Foreword

The following was written by Gail Gordon, received: 24 July 2014:

I have always been interested in family history and, thankfully, scribbled down little notes about my ancestors whenever Mom or Dad began reminiscing. After the death of Dad in 2005, I decided to write a series of essays, starting with his life and working backwards. Armed with photos, letters, newspaper clippings and other ephemera found in the family home, I began my journey. I titled my work Searching for Moses, after the great grandfather Dad never knew.

It turned out that finding Moses was not that hard. I discovered that he was the great-grandson of Scottish immigrants and was not born in Calais, as Dad had thought, but in Chamcook, New Brunswick, Canada. According to censuses, newspaper archives and directories, he was a blacksmith in St. Stephen, the sister city of Calais, and lived in Calais after his marriage.

Things went along swimmingly until I began researching Moses' wife, Margaret Alexander. Dad had been under the impression that she was Native American. I spent a lot of time, with no success, trying to corroborate this. Some census and church records point to Margaret, daughter of Thomas and Jane Alexander, as Moses' wife. However, no birth or death records have been found that prove that relationship.

I turned my attention back to the Craig line and discovered information on the Loyalists, as well as a Mayflower connection! I also discovered a half-sister of Moses, Eliza Beckwith Smart.

Through fifteen chapters I "traveled" from the Merrimack Valley of Massachusetts up to rural Maine, across the pond to the British Isles, back to Maritime Canada and into the St. Croix Valley. And, oh, what a trip it was!

This is a final version of the eBooks that have been available from my website as the genealogy program that I have used to produce these books has reached a limit and can no longer be extended or corrected. However, I still keep doing genealogy but have to use a different version of the software but it does not have the capability to produce eBooks. In the future, I may have to change to a different genealogy program that can produce eBooks but I cannot depend on that happening.

Introduction

This book is a first attempt to show the descendants of Thomas Alexander. At the present time, we have only the descendants of three members of his family, namely, Robert, Margaret, and Jane.

There is solid proof that Jane is a daughter of Thomas but Margaret is in question as no proof has ever been found showing who Margaret Alexander, the wife of Moses Craig, parents were. It is being assumed that Thomas & Jane Craig are the correct family as Margaret is present in the 1851 census but absent in subsequent census indicating that she has either married or moved away. Another item of proof is that Gail (Craig) Gordon has a photograph of Robert Alexander of St. Andrews, NB. This photograph shows evidence that Margaret and Robert were connected in some way.

Testing in the form of a Family Finder DNA(FF) test has been done on a direct female line descendant of Margaret. This was done so that the family Folk-lore that indicated that Margaret Alexander was of native ancestry could either be proven True or False. The results of this DNA test are now in and the Population Finder portion of the test proved that his was false and her ancestry was non-native. The Family Finder portion of her results show 277 persons who are related to her and now with the addition of Jane Alexander's descendants it is possible to do another Family Finder test on one of these descendants to determine if Margaret and Jane were sisters. The results should show that Peggy Helen Stevenson who had the FF test would be a 4th cousin and also a 5th cousin once removed for anyone who is at generation level 6 in the outline reports shown later in this book. An example of this is for Judy MacVay or Dale Eugene Gowan. These people are shown at the 6th level of descendants from Thomas Alexander, The 4th cousin level is because Margaret and Jane were sister and the 5th cousin once removed is from the connections on the Craig side as both Margaret and Jane married men who were descendants of David Craig, I and his wife Mary Steele.

Further FF testing on a descendant of Robert Alexander are needed to prove that he was a brother to Margaret and Jane.

Any information for a person concerning Wills or other documents are included in the notes for that person rather than in a separate chapter on Wills and Documents.

Any corrections or updates must refer to the family unit and not the page numbers in this book as my database does not know about the book.

One person shows the maiden name as Jane Haigh. However, this person has refused to indicate their source or proof for this information. It appears that this speculation is based on an 1836 marriage between a Thomas Alexander and a Jane Haigh in Ireland. This is not the same Thomas Alexander that came to Charlotte Co., NB in 1822 with his wife Jane. Pure speculation and poor quality research.

