Notes for Daniel Thomas Wissinger:

Based on my current research, parents believed to be: Johannes (John) Jacob Wissinger, b 1784 (s/o Balthasar Wissinger & Elizabeth Beck) and Elizabeth Martin.

Both have Property Tax records in Jefferson County, Virginia in the same timeframe (now Jefferson County, West Virginia)

Also, Sarah Margaret Wissinger, born 7 Apr 1821 in Harper's Ferry, Va. is probably his sister.

Mr. Daniel Wissinger comes from good old Virginia stock, being born at Harper's Ferry March 27, 1812; came to Springfield in 1833, commencing business as a builder and contractor, which he followed thirty-five to thirty-six years. In 1871, he commenced the sash, door and blind manufacture, under the firm name of Wissinger & Shanks, which was subsequently changed to Wissinger & Arthur. In March 1879, he discontinued this business, and, in September following, he went into present business - wholesale and retail coal - with his son, under the style of C.E. Wissinger & Co. ### JEALOUSY.....A DOUBLE HORROR!

Oscar Wissinger, Crazyed by a Groundless Jealously, Kills His Divorced Wife and Commits Suicide.

CRIMES CARNIVAL -- A double tragedy - an uxorcide and a suicide - the most appalling crimes, with perhaps the exception of the terrible Drumm affair, that has startled Springfield for many years - occurred at ten minutes before 10 o'clock Saturday night at 26 West Mulberry street. Oscar Wissinger fired two balls into the body of his divorced wife, and as she fell, sent a bullet crashing into his own jealousy-crazed brain. In both cases death was almost instantaneous.

THE TRAGEDY -- The Full Details of the Awful Shocking, Double Crime. Police and reporters have been unable to ascertain when Oscar Wissinger came to Springfield Saturday, but the most probable theory is that he arrived here at 8:20 on the Big Four train from Indianapolis, where he had been since early last winter. Since that time his wife had secured a divorce from him, and the family consisting of herself and four boys at home, moved from East Pleasant street, near Gallagher, to the double brick house at 26 West Mulberry street.

THE FIRST TRACE that has been found of Wissinger's movements, Saturday night, is that he appeared at the residence of James A. Rhine, 113 Gallagher street, about 9 o'clock, and inquired: "Where have the Wissingers moved to?" Mrs. Rhine and her daughter, Jessie, were alone in the house. The mother in the dim light did not recognize the man, but, fearing it might be Wissinger beat on mischief hesitated to answer his question. The daughter, however, thinking her mother had forgotten, gave the information desired, and Wissinger departed. Miss Jessie recognized him at once.

From there Wissinger went to Mulberry street, but evidently mistook the direction, for he stopped at Engineer Collins' residence, 23 West Mulberry street and made further inquires. Crossing the street, he ENTERED HIS WIFE'S RESIDENCE by the back door. Charlie, aged 11, next to the youngest son, was seated alone in the kitchen. Mrs. Wissinger was upstairs preparing the beds for the night.

After speaking to the little boy, and inquiring where Mrs. Wissinger was, the husband went up stairs and entered the west room, where his wife was. Charlie THOUGHFULLY FRIGHTEHED (for he knew full well, from sad experience, that there would be trouble), sat crying on the stairs.

Almost immediately Frank, aged 16, entered the kitchen. On learning that his father was at home, he started at once for a police officer. Down town he met his older brother Will, aged 19, and together they returned to the house. In the meantime, the little fellow seated on the steps heard his father say, "Now this must settle this." Again, he said "YOU MUST DIE -- both of us." He could hear his mother's pleading tones in reply, but could not understand what she said. When the two brothers entered the house, the older, Will, picked up a small toy cannon, to use as a club, and started up stairs. The father and mother in the meantime had gone into the front room, which was without light. Hearing Will on the stairs, followed by his little brothers, the father came out of the room, and, standing on the upper landing, pointed a revolver at his son, threatening to BLOW OUT HIS BRAINS if did he not go down stairs. The boy stepped back, Wissinger turned into the room, knocked his Wife down and then fired two shots in rapid succession, and an instant later a third. The boys rushed from the house with terrified cries of, "FATHER HAS SHOT MOTHER!" and at lightning speed ran down town, startling the whole neighborhood with their screams.

