the 1860 census.

I attach a file which was sent to me by the Falkland Islands Museum Service. (Manager Leona Roberts)

It refers to a grave situated on the in a fenced of area known as Town Point, which used to be part of the Packe Brothers Company, Dunnose Head Farm. I visited the grave many times during 1962 whilst living at Dunnose Head. It is known locally as "Old Brocks Grave."

The ship he sailed on was called Echo, and I believe it to have been a bark. I can find no record of it ever arriving in California. see second document that shows the names of people on the ship that went to California

Melancholy Circumstance! We have been kindly forwarded with a copy of an American journal which gives, in a letter from California, dated in April last, the particulars of a melancholy accident by which a young man who resided some time in Chatham (North. Co.) met with an untimely death: " On the 25th (Christmas Day) after casting anchor in the Chartres, we went on shore with the Captain, returned and took our dinner, and then the Captain, Alfred D. BROCKWAY, James GRAHAM, Thomas WADE, Aaron PEABODY, Warren FOSTER, Joshua BOYDEN and I, started in a boat up the river, in search of the best chance for water. Some went on shore and walked part of the way near the bank in search of game, while the rest managed the boat. About a mile above the vessel, we saw a wolf, apparently of the prairie breed, and three of our number were following it up a high hill, when the Captain called for them to return, as it would be consuming more time than we could spare to follow it. All returned but BROCKWAY, who was in the advance of the rest, no one had seen him nor knew anything more than he was last seen ascending the hill. The Captain waited awhile and hearing nothing further from him, mustered a party and started in search. With considerable labor they reached the top of the hill, on the northern part of which they found Mr. BROCKWAY, lying on his face, at the mouth of the wolf's den, which he had shot there - and from the appearance he had, after firing off one charge from his double-barrelled gun, inconsiderately used it to hook out the wolf; when in so doing, the second load was discharged into his body, entering on the right side near the collar bone, passing through the lungs and heart and making its exit from the left side. The party returned with the mournful intelligence, stating that it was out of their power to bring him down in the night time, weak handed as they were. About day-break, the Captain again mustered a party who armed themselves and started again for the body. On reaching the place the body was found undisturbed; but on hearing a growling in the wolf's den, although seeing nothing, the Captain fired his musket, which bursted and injured him, slightly wounding his hand and face and affecting his hearing so much that he was rather deaf on one side for a number of weeks... The body of Mr. BROCKWAY was brought down the mountain, taken on board the boat and conveyed to the vessel. Mr. BOYDEN made a good pine coffin for it and the same after noon, it was carried on shore and buried some feet above high water mark opposite to where the vessel laid at anchor.

The following is from an email received from John V. Chaplin, 21 April 2009: What I didn't tell you was that my experience with the grave amounts to a very strange story which I shall attempt to condense for you. During Autumn 1962(Southern hemisphere) whilst working for Packe Brothers at Dunnose Head I was detailed to guide a schoolteacher to Chartres Settlement. (There were no roads at the time and most transport was by horseback..I attach a photo of the horse I was riding) The journey was slow, and the teacher moaned continuously. The journey was about 25 miles, and during the Afternoon we arrived at a point opposite Chartres and tried to attract someones attention so that the motor boat could come and fetch the teacher. After half an hour it came, and I returned to Gun Hill Shanty with both horses, where I brewed some tea, ate a snack, and got my head down for a couple of hours. Feeling a bit refreshed I remounted and towed the spare horse by tucking its cabresto (lead) under my right thigh. (You can see the track route marked on the map). As soon as we passed through the gate I began to experience problems with the horse I was leading, it dragged badly. The sun was setting in the Nothern sky and the sunset brought the surface of the ground into sharp relief. As we neared the grave I finally passed the led horse to my left side, where it walked apparently attempting to keep me between it and the grave which was in sight ahead. The horse I was riding also became sluggish, and refused to look ahead, only to the left, away from the grave. Deciding that I was better of letting the horses take their own path, we drifted further to the left. I then became aware that there were no animal hoofmarks anywhere near the grave, and I had the experience of feeling the hairs on the back of my neck standing on end. Once past the grave, both horses picked up their pace. Eventually I found no need to lead the spare horse, and let it go. The remainder of the ride home was in almost complete darkness, and I was glad indeed when I saw the solitary light at the settlement, and rode in for a well earned night's sleep. After I found there were several stories about people's experiences with the "spirit of Old Brock." Many of these stories involve Gun Hill Shanty. (The shanty appeared in a set of Falkland Island Stamps entitled Shepherd's Houses ... try googling that.) Other points of interest are the wolf, which was a Falkland Fox, commonly called a Warrah which is now extinct. The list of grave finders in 1868 include Lewis Piedra-Buenos who was in fact Luis Piedrabuena, who was later honoured by the Argentine Government, and made a Commandante in the Navy. There is a town today on the Santa Cruz River named "Commandante Luis Piedrabuena."