Death has claimed another victim in the person of Robert ALEXANDER, one of oldest and most respected citizens. Only a few days ago Mr. Alexander returned home from visiting his daughter in Boston and on his return was generally complimented on his healthy appearance. Having contracted a sudden cold since coming back, it produced inflammation of the bladder, and despite all the efforts of his attending physicians, he succumbed on Saturday morn. The deceased was well advanced in years. He was a wheelright by occupation, but of late years has not devoted much attention to it. His funeral

Monday was largely attended. Revs. Mahon and Gunn conducted the services.

St. Andrews Beacon, Nov. 28, 1912
The "Trent" Affair
The Part St. Andrews Played in It

There is a page in the history of St. Andrews that should not be forgotten. It is the part that St. Andrews played in what is known as the "Trent Affair," when Great Britain and the United States came dangerously near a war with each other. Troops were rushed here from Halifax and Saint John to be pushed through to Quebec. At that time the New Brunswick and Canada Railway was operating between St. Andrews and Canterbury. Beyond that and Quebec no rails were laid, and the journey through to Quebec from Canterbury in the depth of winter was a most hazardous and uncomfortable one. [By the way, the late Charles F. Smith, of Montreal, who built a beautiful summer residence here a few years ago, was one of the British soldiers who passed through St. Andrews and on to Quebec to defend the honor of his country.]

There are those in St. Andrews who recall the cumbersome box sleds that the commandant of the troops ordered to be made here to carry the ammunition and stores through. These sleds were made by the late Mr. Robert Alexander, wheelwright, (father of Mrs. Angus Rigby,) but as predicted by those having experience on our winter roads, they did not prove themselves adapted to our wintry conditions, and had to be abandoned before they had proceeded very far, and something more wieldy provided in their stead.

The troops, so far as our information goes, were landed at Gove's wharf, St. Andrews, New Year's Day, 1862.

Thomas Alexander Descendants

From an old diary of the late Mr. Whitlock, which has been kindly placed at our disposal by Miss Whitlock, the following extracts are made:

— Jan 1/1862—Dull, rain and snow, rain. The 62nd Regt. and detachment of artillery (600 men) arrived in the Steamer Delta from Halifax; 300 went up to Woodstock on the R. Road; left here at 2 o'clock; Charles Gove's stores were fitted up for their accommodation; they landed on is wharf. Jan 5.

—The remainder of the troops went up to Woodstock today (300 men) Jan 10.

—Delta arrived from Halifax, 250 troops, 62, 16 and R. A. Jan 13.

—Troops left for Woodstock Jan 19.

—400 troops, artillery and men of war with 6 Armstrong guns, ammunition and stores, arrived from Saint John.

[the finely pencilled lines in the last entry are a little indistinct, but the above seems to be their contents. Unfortunately further entries of this valuable diary bearing upon this historic subject have been lost.]

Note:: Family stories indicate that Margaret Alexander was of North American Indian race. This has not been proven, but any kind of DNA testing that shows the mtDNA would prove this to be either true or false. The female descendants of Margaret Alexander would have the mtDNA that they pass on to their children but only the females pass it on to their children. This means that any living female that has a direct female line back to Margaret Alexander would have the same mtDNA as she had. This can be proven by either a Family Finder DNA test(FF) that would give the percentage of native ancestry in the person being tested or an mtDNA test that determines the Haplogroup that is either of native ancestry or not. Since there are several generations to cover, the amount will be in the range of 12% for 3rd generation or 6% for 4th generation descendants. The main thing here is that the person being tested can be either male or female as long as their mother has a direct female line back to Margaret Alexander.

A direct line female was tested using the Family Finder DNA test and the Population Finder portion of this test showed that the line was NOT of North American Indian ancestry.