Dr. Hulick, Judge John C. Miller, Dr. H.H. Seys, and Dr. Driscoll, a guest at the Smith residence, were in the house in less than three minutes after the shots were fired. They bravely rushed up stairs regardless of the fact that an insanely DESPERATE MAN might be awaiting them with a still smoking revolver. But they found instead two bodies, from which the last traces of life were fast going. The woman gasped once or twice, and a feeble pulse was still discernible in the man, but in a few minutes they were still and lifeless. The room was filled with smoke.

Mrs. Wissinger was lying just inside and to the right of the door, with her head to the west. Blood was gushing from her nose and mouth, and her GOWN AT THE BREAST WAS BLAZING, having ignited from the flash of the weapon, which had evidently been held very close to her heart when the shot was fired.

Wissinger lay directly in front of the door, between it and a bureau, his head resting on the baseboard, where it struck when he fell. Blood and brain matter was gushing from a ghastly wound in his skull, and collected in a pool under him. The wall was freely splattered with blood.

The weapon lay at Wissinger's side. It was a 6-chamber, 38-caliber, self-acting revolver. Three chambers were empty. Wissinger had removed his hat and coat and laid them on one of the beds in the room.

The Wounds - The boys had summoned Night Chief McKenna and several officers and Coroner Austin was sent for at once. Dr. Seys, Dr. Bryant and Dr. Hunt assisted the coroner in locating the wounds.

A bullet wound was found in the woman's breast, two inches above the left nipple, the bullet evidently had passed through the heart. A second wound was found in the left side, between the floating ribs and the crest of the hip. The bullet had passed through the body and was lodged under the skin on the opposite side, and was cut out by the coroner. Either wound was necessarily almost instantly fatal. There was no wound in her head, the blood that bathed her face in such profusion having gushed from the mouth.

Wissinger's wound was half way between the top of the head and the right ear.

LETTERS AND OTHER EFFECTS

Found in the Dead Man's Clothing After the Shooting

In the dead man's pockets were found four silver dollars, a half dozen cartridges, a few little trinkets, his working card and several letters.

One letter was from Mrs. Mattie Jones, of South Spring street, this city, expressing no fear of Wissinger's threats to kill her and saying that she had tried to get Mrs. Wissinger not to apply for a divorce.

There were several letters from the dead man's son, Oscar, of Milwaukee, Oregon. One of them, under the date of March 8, 1892, said: "Mother was a little hasty in applying for divorce. I have written to her concerning it and expect her to withdraw it."

The most interesting letter follows, being to the dead man from his daughter Letitia: "Springfield, O., January 16, 1892. No, we will not accept any money. All we ask of you is to pay your book debts." Beneath this was written with a lead pencil in Wissinger's hand-writing: "All right, I shall remember this. Goodbye. O. Wissinger." And below this evidently also written by Wissinger was: "Oh, my God, what is to become of Henry, Charley and Frank. God only knows. You will all hear from me for this unkind treatment. Homeless and friendless, I wish I were dead. This is past all endurance."

The Family -- The murderer is well known in this city, having been born and raised here, the son of the late Daniel Wissinger and a half-brother of George and Charlie Wissinger and a full brother of John Wissinger, all of this city. Wissinger himself was a tinner by trade. Mrs. Wissinger's maiden name was Sarah Jane Bucklais [sic Brockless]; she was born in London, England. Wissinger married her in La Crosse, Wis., in 1859. He was in his 56th year, and the wife was 50. They had nine children: the four youngest boys, Harry 9, Charlie 11, Frank 16, Will 19, being at home. Will works at the Thomas Manufacturing Company's; two daughters, Letitia and Julia, were away selling medicine, being in Pittsburgh last week; George and Oscar are in Portland, Oregon, and a married daughter, Mrs. Ellen McRoberts, is in McKenzie, Tenn.