In the 1982 war during May when the ARA General Belgrano was torpedoed by HMS Conqueror, there were two destroyers steaming in company with the Cruiser. One of these was the ARA Piedrabuena, which was an old USA destroyer of the Sumner Class. By carefully looking at all the history of this class I discovered that it was DD-730 launched in May 1944 as the USS Collett. Collett was built at Bath, Maine. There are many other co-incidences involving the both the 1868 and 1875 grave discoverers, which I am still researching. West Falkland in 1849 was unsettled, all of that came later. When I was there it was one big sheep farm. Dunnose Head was 200 sq miles, and ran 20,000 sheep. You could say that I am driven by the spirit of Old Brock. May his Spirit Rest in Peace as we get his story out to the world(AEK)

Additional description of where the burial site is located:

The Chartres mentioned was the Chartres River which is the second longest river on West Falkland. Chartres the settlement had not been built in 1849. One of the best maps on line is in Wikipedia, (or use Google Earth; approx GPS co-ord 51:40:50.96S, 60:11:3.34W). This shows Dunnose Head sticking out west on the middle of West Falkland. Above it King George Bay. At the East end of the Bay there is a point of land sticking up, this is Town Point. Coming down South East from there is Christmas Harbour which ends at the mouth of Chartres River. Chartres by the way is not named after Chartres in France, but after a naval officer off, I believe, HMS Challenger. The grave is on the south side of Christmas Harbour, halfway down from Town Point to the Chartres Estuary. It would really make my day if there was a Brockway serving on the USS Collett in World War II. That would really bring it all the way around.

Dunnose Head is now split into Three Farms; Shallow Harbour; Dunnose Head and The Narrows. Town Point is in The Narrows.

Dunnose head has a large website run by the Wilkinsons who own the middle section of the old Packes property.

Obit:

Max Brockway

His home community of Upper Mills and friends throughout the district were severely shocked by the sudden passing of Max F. Brockway on March 17, 1939 in hospital at St. Stephen, where he was a patient during his brief illness. His death was caused by peritonitis.

He was born in Upper Mills February 10, 1900, son of John and the late Jane Brockway. He lived the entire life there and all who came in contact with his sterling character loved and admired him as he was always smiling and met everyone from day to day with the same pleasant attitude.

True Sportman

He was one of the best outdoor sportsmen for the St. Croix has produced very keen for rod and gun. His desire was to catch the best game fish, and in the hunting season he was always in search of fame and being a crack shot was more than unusually successful. He was for years past a director of Schoodic Branch of the Fish and Game Protective Association.

In tennis circles he was recognized as one of the best and was very active in the Milltown Club, of which he was a past president. Good sportsmanship was one of his outstanding characteristics. He was as graceful in defeat as in victory. He was an active member and past master of Alley Lodge, F. & A.M., and a great support to the United Church, which he constantly attended.

In November 1930, he was appointed Customs Excise Enforcement officer and stationed at Upper Mills where he remained until his death. In the discharge of his duties he was always courteous and well liked by the many people who call at this port of entry.

He is survived by his wife formerly Dorothy A. Norwood, of Milltown, to whom he was married less than four years ago; his father, and a sister, Mrs. Russell Woods, of San Diego, Cal.