Death has claimed another victim in the person of Robert ALEXANDER, one of oldest and most respected citizens. Only a few days ago Mr. Alexander returned home from visiting his daughter in Boston and on his return was generally complimented on his healthy appearance. Having contracted a sudden cold since coming back, it produced inflammation of the bladder, and despite all the efforts of his attending physicians, he succumbed on Saturday morn. The deceased was well advanced in years. He was a wheelright by occupation, but of late years has not devoted much attention to it. His funeral Monday was largely attended. Revs. Mahon and Gunn conducted the services.

St. Andrews Beacon, Nov. 28, 1912
The "Trent" Affair
The Part St. Andrews Played in It

There is a page in the history of St. Andrews that should not be forgotten. It is the part that St. Andrews played in what is known as the "Trent Affair," when Great Britain and the United States came dangerously near a war with each other. Troops were rushed here from Halifax and Saint John to be pushed through to Quebec. At that time the New Brunswick and Canada Railway was operating between St. Andrews and Canterbury. Beyond that and Quebec no rails were laid, and the journey through to Quebec from Canterbury in the depth of winter was a most hazardous and uncomfortable one. [By the way, the late Charles F. Smith, of Montreal, who built a beautiful summer residence here a few years ago, was one of the British soldiers who passed through St. Andrews and on to Quebec to defend the honor of his country.]

There are those in St. Andrews who recall the cumbersome box sleds that the commandant of the troops ordered to be made here to carry the ammunition and stores through. These sleds were made by the late Mr. Robert Alexander, wheelwright, (father of Mrs. Angus Rigby,) but as predicted by those having experience on our winter roads, they did not prove themselves adapted to our wintry conditions, and had to be abandoned before they had proceeded very far, and something more wieldy provided in their stead.

The troops, so far as our information goes, were landed at Gove's wharf, St. Andrews, New Year's Day, 1862.

From an old diary of the late Mr. Whitlock, which has been kindly placed at our disposal by Miss Whitlock, the following extracts are made:

— Jan 1/1862—Dull, rain and snow, rain. The 62nd Regt. and detachment of artillery (600 men) arrived in the Steamer Delta from Halifax; 300 went up to Woodstock on the R. Road; left here at 2 o'clock; Charles Gove's stores were fitted up for their accommodation; they landed on is wharf. Jan 5.

—The remainder of the troops went up to Woodstock today (300 men) Jan 10.

—Delta arrived from Halifax, 250 troops, 62, 16 and R. A. Jan 13.

—Troops left for Woodstock Jan 19.

—400 troops, artillery and men of war with 6 Armstrong guns, ammunition and stores, arrived from Saint John.

[the finely pencilled lines in the last entry are a little indistinct, but the above seems to be their contents. Unfortunately further entries of this valuable diary bearing upon this historic subject have been lost.]

Angus RIGBY, after seven years absence in the Western States and Manitoba, returned to St. Andrews (Charlotte Co.) Monday last.

The following email was received from Gail Gordon, 31 March 2014:

Regarding Angus Rigby's departure from St. Andrews for seven years, I found him in the 1880 federal census in Hudson, St. Croix, Wisconsin, age 29, a carriage maker, in the home of George and Mary Williams. This explains why there is a note on the 1881 St. Andrews census saying "omit entry". He had been incorrectly listed as living there with Mary Isabella. I see that he was back living with her upon his return.

Notes for Dr. Paul Dudley White:

The following info was received from an email from Gail Gordon, sent on 11 July 2015.

According to Dr. White's Boston Globe obituary, he was survived by two adopted children, Alexander Warren White and Penelope Dudley Vogel.