Former Trouble -- No man who knew Oscar Wissinger can reasonably doubt that, on one subject at least he was insane. For sixteen years he has regarded his wife with foulest suspicion, and has made against her the blackest charges, and all without a shadow of foundation. Until April the family had resided on East Pleasant street, near Gallagher, where time and again the police were called to quiet the man. Neighbors were frequently compelled to rush in and protect the woman, although with all his threats he never had done violence, until his foul deed of Saturday night. Mrs. Wissinger told neighbors that he always slept with a revolver and a RAZOR AT HIS SIDE and on many occasions she was awakened with the revolver at her head or the razor at her throat. He was in the habit of sneaking about the alley and streets in the vicinity of his residence, constantly watching for someone. The men with whom he would connect the name of his wife, were often entirely unknown to her. The last few months they were together he seemed, for some unaccountable reason, to regard men from Liberty street with especial distrust, and nearly every citizen of that thoroughfare was accused of intimacy, with the broken-hearted woman. His condition had seemed MUCH WORSE since an attack of the grip eighteen months ago. Last fall he turned on the gas while the family was asleep, in an attempt to suffocate them all.

A Divorce -- The general impression has been that Mrs. Wissinger was divorced from her husband. A decree of divorce was granted her on grounds of extreme cruelty on March 28, 1892, but a decree of divorce does not take effect until the costs are paid, which was never done in this case.

Wissinger had been in Indianapolis several months when the divorce was granted, and wrote his wife concerning it, expressing regret. He had not been home since, until Saturday.

HIS FORMER CRIME

Wissinger Coolly Murdered a Doctor Sixteen Years ago.

Wissinger's act Saturday night, was not his first, terrible crime. Sixteen years ago he killed Dr. Chamberlain in La Crosse, Wis., where he was then residing. A La Crosse special to the Chicago Times last February says: "Dr. Chamberlain was one of the most prominent physicians of La Crosse. On December 24, 1876, as he was driving down Main street in a cutter, Wissinger, standing on the corner, pulled up a double-barrel shotgun and let the doctor have the contents of both barrels, killing him instantly. Wissinger then drew a revolver and put a bullet in his own brain, but the would did not prove fatal, and he stood trial. He claimed in court that the physician had been improperly intimate with Mrs. Wissinger, but there was not the slightest evidence to sustain the charge. While on trial Wissinger was MADE A HERO of by women of the place, who petted him and admired him, and sent him flowers. Sympathy was aroused for the prisoner, and the result was he was acquitted. A La Crosse newspaper man, R.F. Howard, who roundly scored the women and the jury, narrowly escaped lynching at the hands of a mob."

To people in Springfield Mrs. Wissinger had said that she didn't even know Dr. Chamberlain. The acquittal was on the grounds of insanity, but the trial, it is said, cost the family about $5,000. After the affair was over the family returned to this city, where they have since resided, excepting a short time at Urbana.

The Excitement -- The report of the tragedy quickly spread in the immediate neighborhood, and soon the house was quickly surrounded by hundreds in intense excitement, and the officers had considerable difficulty in keeping the crowd back.

The poor children were besides themselves. Officer Marshall says, when he entered the room with Will, the oldest boy at home, after the killing, the young fellow, in his intense excitement, kicked his father's corpse, entirely unconscious of what he was doing.

Officers Lawless and Gregory were detailed to remain at the house all night. An officer was kept on duty all day yesterday, keeping out of the yard the hundreds of morbid CURIOSITY-SEEKERS that visited the place. The two younger boys were taken care of Saturday night by Mrs. L.F. Dieter. Yesterday, they were taken to their Uncle Charlies' residence.

Navigation Company and built the Mount Hood hotel. Though he erected a large three-story structure it soon became inadequate to the needs of the traveling public and in 1913 he built a three-story brick annex extending through to Oak street, the business thoroughfare, the annex being one hundred by one hundred feet in dimensions. The hotel now contains one hundred and fifty rooms and is thoroughly modern in every department, giving to the public the highest standards of hotel service.