The funeral was held at his late home on Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock under the auspices of Alley Lodge, with representations from Victoria Lodge of Milltown, N.B., St. Croix Lodge, Calais, and Louies Island Lodge, Princeton. Many and beautiful floral bouquets testified to the high esteem in which he was held, including set pieces from Alley Lodge, Sunrise Chapter of the Eastern Star, Canadian Customs and Immigration staff, United States Customs and Immigration

Goucher, Ernest S. Hayman, Chester Norton, Leonard Webber, Irving Beck and Kenneth Woodcock, all of the Canadian Customs staff. The service was conducted by Rev. H.A. Watts and Rev. Norman Estey. Obituary

It is with great sadness the family of H. Louise Brockway announces her passing at Charlotte County Hospital, St Stephen, NB on Thursday, May 18, 2023.

Born in St George, NB in 1949, daughter of the late Ronald and Ruth Brockway.

Louise was a kind soul who exhibited extreme passion and confidence in all aspects of her life. Her professional career began when she attended nursing school in 1970 at Hotel Dieu in Chatham, NB with her sister Nancy. From there she went on to work for a couple of years at St Josephs Hospital and then ultimately found her career home at Charlotte County Hospital where she spent the majority of her 30 plus years as a nurse. She ended her career with CCH as Nurse Supervisor, a role in which she took great pride and handled with utmost professionalism and heart.

In her personal life, Louise shared her home with her beloved sister, Nancy. Together they enjoyed gardening, walking, a passion for the Red Sox and Boston Celtics, traveling, and spending time with family. She was a doting Aunt to her two nieces. She and Nancy often took them on vacations as children and showered them with love and affection. She continued to do this into adulthood and was thrilled to be able to do the same with her great nieces, whom she loved very much.

Louise was a lover of Christmas! She enjoyed hosting Christmas work parties, lavish decorations and one of her most favourite things, shopping!! She also enjoyed spending a great deal of time with her family including her brother, Donnie who always made her laugh and her cousins from out of town who left her with wonderful stories and memories.

One of her other great passions for which she will be remembered for is her love of cooking. She often baked pies for friends and neighbours. She also made wonderful breads and her famous "Weezer's Caesar" salad.

She was a loving woman at the heart of her family and will be greatly missed.

Louise is survived by her sister Nancy Brockway, brother, Donald Brockway (Joanne), nieces, Jennifer Hartford (Andrew) and Ashley (Maddie), one great niece, Briella Hartford.

In addition to her parents, she was predeceased by her beloved aunts and one uncle as well as her great niece, Kiera Hartford.

A funeral service will be held at The S.O. Mehan & Son Funeral Home Ltd., 23 Main Street, St Stephen, N.B. on Tuesday, May 23, 2023 at 2 PM. The family will receive friends at the funeral home on Tuesday from 12-2 PM.

Obituary - Nina Murphy - Saint Croix Courier

Charlotte County has lost one of its oldest residents with the death of Nina Murphy who was in her 200th year.

The long time resident of Deadman's Harbour, who was born October 9, 1896, died at Fundy Nursing Home in blacks Harbour Friday following a brief illness.

Her lifetime had spanned three different centuries and despite her years. Murphy continued to live alone in the house, which had been her home for about 70years.

Granddaughter Nancy Armstrong said that right up until the day before she died Murphy was determined she was going to get herself back up on her feet again.

When interviewed by the Courier on her 103rd birthday Murphy said she did think she light live to be 100 since her own mother lived to 93 and her mother's sister, Lavinia Hawkins was 107 when she died so there was a history of longevity in the family.

Her memory was also good for someone who had entered their second century and she said she could still remember events that happened when she was really young, recalling going to school and the teachers who taught her.

Born in Deadman's Harbour she was one of a family of nine children born to William and Marcella (Johnson) Noddin and attended school in Blacks Harbour. She left when she was 17 to take a job at the cotton mill in Fredericton because she thought she would like to learn waving, but although she learned how to do it, Murphy said she decided she didn't like it.