Dr Paul Dudley White

Birth: Jun. 6, 1886

Death: Oct. 31, 1973

Scientist. Dr. White was a pioneering specialist on the diseases of the heart and circulatory system. He was also a founding member of the American Heart Association and the International Society of Cardiology (becoming the organization's President in 1948). Born in the Roxbury neighborhood, of Boston, Massachusetts, White became interested in cardiology after the death of his twelve year old sister from rheumatic fever. He graduated from the Roxbury Latin Grammar School in 1903, and then attended the famed Harvard Medical School, graduating from there in 1911. After graduating he took a job in the pediatrics department of the Massachusetts General Hospital and served there on the staff of Dr. R.I. Lee from 1911 to 1914. Together the two men developed the technique for measuring blood coagulation. They named this the Lee and White method. White then travelled to London, England, to study the electrocardiograph or ECG machine for a year with scientist Thomas Lewis at the University College Hospital. He then served with the Harvard Medical School beginning in 1914. During the Second World War, White served with the Harvard Unit of the British Expeditionary Forces near Bologna, Italy, and later helping to establish the American base in Bordeaux, France, in 1917. He then organized an expedition with the American Red Cross to treat an outbreak of typhus in Macedonia and the Greek Islands. For his service the Greek government awarded him a decoration. He returned to the United States in 1919, and continued his work at the Massachusetts General Hospital. At the hospital, he was instrumental in establishing a cardiac unit. He became a professor of medicine and with his clinical abilities he established a reputation for himself and the hospital. He retired from the hospital in 1956 after 42 years of service. He also served as President of the First World Congress of Cardiology. In 1955, White became President Dwight D. Eisenhower's personal physician after he suffered a heart attack. He stayed with Eisenhower until his death in 1969. He was the author of several books including, "Heart Disease" (1931). White himself, died from a heart attack in 1973. Always a strong supporter of both exercise and fitness, and an avid cyclist himself, the 17 mile Dr. Paul White Bike path located in the Boston and Brookline area, was named for him. A United States postage stamp costing three cents was also made in his honor in 1986.

Notes for Robert Charles Rigby:

RIGBY, Robert Charles (#V/41295)

Robert Rigby was born in St. Andrew's, New Brunswick on April 3, 1915, the son of Robert D. Rigby and Charlotte Elvada (nee Worrell) Rigby. Both his parents, Robert D. and Charlotte, were born in New Brunswick. The family would later move to Sarnia, where father Robert Senior was employed by Anglin-Norcross Ontario Limited. Sometime in 1942, Robert's mother Charlotte passed away. Robert

Charles Rigby, single at the time, and recording his occupation as a hardware salesman, enlisted in Toronto on July 2, 1942 with the Royal Canadian Naval Volunteer Reserve. He would serve with the RCNV as Ordinary Telegraphist aboard the Canadian destroyer HMCS St. Croix.

The Canadian destroyer HMCS St. Croix (181) operated in the North Atlantic. Aboard the same ship from the Sarnia-Lambton area were Coder Joseph Griffiths Bell of Sarnia and Stoker Second class William Norman Roder of Arkona. The St. Croix was one of the "four-stacker" destroyers acquired by Great Britain from the United States Navy in September 1940, in exchange for sites for air and naval bases on British territory in the Atlantic area (she was formerly the U.S.S. McCook). The St. Croix and six other destroyers transferred to the Royal Canadian Navy at the time were manned immediately by Canadian crews and performed invaluable service on Atlantic convoy duty. Of note, one of those transferred destroyers was the St. Clair. The HMCS St. Croix had distinguished herself in the early days of the Battle of the Atlantic, by patrolling for German submarines, by being credited with two U-boat kills and by picking up many survivors of German U-boat attacks on Allied ships. On September 20, 1943, the St. Croix was to be the first of the destroyers to be lost. Not long prior to the sinking of the St. Croix, Robert was home in Sarnia on leave to visit his father and friends.