In 1889 Mr. Bell was married in Pendleton, Oregon, to Miss Rosanna E. Young, also a native of New Brunswick. She passed away in 1896, leaving a son, Frederick, who is now assisting his father in the conduct and management of the hotel. The son is a veteran of the World war, having enlisted early in the struggle. In September, 1917, he was sent for training to Boise, Idaho, becoming a member of the Twenty-second Infantry. Later he was sent to Camp Greene, where he was assigned to the One Hundred and Forty-sixth Regiment of the Sixty-sixth Field Artillery Brigade, and in December of the same year went to France, serving in that country and in Belgium until the armistice was signed. He then went into Germany with the army of occupation and returning to America in July, 1919, was demobilized. Mr. Bell was again married in 1907, when Miss Ola M. Stryker, a native daughter of Oregon, became his wife. Her father, Dr. D. S. Stryker, had crossed the plains with an ox cart in pioneer times long prior to the building of railroads. He was for many years a practicing physician of Portland and had been a California pioneer before he went to the east and married. The Stryker family has been represented on American soil from 1620, when Herman Von Stryker came to the new world from Holland and settled at New Amsterdam, New York. Later representatives of the family "moved up state" and established the town of Strykersville, New York. Various representatives of the family served with the American forces in the Revolutionary war and in the War of 1812. Dr. George Stryker of Everett, Washington; Dr. S. W. Stryker of Portland; Dr. Rey S. Stryker, who was graduated at Northwestern University at Evanston, Illinois; and Guy Q. Stryker of Hubbard, Oregon, are brothers of Mrs. Bell. Mrs. George Wissinger resides in Milwaukie, Oregon, and is in educational work. The family were all undergraduates of Willamette University at Salem, Oregon. Mrs. Bell possesses the same spirit of courage that served her father in his trips across the plains. She was for many years the manager of the Y. W. C. A. tea room in Portland and is largely responsible for the splendid culinary arrangement of the present Y. W. C. A. tea and lunch rooms in that city.

Mr. Bell was married in 1889, at Pendleton, Oregon, to Miss Roselle Young, who was born at Taymouth, New Brunswick, Canada, and who died in 1896, leaving a son, Fred H., who was educated in the grade and high schools of Hood River and Hill Military Academy at Portland. When the United States entered the World war he enlisted for service in the artillery of the Forty-first Division, of Idaho Volunteers, was sent overseas in 1917 and served in France until the close of the war, after which he spent six months with the Army of Occupation in Germany. He is a member of Hood River post of the American Legion of which he was commander in 1921, as well as the Ancient Free and Accepted Masons and the Knights of Pythias at Hood River. On November 19, 1907, Mr. Bell was married to Miss Ola M. Stryker, who was born in Brownsville, Linn county, Oregon, and is a daughter of Dr. David S. and Celia M. Stryker. Her father, who had received the degree of Doctor of Medicine from the Scudder Medical College, at Cincinnati, Ohio, came to Oregon in 1862, making the journey across the plains with ox teams and covered wagon, and wintered at Boise, Idaho. He brought with him mining machinery and the equipment for a gristmill, all of which he sold in Boise, and in 1864 came on to Linn county, Oregon. Locating first at Brownsville, he practiced medicine there for several years and in 1871 located at Dayton, Washington, being there during the Indian troubles. Later he moved to Portland, Oregon, where he continued the practice of his profession to the time of his death, which occurred in 1899. His wife passed away in 1883. To them were born six children, as follows: Dr. Stanton, who was a prominent physician in Portland, was accidentally killed while climbing Mt. Hood, July 17, 1927; Mrs. Ola M. Bell; Dr. George, who lives in California; Guy, of Portland, Oregon; Ray, who is a practicing dentist in Los Angeles, California, and Mrs. George Wissinger, of Milwaukie, Oregon. All of these children were educated in Willamette University, at Salem. Dr. Stryker was a prominent member of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows. Since her husband's death, Mrs. Bell and her stepson, Fred H. Bell, are continuing the operation of the Mt. Hood Hotel, which ranks among the leading hotels of this part of the state and has become a favorite stopping place for the many tourists who annually visit this section of the country.

Note: It is not clear who this Mrs. George (Bell) Wissinger is.

Franklin Wissinger - Ferncliff

Very interesting situation - I checked with the cemetery office. Franklin is unmarked due to rights of second interment. Franklin died in 1920. Harold was buried on top of him in 1948 - only one is allowed a marked. Also on the plot map Catherine is not marked, However she does have a marker and is between Henry and Harold. I will include the plot map.