Then a friend who was working in the Us, suggested she take a job in domestic service so Murphy left the factory and took a job housekeeping in Lubec, Maine staying there for four and half years before moving to a similar position in Portland, Maine where she remained for another three half years.

Despite her friend's efforts to persuade her to become a US Citizen, Murphy decided not to take out citizenship because she felt she would be neither an American or a Canadian and instead she returned to Canada.

In 1929 she married Burton Murphy who was the manager of the lumber mill that used to be in Blacks Harbor in those days. The couple lived in the village for six years before completing the house in Deadman's Harbour which was still Murphy's home. She had lived there alone since her husband's death in 1982.

While she worked off and on in the Connors Brothers factory it was her crafts which kept Murphy busy much of the time. She had been taught to knit and sew by her mother at the age of six and she augmented these skills by becoming a master quilter as well as hooking and braiding rugs.

An excellent seamstress, she made clothes for all her family, including coats and at one time sewed for Quartermain's Store in St. Stephen. She also made crafts of all sorts for Cottage Craft in St. Andrews.

She is survived by her daughter Phyllis Murphy of Utopia, one granddaughter Nancy Armstrong of St. George, three grandsons, Dennis and Mark Armstrong of Utopia and Bruce Armstrong of Barrie, Ontario and three great grandchildren.

The funeral took place Monday at Christ Church Anglican in Pennfield where she had been a member for many years.

Irving, Lloyd David

A Community Loses A Friend - The family of Lloyd David Irving are saddened to announce that "Pinky" has passed away after a lengthy battle with cancer at the age of 76. He died peacefully at his home looking out at the ocean on the Glebe Road in Chamcook, N.B., surrounded by his family, on Thursday evening, Dec. 13, 2007.

Lloyd is survived by his best friend and wife of 58 years, Jeanette Alice Murphy Irving; one daughter, Sandra Joy Sullivan; son-in-law Paul; granddaughters, Melissa, Savannah, Hannah, Zoe and Naomi; one son, Ralph Jeffrey Irving; daughter-in-law Elizabeth; grand-daughters Isabelle and Charlee; and one brother, Earle Irving, of St. Stephen, N.B., and spouse, Josephine Smith.

Lloyd was predeceased by his sister, Edith O'Donnell, and his parents, Raymond and Hazel Irving, of Tower Hill, N.B.

Lloyd lived in and around the St. Andrews area for the last 45 years and was well known to everyone in the community for his friendly warm manner.

Whether it was a brief encounter with a short conversation or simply a wave from across the street, you were always greeted with a friendly smile and kindness in his eyes. Once you were a friend of Lloyd's, you were a friend for life.

After leaving the Royal Canadian Air Force and moving to St. Andrews in the early '60's, he delivered oil for Esso, worked at the bowling alley at the Sir James Dunn Arena, sold insurance, went to the Lady Dunn Trade School and earned his carpenters license and eventually joined the Passama-quoddy Lodge Maintenance Department, from which he retired in the mid '90's. He was fondly remembered by co-workers for his non-stop antics and great sense of humour. He was a hardworking, never miss a day type, and firmly believed that if "you didn't do it well, there was not point in doing it at all."

The last ten years or so of his everyday life were spent at his home in Chamcook with "Jenny", where, between gardening, lawns and "house projects", there was never a dull moment and he often stated, "I don't know how I had time to work." They managed a few trips south in the winter to avoid some snow shovelling, but genuinely loved their home and surroundings. When asked if he wanted to go somewhere for a "last trip", he simply smiled his usual grin and said, "Why? I love it right here."

He will be sadly missed as he has touched the lives of everyone that has had the pleasure of meeting him. He has requested not to have a service or memorial, that was his humble way. In conversation with a longtime family friend who had inquired, he was actually relieved. "You know, I can't imagine Lloyd without a smile on his face so I'll stick to the memory that I have of our last visit."

That's what Dad would have wanted... remember the good times.

The family will have a private gathering after Christmas for family and close friends.