In mid-September of 1943, the Allies had a plan to merge two convoys (ONS-18 and ON-202), a combined assemblage of 63 merchant ships, in mid-ocean. A newly formed Canadian support group was on its way to reinforce the slower ONS-18 group, located to the south of Iceland. The Canadian escort group included the British frigate Itchen, corvettes Chambly, Morden and Sackville, along with the destroyers St. Francis and St. Croix. As the convoys closed their gap, the escorts were picking up U-boat signals. Undoubtedly, the U-boats were gathering in large numbers and the wolf pack was maneuvering into position for a night attack. They were about to measure the success of their newest "secret weapon", the Gnat torpedo, an acoustic torpedo that homed in on the propellers of its prey. On the night of September 20, 1943, the St. Croix had detached herself from the support group to investigate an aircraft sighting. At 9:51 pm, the German U-boat U-305 struck the HMCS St. Croix with two Gnat torpedoes near her propellers. The ship listed immediately and uncontrollably. To Itchen, a few miles away, she sent the cryptic message, "Am leaving the office." It was the last word from St. Croix. Seconds later, a third electrically directed torpedo, the final blow, hit the stern of the St. Croix. There was a tremendous explosion, flames shot into the air, and within three minutes, the St. Croix was gone.

Two RN ships from the escort force rushed to the area, to see what had taken place and what could be done. The frigate HMS Itchen signaled; "St. Croix torpedoed and blown up. Forecastle still afloat. Survivors in rafts and boats. Torpedoes fired at me. Doing full speed in vicinity. Will not attempt to P.U. survivors until Polyanthus arrives." But the RN corvette Polyanthus was herself torpedoed by U-952 just after midnight. Itchen then had to become involved in attempting to locate the attacking U-boat. Later, in the foggy daylight of September 21, the Itchen was eventually able to pick up one Polyanthus survivor and 81 St. Croix survivors, but only after they had been in the very cold water for thirteen hours. Most of those lost had perished in the sea after abandoning the ship.

The few hours of rescue came to an ironic and bitter end two days later. On September 23, 1943 at approximately 2:00 am the German U-boat U-666, using a Gnat torpedo, struck the HMS Itchen. The Itchen exploded with an ear-splitting roar, then vanished into the sea. This time, there were only three survivors, two from the Itchen and one from the St. Croix, Stoker W.A. Fisher of Black Diamond, Alberta. In total, 147 lives were lost from the St. Croix, including Ordinary Telegraphist Robert Rigby. It was not until October 1, 1943 that the Honourable Angus L. MacDonald, the Minister of National Defence for Naval Services officially announced the sinking of the destroyer St. Croix. No details of the sinking were released, other than the list of names of 147 men who lost their lives, which included Stoker Second class William Norman Roder of Arkona, Sarnians Coder Joseph Griffiths Bell (included in this Project), and Ordinary Telegraphist Robert Charles Rigby.

The sinking of the St. Croix was the heaviest single loss suffered by the Royal Canadian Navy in the war. Twenty-eight year old Robert Charles Rigby has no known grave. His name is inscribed on the Halifax Memorial, Nova Scotia, Canada, Panel 10.

1. Margaret¹ Alexander (Thomas^A, ?-1^B, Br-01^C, (00Root-Alexander)^D) was born Bet. 1834 - 1835 in St. Andrews Parish, Charlotte Co., NB, and died Bet. 1876 - 1880 in ?. She married Moses Alfred Craig 29 November 1859 in St. Andrews, Charlotte Co., NB (Source: (1) Daniel Fred Johnson, *VSNB: Vital Statistics from N.B. He was born 18 July 1837 in Chamcook, St. Andrews Parish, Charlotte Co., NB, and died 18 February 1912 in Calais, Washington Co., ME (Source: MSA: Maine State Archives OLDB, "Electronic.").

1870 Census, Calais(Ward#2), Washington Co., ME, p13/53A, family#302, frame 13/25, taken 23 June 1870, age 27

Note:: Family stories indicate that Margaret Alexander was of North American Indian race. This has not been proven, but any kind of DNA testing that shows the mtDNA would prove this to be either true or false. The female descendants of Margaret Alexander would have the mtDNA that they pass on to their children but only the females pass it on to their children. This means that any living female that has a direct female line back to Margaret Alexander would have the same mtDNA as she had. This can be proven by either a Family Finder DNA test(FF) that would give the percentage of native ancestry in the person being tested or an mtDNA test that determines the Haplogroup that is either of native ancestry or not. Since there are several generations to cover, the amount will be in the range of 12% for 3rd generation or 6% for 4th generation descendants. The main thing here is that the person being tested can be either male or female as long as their mother has a direct female line back to Margaret Alexander.