Last Repair Job

F. T. Wissinger Retires from D. T. and I.
Machinist End 44-year Task with Line

F. T. Wissinger, machinist, climbed nimbly, for all of his 65 years, to the front of a locomotive of the D. T. and I. Railroad, looked back over 44 years of keeping those engines fit. He retired Saturday night.

F. T. Wissinger, oldest employee (in point of service) of the D. T. and I. Railroad from the Ohio River to Lake Michigan, isn't afraid to retire. Having worked variously as machinist and general foreman of the roundhouse in Springfield since 1898, he says, "I have it coming to me, and I'm taking it." Neither is the lean and fairly tall machinist going sentimental at 65. With the best wishes of his companions at work, with a life-long railroad pass for himself and his wife, he has turned his back upon the roundhouse where he worked for 44 straight years. He isn't going to haunt the place now; he worked when he worked. So many of those 44 years were spent in night work, keeping the locomotives in running order, that "First of all, I'm going to take a satisfying look at this city where I was born and where I have lived. I haven't seen much of it."

Here he has lived for 41 years at 1032 Maiden Lane, and not all of the neighbors know F. T. because he has done one thing well - and that is to be a solicitous nurse-maid to every locomotive that put into the roundhouse for check-up, repairs, or replacements. He has, in 44 years, seen the locomotive and tender increase in such size that now the tender is so long as both together were in 1900. The changes that he remembers include these: From col oil lights on the locomotive to electricity, from steam jams (for braking power) to all air equipment; from hand fueling to stoker feeding. Even while F. T. has been F. T. for 65 years, the railroad changed its name three times: From the Ohio Southern to the Lima Northern and then to the Detroit, Toledo and Ironton. He has seen ownership changes, too, including complete ownership by Henry Ford to present ownership by the Penn Road holding company.

F. T. retired when his date came __: Midnight, Saturday, "Now, I'm going to do some hunting and fishing," he said, laying down a heavy wrench and taking some waste to remove oil. On annual vacation _____ he has enjoyed trips on the D. T. and I. at the river terminal in Detroit. His vacations have been divided between river and lake. He says he has never encouraged his three sons, Roger, Ralph and Paul, to become railroaders, and they haven't. In the office of the roundhouse, after F. T. had gone to the last hour's work of the last day on the old job, his co-workers expressed regret that he was to leave. "We will miss him," they said, "because he's a real machinist and a fine fellow." They remember hot nights when they saw his dark figure working against the side of a hot, panting locomotive, and the nights of blizzards when locomotives came into the roundhouse all frosted, and all this time F. T. was making the locomotives safe to roll fast around the bends of southern Ohio hills and safe to punish on the straight lines in the lake country. "We hate to see him go," they said, "but he deserves it, F. T. does."

Mohave, Arizona, USA (at home).

Notes for LeRoy E. 'Lew' Wissinger:

Autobiography - LeRoy Wissinger - 4/6/2005

http://www.zoominfo.com/people/Wissinger\_Leroy\_1071429734.aspx

Three score and fifteen years ago, LeRoy was born in Tacoma, Washington. While in High School at Fife High in Tacoma, LeRoy met and married his high school sweetheart, Mary Ann. After graduating high school, LeRoy went to Western Washington State University where he obtained his BA in Education. LeRoy continued his education doing his graduate work at Northern Arizona University in Flagstaff, Arizona.

LeRoy spent fourteen years teaching shop and math. Leroy also taught for three years at Mohave Community College, teaching the contemporary subject of Solar Energy. LeRoy has been involved in all aspects of the real estate industry all of his life. From being a builder, to remodeling, to being a licensed, fully accredited contractor, LeRoy continued his education studying real estate at the Arizona School of Real Estate, acquiring his Real Estate License nearly a quarter of a century ago. After being a real estate agent, LeRoy became a Real Estate Broker. Along with his lovely wife, Mary Ann, LeRoy opened the family owned business of Eagle Realty many years ago.

LeRoy, along with his one, and only love, and true soul mate for over fifty-four years, Mary Ann, relocated to Kingman over three decades ago. LeRoy and Mary Ann had three adorable, precocious children, Wayne, Arlene, and Lloyd. One of the saddest moments in their lives was when they lost their beloved son, Lloyd. Lloyd is in their thoughts daily and a special place was etched in their hearts for this extraordinary Son.