For anyone wishing to make donations, he has requested they be made to the Passamaquoddy Childrens Centre, St. Andrews.

Donald Wormell
May 08, 1961 - December 28, 2018

Donald William Wormell died suddenly at home in Portland, Maine on Friday, December 28, 2018, with his wife by his side.

Don was a larger than life person with a wonderful laugh that would make his friends and family laugh with him. He was a paramedic by trade but a woodworker by love, a skill he learned at his father's side growing up. Family and friends were important to him and he loved to help with their projects. Many of his friends have something in their home that Don built, from a small table to a complete kitchen, a lasting legacy to his skills.

Don was born in St. Stephen, New Brunswick on May 8, 1961. He attended a community college in Saint John, N.B., but found his calling when he went to Daytona Community College and became a paramedic.

He worked for United Ambulance for 32 years and found an EMS family that stood by him for years. He recently worked at Eldridge Lumber doing kitchen design and loved the new friends and support he found there.

Don is survived by Elizabeth Delano, his loving wife of 28 years; parents, Eugene and Minnie Wormell; sister, Lynda Swan and her husband, Doug Swan; nephews, Justin and Jason Swan; mother-in-law, Virginia Delano; and sister-in-law, June Delano.

The interment will be held at the St Stephen Rural Cemetery, St. Stephen, NB. on Wednesday, May 8, 2019 at 3 PM. All are welcome.

His departure leaves a hole that will be impossible to fill but he will live in our hearts forever.

The notes for Alfred Brockway are being shown as the introduction:

Alfred D. Brockway is being attached as a son of Daniel/David Brockway as this family was in the 1850 census for Calais, Washington Co., ME. They seemed to be there for only the 1850 census as all of the children were born in New Brunswick and the complete family was not in subsequent census for the Calais area. The parents were at Princeton, Washington Co., ME in the 1860 census.

The following is an email received 20 April 2009 from John V. Chaplin:

I attach a file which was sent to me by the Falkland Islands Museum Service. (Manager Leona Roberts) It refers to a grave situated on the in a fenced of area known as Town Point, which used to be part of the Packe Brothers Company, Dunnose Head Farm. I visited the grave many times during 1962 whilst living at Dunnose Head. It is known locally as "Old Brocks Grave."

The ship he sailed on was called Echo, and I believe it to have been a bark. I can find no record of it ever arriving in California. see second document that shows the names of people on the ship that went to California

Melancholy Circumstance! We have been kindly forwarded with a copy of an American journal which gives, in a letter from California, dated in April last, the particulars of a melancholy accident by which a young man who resided some time in Chatham (North. Co.) met with an untimely death: " On the 25th (Christmas Day) after casting anchor in the Chartres, we went on shore with the Captain, returned and took our dinner, and then the Captain, Alfred D. BROCKWAY, James GRAHAM, Thomas WADE, Aaron PEABODY, Warren FOSTER, Joshua BOYDEN and I, started in a boat up the river, in search of the best chance for water. Some went on shore and walked part of the way near the bank in search of game, while the rest managed the boat. About a mile above the vessel, we saw a wolf, apparently of the prairie breed, and three of our number were following it up a high hill, when the Captain called for them to return, as it would be consuming more time than we could spare to follow it. All returned but BROCKWAY, who was in the advance of the rest, no one had seen him nor knew anything more than he was last seen ascending the hill. The Captain waited awhile and hearing nothing further from him, mustered a party and started in search. With considerable labor they reached the top of the hill, on the northern part of which they found Mr. BROCKWAY, lying on his face, at the mouth of the wolf's den, which he had shot there - and from the appearance he had, after firing off one charge from his double-barrelled gun, inconsiderately used it to hook out the wolf; when in so doing, the second load was discharged into his body, entering on the right side near the collar bone, passing through the lungs and heart and making its exit from the left side. The party returned with the mournful intelligence, stating that it was out of their power to bring him down in the night time, weak handed as they were. About day-break, the Captain again mustered a party who armed themselves and started again for the body. On reaching the place the body was found undisturbed; but on hearing a growling in the wolf's den, although seeing nothing, the Captain fired his musket, which bursted and injured him, slightly wounding his hand and face and affecting his hearing so much that he was rather deaf on one side for a number of weeks... The body of Mr. BROCKWAY was brought down the mountain, taken on board the boat and conveyed to the vessel. Mr. BOYDEN made a good pine coffin for it and the same afternoon, it was carried on shore and buried some feet above high water mark opposite to where the vessel laid at anchor.