A direct line female was tested using the Family Finder DNA test and the Population Finder portion of this test showed that the line was NOT of North American Indian ancestry.

Overzealous sentry guard

· 9 January 2014 ·

From a series printed in a local paper entitled "In-Laws, Outlaws and Kin Folk" on The Craig Family. "For twenty odd years until her death in the 1960's, Ethel (Craig) Rigby researched her roots. In this series of articles, we shall be using the material which she compiled during that time. Many thanks to Ann Rigby for her permission to use these writings."

"The early history of David Craig , the Loyalist pioneer, who settled at Chamcook, is not as complete as one would wish, but it is certain that he was born in Scotland, in or near Edinburgh, in October 1749 and was married to Mary Steele, who was born May 1758. He followed the weaver's trade."

Since these words were written, Ann Rigby has unearthed the obituaries of David and Mary Craig which provide more information. The St. Andrews Standard reported that David Craid died on 08 December 1836 at the age of 83. He had been born at Beath, Scotland in 1749 and came to this country in 1783. He left seven children, 57 grandchildren and 57 great-grandchildren to mourn his passing. The Royal Gazette stated that Mary Craig had died on 26 August 1832 at the residence of her son-in-law. She was 74 years old. She had been married at Beith, near Glasgow, Scotland.

"David Craig was attached to the 74th Argyle Highlanders, a Scotch (sic) Regiment, which was sent to defend Penobscot during the Revolutionary War. "It was early in... 1779, that the British Government issued orders to establish a military post at Castine, or Bagaduce, on the east bank of the Penobscot River. This river had been the western boundary of the old French Acadia and would naturally be the dividing line between the province of Nova Scotia and the Massachusetts Bay Colony; therefore many of the loyal followers of the King, considering Castine to be on British territory, started a settlement there, and even considered forming a province by the name of New Ireland. During the troublous times of the Revolution, these loyal settlers formed an association, called "Penobscot Loyalist Association", which held many secret meetings and considered many matters of the importance in the connection with the needs of the Loyalists.

"During the the British occupation of Penobscot, the garrison occupied Fort George, which had been hastily erected for that purpose. From a book called Redcoats at Castine written by Judge Patterson, a description of the fort was obtained..." "General McLean was commander of the Fort at Castine and Captain Henry Mowatt had charge of the three ships of war, which guarded the harbor... The soldiers must have been allowed to bring their wives with them when they came out to this country as Mrs. Craig was at Castine with her husband. Two children were born before they moved to St. Andrews. Janet, the oldest child, was born December 1779; and a son, David, was born in May 1782.

"...While they resided at Castine, Mrs. Craig had an errand which necessitated her passing a sentry on guard- some say she was going to get some fresh water, others, that she was taking laundry to her husband- however, when ordered to halt and give the password, she gave the signal. Owing to the fact that she was wearing a cape, the sentry did not notice the signal, and called on her twice more to halt. She continued on her way thinking he knew her, whereupon the sentry fired. The shot inflicted a bad wound which did not prove fatal, but required a lot of care and attention until it finally healed. There was talk of a court-martial, as it was thought the sentry was over-enthusiastic in his attention to duty; but Mrs. Craig pleaded on his behalf, assuming the blame herself and the matter was dropped."

"Tradition provides a romantic atmosphere with the sequel that a son of the sentry married Mrs. Craig's oldest daughter, Janet, some time after they moved to St. Andrews..."