LeRoy enjoys hunting and fishing and has a very green thumb. LeRoy's vegetables happen to be quite succulent, and his homegrown fruit is so sweet and luscious that LeRoy would have made an exceptional farmer had he opted to do so. Although, had LeRoy decided to make farming his life's vocation, the real estate industry would have suffered by the absence of this multi-talented businessman.

LeRoy and Mary Ann enjoy vacationing at any historical site in the United States. They have visited many of the thousands, upon thousands of historical sites that dot the landscape of this majestic, alluring country, America. LeRoy and Mary Ann long to attend the many U.S. Navy ship reunions that are held on the East Coast of the United States each year.

LeRoy and Mary Ann opened Eagle Realty with their main goal being, the helping of all the inhabitants of Mohave County. Kingman is home to the Wissinger's and as home, the Wissinger's formed a company, Eagle Realty, using the same formula that has made the Wissinger Family a close nit, caring, look out for one another, help their neighbor code of ethics. The Wissinger's run Eagle Realty as a family business. Each and every agent is part of this extended family. LeRoy meets, treats, and trains each new agent as he would if that agent was a family member. It is with kind of dedication that makes Eagle Realty stand out among all other businesses in this field. All agents of Eagle Realty not only receive the expertise of LeRoy, but that of his son, Wayne, as well. Both men are accomplished General Contractors and are well versed in any and all characteristics of the construction industry, thereby, giving all of Eagle Realty's Agents an added advantage in the real estate industry. Selling a home is one thing, knowing the complexities of its construction is another; Eagle Realty Agents have the benefit of both. With LeRoy at the helm of this, vigilant, ethical, well-built, intelligent flagship, The SS Eagle Realty, each client is assured a safe journey as they navigate their way into the home of their dreams.

Byron has been a clerk, a restaurant manager, and a legal secretary, but after speaking to Leroy Wissinger, the founder of Eagle Realty, and Lana Johnson, a supreme agent with Eagle Realty, decide to tackle the Real Estate Industry as a vocation.

Sealed with a kiss: The Wissinger letters: 92-year-old local veteran recovers letters he wrote

during Korean War

Sitting around the dining room table in Kingman, Korean War veteran LeRoy Wissinger, 92, is surrounded by his children and the forgotten letters he and his family exchanged back and forth around 70 years ago while he was in the Navy.

LeRoy, sporting his USS Alstede, AF 48 sweatshirt, tells his son, Wayne Wissinger, and daughter, Arlene Rush, stories triggered by the letters he recently received in the mail from Bellingham, Washington. The letters were discovered by the Harris family as children, who bought the house from the Wissingers and discovered the letters in the crawl space in the late 1960s.

The letters were correspondence between Leroy his wife, MaryAnn, and family members from 1951-54. They include a letter from his wife that is stained pink and “sealed with a (lipstick) kiss,” birthday and holiday cards, and comic strip clippings.

LeRoy’s life changed when he received his draft notice after picking up the couple’s marriage license. While the two met in grade school in Fife, Washington, they did not start dating until high school. At 20, LeRoy married MaryAnn on Treasure Island, which is outside of San Francisco, California, and then soon set sail on the USS Alstede.

“We had to go talk to the Navy chaplain, and the Navy chaplain told us: ‘I gotta warn you, these military marriages don’t last. And we were married 63 years,” Wissinger said.

He spent his years on the ship which carried food and equipment from Oakland, California to Sasebo, Japan. While he wasn’t in combat, he remembers when his ship got too close behind a battleship. He recalls shells from 16-inch guns hitting the land.

While they don’t deliver mail at sea, LeRoy would receive many letters when his ship returned to the U.S. to pick up more supplies. Each trip from Oakland to Japan took about 14 days.

The Wissinger family is overwhelmed by the number of letters and are reading them randomly before organizing them. LeRoy found the letter from MaryAnn announcing the birth of their first son, Lloyd, and read it to his family 70 years later.

“My dearest husband and daddy ... ,” said LeRoy, reading the letter from April 10, 1952 from MaryAnn during her first days as a new mother.