The following is from an email received from John V. Chaplin, 21 April 2009:

What I didn't tell you was that my experience with the grave amounts to a very strange story which I shall attempt to condense for you.

During Autumn 1962(Southern hemisphere) whilst working for Packe Brothers at Dunnose Head I was detailed to guide a schoolteacher to Chartres Settlement. (There were no roads at the time and most transport was by horseback..I attach a photo of the horse I was riding) The journey was slow, and the teacher moaned continuously. The journey was about 25 miles, and during the Afternoon we arrived at a point opposite Chartres and tried to attract someones attention so that the motor boat could come and fetch the teacher. After half an hour it came, and I returned to Gun Hill Shanty with both horses, where I brewed some tea, ate a snack, and got my head down for a couple of hours. Feeling a bit refreshed I remounted and towed the spare horse by tucking its cabresto (lead) under my right thigh. (You can see the track route marked on the map). As soon as we passed through the gate I began to experience problems with the horse I was leading, it dragged badly. The sun was setting in the Northern sky and the sunset brought the surface of the ground into sharp relief. As we neared the grave I finally passed the led horse to my left side, where it walked apparently attempting to keep me between it and the grave which was in sight ahead. The horse I was riding also became sluggish, and refused to look ahead, only to the left, away from the grave. Deciding that I was better of letting the horses take their own path, we drifted further to the left. I then became aware that there were no animal hoofmarks anywhere near the grave, and I had the experience of feeling the hairs on the back of my neck standing on end. Once past the grave, both horses picked up their pace. Eventually I found no need to lead the spare horse, and let it go. The remainder of the ride home was in almost complete darkness, and I was glad indeed when I saw the solitary light at the settlement, and rode in for a well earned night's sleep. After I found there were several stories about people's experiences with the "spirit of Old Brock." Many of these stories involve Gun Hill Shanty. (The shanty appeared in a set of Falkland Island Stamps entitled Shepherd's Houses ... try googling that.) Other points of interest are the wolf, which was a Falkland Fox, commonly called a Warrah which is now extinct.

The list of grave finders in 1868 include Lewis Piedra-Buenos who was in fact Luis Piedrabuena, who was later honoured by the Argentine Government, and made a Commandante in the Navy. There is a town today on the Santa Cruz River named "Commandante Luis Piedrabuena."

In the 1982 war during May when the ARA General Belgrano was torpedoed by HMS Conqueror, there were two destroyers steaming in company with the Cruiser. One of these was the ARA Piedrabuena, which was an old USA destroyer of the Sumner Class. By carefully looking at all the history of this class I discovered that it was DD-730 launched in May 1944 as the USS Collett. Collett was built at Bath, Maine. There are many other coincidences involving the both the 1868 and 1875 grave discoverers, which I am still researching.

West Falkland in 1849 was unsettled, all of that came later. When I was there it was one big sheep farm.

Dunnose Head was 200 sq miles, and ran 20,000 sheep.

You could say that I am driven by the spirit of Old Brock.

May his Spirit Rest in Peace as we get his story out to the world(AEK)

Additional description of where the burial site is located:

The Chartres mentioned was the Chartres River which is the second longest river on West Falkland. Chartres the settlement had not been built in 1849. One of the best maps on line is in Wikipedia, (or use Google Earth; approx GPS co-ord 51:40:50.96S, 60:11:3.34W). This shows Dunnose Head sticking out west on the middle of West Falkland. Above it King George Bay. At the East end of the Bay there is a point of land sticking up, this is Town Point. Coming down South East from there is Christmas Harbour which ends at the mouth of Chartres River. Chartres by the way is not named after Chartres in France, but after a naval officer off, I believe, HMS

Challenger. The grave is on the south side of Christmas Harbour, halfway down from Town Point to the Chartres Estuary. It would really make my day if there was a Brockway serving on the USS Collett in World War II. That would really bring it all the way around. Dunnose Head is now split into Three Farms; Shallow Harbour; Dunnose Head and The Narrows. Town Point is in The Narrows. Dunnose head has a large website run by the Wilkinsons who own the middle section of the old Packes property.