"After having successfully held Penobscot for the British, the Penobscot Loyalists sorrowfully learned that the powers-that-be had agreed that the St.Croix River was to be the boundary between the two countries and not the Penobscot, consequently they were forced to seek a settlement elsewhere to be on British soil. They moved therefore moved eastward to a place called St.Andrews, New Brunswick, at the mouth of the St.Croix River. The settlers picked up their belongings, household furniture and some even took down their houses and put them on board two large transports and several small craft and set sail for their new home in a new land, arriving on October 3rd, 1783.

Notes for Dr. John Edward Rigby:

Obituary - Dr. John E. Rigby

Dr. John E. Rigby, physician, statesman and friend died unexpectedly at his home here Friday morning. He passed quietly away in his sleep after five years of failing health following a heart attack. he was 49. He looked after his patients beyond the call of duty; acting as friend and advisor; in politics and private life his was a great contribution to the people of Charlotte County and the province as well. All Saints Anglican Church full and overflowing signified the esteem in which he was held.

Born at Bayside, NB a few miles from St. Andrews, on July 20, 1923, he was the only son of R. Foster Rigby and the late Ethel (Craig) Rigby. He attended school at Bayside until grade 9 when he came to school in St. Andrews and graduated from the Charlotte County Grammar School here with the Class of 40; he received a Bachelor of Science degree from Mount Allison University in 1944 and obtained his M.D.C.M. from Dalhousie University in 1949.

Dr. Rigby practised for a time in Deer Island and then went to Mississippi, where he was administrator of public health services for Harrison County. It was here he met and married his wife, Ann Barrett Gunter. With his wife and two children he returned to St. Andrews in the late fall of 1957 and started the practice of medicine almost immediately. Many of his former patients from Deer Island drove to the mainland for his services and his practice grew to such proportions it was practically overwhelming as our two doctors cover many miles of rural area as well. Dr. Rigby was a member of the St. Croix Medical Society and of the New Brunswick Medical Society and served a term of the executive of the latter in 1969.

He was a member of All Saints Anglican Church assistant organist and a member of the choir. He served four years as warden and several terms on the vestry. He also served two terms on the St. Andrews Town Council; was a member of the Kiwanis Club, a trustee of the Sunbury Shores art and Nature Centre; a well known ornithologist; and also took a great interest in the history of the area, assisting with field trips of the Charlotte County Historical Society although not a member for the past five years.

In political life he was first elected from Charlotte County in 1967 and was respected by not only his colleagues but by the Opposition members as well. He was Deputy Speaker of the House.

He rested in his church and the countless numbers from near and far came to pay their respects. On Sunday morning at 11 a very touching requiem communion service was held with a large congregation present. The formal funeral was at 2 o'clock conducted by the Rector, Canon J.F.N. Jones assisted by Rev. J.P. Quinn of Saint John.

The pallbearers were Fisheries and Environment Minister G.W.N. Cockburn, Dr. Donne W. Smith, Wilfred G. Rankine (churchwarden) D. Paul Oxner, Gary Groom and Jeffrey Holmes. Internment was made in the family lot in the St. Andrews Rural Cemetery.

His wife, one son, Craig, survives Dr. Rigby; two daughters, Pamela and Janet, his father R. Foster Rigby of Bayside and several cousins.

Flowers came from family, close friends or organizations, Dr. Rigby's wish being that the money be given instead to some deserving charity. There were flowers from Premier Hatfield, Hon. and Mrs. G.E. McInerney; Hon. and Mrs. Edison Stairs; Dr. and Mrs. Ernest Chalmers; Malcolm MacLeod; MLA J.C. Van Horne; Board of trustees Charlotte County Hospital; Town of St. George; St. George Pharmacy; Town of St. Andrews Mayor and Town Council; United Pentecostal Church; Ryan Graser and Smith of Fredericton and Lanfor Industries.

There were countless donations to the Book of Remembrances of All Saints Church; the Charlotte County Hospital Medical Library; the Canadian Heart Foundation; the Canadian Cancer Society; and the Canadian National Institute for the Blind as well as some Gideon Bibles.