LeRoy also found letters referring to his brother, - Jim or “Uncle Jimmy” - as Arlene and Wayne called him. Jim, then 17, also served in the war around the same time as LeRoy.

“It’s just been exciting because he’d pick up these and remember first and last names, teachers’ names and I’m like, ‘oh my goodness!’” Arlene said.

Years after returning home from sea, LeRoy and MaryAnn purchased a house in Bellingham in 1960 for $10,000. The couple welcome their third child, Wayne, a week after moving in. Arlene recalls referring to it as the “white house” since it was all white and huge. LeRoy attended a fifth year of college at Western Washington College, now Western Washington University, to get more experience for a higher-paying job.

The hundreds of letters were placed in a crawl space under the house located on 21st Street in Bellingham. MaryAnn’s school photos, a high school graduation certificate and cards were also in the mix of letters. LeRoy and his family moved to a different house in Ferndale, Washington and overlooked the letters nestled in the crawl space.

Heather Harris Ezrre and her sister, Holly Harris, moved into the house as children in the late 1960s. Holly said she and her brother Timothy were “exploring” the crawl space one day when they were kids and discovered a moldy box. That is when the “Wissinger letters” were discovered intact.

“We were always into digging,” Holly said.

While the siblings were little when they discovered the letters, they understood their value.

Heather and Holly, who is now a historian, both said the letters were important to their own family history since they’d been discovered in the house their family had also been raised in.

“We always realized it was important to their family history,” Heather said.

The Wissinger letters remained in storage with the rest of the Harris’ family archives. Heather said the letters became part of their own family history since they aimed to protect the Wissinger family treasures.

“Our family has also been into saving,” Heather said. “They stayed in the archives with our family.”

Due to the amount of letters they only read a few while they had them. However, the one that stood out was the letter from MaryAnn sharing the birth of Lloyd.

While the sisters always wanted to return the letters to the Wissingers, they didn't know how to go about it. It wasn't until they searched for LeRoy on the internet that they found contact information for Eagle Realty, the Wissinger family's company in Kingman. They immediately called the number listed and Wayne answered the phone in disbelief. "She just called the number and I answered," Wayne said.

The Wissingers moved to Lake Havasu City in 1970 and LeRoy took a job teaching woodworking. In 1976 he transferred to Kingman High School to teach in the wood shop. In 1982 he got his real estate license and opened Eagle Realty in 1991, which is now run by Wayne. After moving to Arizona, the family didn't think much about the letters they left in the crawl space. In fact, the entire house they owned in Bellingham was physically moved to a different location to accommodate a new parking lot at Western Washington University.

Once being contacted by Heather, LeRoy and his family were able to dive into the past and remember sweet parts of life during a difficult time.

The letters also let the family share stories about their beloved mother and wife, MaryAnn. LeRoy describes his life and marriage to MaryAnn as "wonderful." MaryAnn passed away in 2014 due to Alzheimer's. She spent the last nine months of her life in her home surrounded by those she loved the most.

"Our family was always fun," Arlene said. "There are problems with every family, but we all had good memories."

LeRoy's kids chuckled and explained how the 92-year old has retired "at least four times," but doesn't like to sit still. The letters covering the dining room table are expected to keep him busy for a while.

"I remember that story, too," the family members repeatedly said as they shared memories and read the letters allowed.

Jones, Terri
1958 - 2021

In loving memory of Terri Lynn Jones, 62, of Columbus, Ohio who passed away Monday, May 3 after a three-year battle with lung cancer. Terri was born on November 22, 1958 in Springfield, Ohio. She earned her registered nursing degree and spent her career working at Stoneridge Endoscopy before retiring due to her health. She was the daughter of Carol Wissinger and the late Norman Wissinger. She leaves behind her husband Robert Jones, who she married on February, 15, 2003, her children, Ryan Schobert and Morgan (Matthew) Rettig, and her two grandchildren Eli and Emery Rettig. In addition, her brother Kennon (Traci) Wissinger, her two nephews Brandon and Corey (Maggie) Wissinger, her Uncle Alan (Debbie) Marshall and first cousins. As well as her two cats, Mowgli and Skippy. Terri had a passion for travel, nature, and animals, especially her many cats throughout the years. She loved planning her adventures with her husband Rob. They spent their vacations hiking, fishing or snorkeling in Minnesota, Hawaii, Alaska, Florida, Canada, and Belize among many other wonderful trips. She also loved to spend her free time at home watching the many animals that frequented her yard and volunteering to help animals in need. She loved going to the movies with her friends and celebrating the holidays. But above all us, she was a loving wife, a proud mother and an adored grandmother, spoiling her grandchildren whenever she could. Her heart was filled with love and compassion and chose to help others over herself. To say she will be greatly missed by her family and friends is an understatement. From: Expeditors Online, Nov 19, 2007 - 9:29:00 AM | By Jeff Jensen, Editor