RAYMOND McBETH

GRAVE SITE Below the large square rock on top of Gun Hill (from whence the hill got its name) which looks like a huge field gun, more so before the rock "barrel" fell off, a few yards up from the beach. Nearby are some large gorse bushes.

DETAILS

As the news item of 1894 shows, A D Brockway was buried here in 1849. His beach stone grave marker was beautifully carved, although it is starting to crack and small portions have fallen off. One such portion carried the "y" of Brockway. The grave is covered with flat beach rock and a very old piece of whalebone is sticking in the ground at the foot of the grave.

The inscription on the headstone reads:

"A D BROCKWAY of Calais, Me. - Who died, Dec 25, 1849 - Aet. 25 years".

Some reports of the inscription reading "...Me. - Who died..." were clarified when it was explained that "Me" was a shortening of the American state of Maine.

The gorse mentioned in the article, has grown considerably since it was planted in 1849.

THE GUN-ROCK GRAVE

THERE is a grave at Christmas Harbour, Chartres, under the Gun-Rock Hill. A small tombstone, of the same kind of stone as those found on the beach, has the following inscription (the letters evidently cut by a skilled artizan):—

"A. D. Brockway, of Calais, Me. Who died, Dec. 25, 1849. Aet. 25 years."

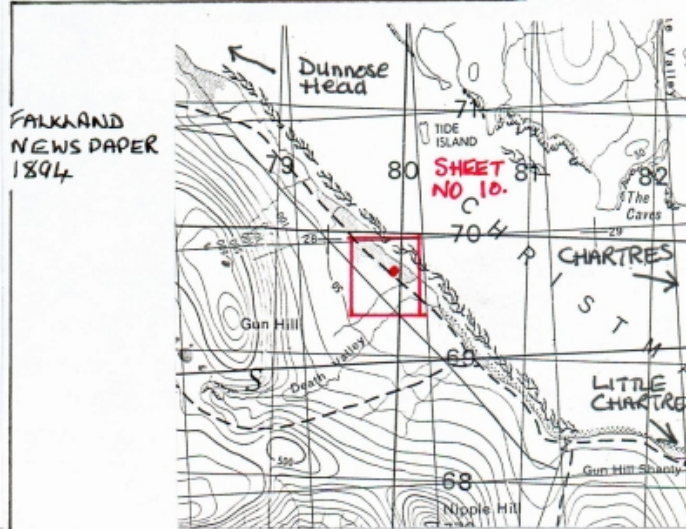

A bottle, of an old-fashioned shape, lies under the stone; in it was found a paper with, as far as can be remembered, the following notice:—

"The 'Echo' from Calais to San Francisco with emigrants, in for water. A passenger shot a wolf (fox) and followed it to its den, which was on the North-East side of the mountain with the rocky peak; he put the butt end of his gun in to ferret it out, the second barrel exploded and the charge passed through his lungs. He was brought on board alive, but died next day. The stone was erected by his Captain and shipmates. Will the finder report the occurrence as soon as possible to the government of the Falkland Islands. If the paper becomes defaced, will the finder rewrite the foregoing account. Also will he repair the grave."

At the end of the paper it was stated that the grave had been found by Captain Hansen, Lewis Piedra-Buenos and another (a German, whose name has been forgotten) in the year 1868. The foregoing signed the paper.

In 1875 the grave was again visited by Messrs. Charles Scott, Edwin John Smith and William Grierson. They added their names to the paper. Unfortunately the paper has disappeared.

A small clump of dwarf gorse grows at some little distance from the grave; the seed is supposed to have been sown in 1849.