The subject of this Carrier Profile is the Columbus, Ohio-based Capitol Express. Founded in 1992 by company President Kennon Wissinger, this privately-owned business is actually two corporations: Capitol Express Enterprises is a small package delivery company that is registered for freight under 10,000 pounds and does not require commercial vehicles.

The other operating entity is Capitol Express Freight, Inc. which handles freight over 10,000 lbs. in its straight trucks and has 48 state authority.

Wissinger tells of the early days: "I had left a company called U.S. Check (now Airnet, which handles overnight air freight) and relocated to Cleveland to join a company called Prime Time Delivery (small package P&D to air forwarders) as a 50/50 partner."

"In 1992 I bought out my partner and took over our Columbus operation despite my wife thinking I was crazy to go with a startup. That was the beginning of Capitol Express.

When I started the company, my total gross billing was $250.00 a week. We grossed a thousand dollars for the month of May that first year."

"We added our first satellite office in Dayton, OH. We then opened offices in Cincinnati, Lexington and Louisville." Each of the company's offices and warehouses are staffed on a 24/7 basis.

A significant percentage of the company's shipments are in and out of Canada with Honda Motors freight. Wissinger says that his firm also does a substantial amount of work for 3PL's - third party logistics companies. He says, "The beauty of that is, we have their sales people out there selling our service as well. As they grow, so do we."

As part of Capitol's customer base diversification, the company has replaced its former automotive-related shipments with specialized handling services hauling restaurant equipment, medical equipment and other high-value freight. This requires trucks equipped with lift gates, dollies, pads, etc.

Capitol Express utilizes a 100% owner-operator fleet of cargo vans, Sprinter vans, cube vans and 24-foot straight trucks. Dispatch is by load-requirement. The company's software package is connected to the drivers' Nextel phones.

The president comments on the qualities of the successful Capitol Express owner-operator: "He's got to have the right equipment; a truck with a liftgate, 102"x102" box, etc. If a driver never has to turn down a load because of size or lack of equipment, that's a big plus."

"Availability is a key issue as well. If a driver has the hours to run, he should let dispatch know that he's ready to go because we have freight coming in during the day and evening hours. If he's ready to work, a driver can generate very good revenue. As soon as the driver has regained his hours, we usually need him."

Chuck King, Capitol Express Freight Manager, has been with the company for two and a half years and says, "We're not your typical expeditor, but we're not just a local P&D company either.

"Having a diversity of freight opportunities enables us to offer a variety of experiences and working environments, so if a driver is looking for a change of scenery in terms of the kind of work he does, along with more home time, our company is very appealing."

He continues, "Obviously, we're looking for motivated people and one personality trait that we see in our people is that sense of motivation; they're not just motivated to make good money, but they understand that this is a team effort."

"Our drivers are our representatives and our presence out there and they're very sensitive to that. They all carry a pocketful of business cards and they're probably one of our best sources of sales leads! They're an integral part of our success and we like to make sure we take good care of them."

King adds, "We offer a lot of the advantages that you can find with a smaller company because there's more intimacy - you know the people you're working for."

"It's easier to build a team attitude because you're a name, not a number."

"We had a record year last year and we're headed for another one this year. There are certain market niches that we fit very well, our customers recognize that and they've rewarded us with more business."

"What separates Capitol Express from other carriers is the personal contact and the minimal length of time it takes to have an issue resolved. We take a very hands-on approach here and management is always available. Our attention to detail is very important to our employees and drivers."
