Notes for Johann Michael Weissinger:

From: Ortssippenbuch for Tailfingen, Württemberg, Germany - Family #1813 - by Prof. Dr. Burkhart Oertel

Johann Michael Weissinger (day laborer and assessor, s/o Michael Weissinger, (farmer in Riut) married in Tailfingen on 25 Oct 1729 Barbara Shurer (born 4 Feb 1704 in Tailfingen). Their children born in Tailfingen: 1. Justina born 29 Nov 1729, died 7 May 1731; 2. Justina Catharine born 24 Jun 1729 (Obviously the above 2 birthdates don't work; theory is: Justina Catharine born 24 Jun 1729 her parents married 25 Oct 1729, she was baptized 29 Nov 1729, she died 7 May 1731); 3. Catharina born 28 Dec 1734 (Friedrich Walter and Catharine were sponsors at the 1790 baptism of Catharine d/o Michael & Elizabeth Walter); 4. Johann Michael born 23 Nov 1736, died 7 May 1739; 5. Melchior born 13 May 1740, died 4 Jan 174; 6. Melchior born 27 Mar 1742 (this date works much better). His death entry (from other hand-writing on the page) is very likely showing him 78 and 1 month, making it one year off, also his 1763 confirmation shows he is over 21); and 7. Johann Michael born 10 Feb 1745.

Note: The Wissinger Genealogy by Dr. Donald O. Wissinger shows that Melchior Wissinger was the eldest son of the immigrant Johann Ludwig Wissinger. Based on the data found in the "Ortssippenbuch for Tailfingen, Württemberg, Germany" by Prof. Dr. Burkhardt Oertel, on family #1813 (Johann Michael Weissinger), this has been proven to be incorrect.

The Records of St. Michaelis and Zion Congregation of Philadelphia

Source: http://freepages.genealogy.rootsweb.com/~foulkrod/st\_michaelis.htm

Pennsylvania German Church Records. Vol. I. (Baltimore: Genealogical Publishing Co., 1983), pp. 486-490. Reproduced on Brøderbund Software's Family Archive CD #130 (Family History: Pennsylvania German Church Records, 1729-1870).

"Among the early church records of Pennsylvania, none, with the possible exception of Christ church, are more interesting, or of greater value to the historical student and genealogist, than those of German Lutheran congregation of the city of Philadelphia, as they afford us an insight into the history, trials, and struggles of the great part of the Germans who settled or sojourned in or near the capitol of the Province.

Many names are here recorded which are not to be found elsewhere, except possibly among the lists of arrivals, published by the State, and which in many cases are vague and unsatisfactory. Here we find in many instances the record and condition of the emigrant, whose descendants in some cases occupy positions of high honor in the community.

A careful analysis of these entries will show us, amongst these early pioneers, the names of many who, though doubtless in comparatively humble circumstances, were yet of sterling worth, and of many others who might have boasted an honorable family descent had they seen fit to do so, but whatever their rank, station or means, all came with one purpose, not on commercial speculation, but with the avowed intention of founding in the western world a home for themselves and posterity.

How well they did this, and the proud position occupied at the present day by many of their descendants, is a matter of history, acknowledged by all writers except such as are hopelessly blinded by sectional prejudice or ignorance, or perhaps both.

The present record, brought to your notice, commencing with the year 1745, in the careful systematic hand of Pastor Mühlenberg, is unfortunately not the oldest record of the Philadelphia congregation. There are still two other books relating to the German Evangelical Lutheran congregation in Philadelphia, which date back to 1733. One of these commenced by Pastor J. C. Stoever, is a list of communicants from 1733-1741, giving also the receipts and expenditures of the congregation, and it is now in possession of the Historical Society of Pennsylvania. The other one, a record giving a list of baptisms prior to 1742, was still in possession of the congregation at the time of its centennial celebration in 1843. This fact is substantiated by a memorandum by the father of the present writer, who was then in the corporation or vestry. This book cannot now be found, and does not appear to be in Possession of the Zion congregation. However, it is hoped that it may yet be brought to light.

The Philadelphia congregation, after its re-organization by Pastor Mühlenberg in 1743, was known as the German Ev. Luth. St. Michaelis congregation, until the building of the large church at the corner of Fourth and Cherry streets, in 1766, when the corporate title became The German Lutheran Congregation in and near the City of Philadelphia in the Province of Pennsylvania.

The parent (St. Michaelis) church stood at the North-East corner of Fifth Street and Apple Tree Alley, a small thorough-fare north of Arch street, a location at that time well out of town. The lot extended northwards to Cherry (Alley) Street, and was used for burial purposes. This was known as Der St. Michaelis Kirchhof, where such members were buried as could afford to pay for their graves; the poorer ones found a resting place in den Allgemeinen Kirchhof as it is called in the old records (Pastor's Field). The site of this "General Burying Ground" of days gone by is now the beautiful Washington Square, in the very heart of Philadelphia, a spot still covered by soft green sward, while the three consecrated God's Acres (1) of the congregation, as well as the sites of the two historic churches, have been obliterated, and the ground covered by commercial establishments.

In comparing the various entries, one is struck with the great mortality among the young children of the Germans in the early days of our Province. As an illustration, during the year 1769, 340 children were baptized. The same record shows 211 burials, the majority of which were children under one year old. This infant mortality was not the least of the trials endured by the early pioneers (2).

As a curious custom of the times, the writer will mention that the pastors who died during their incumbency were buried within the church, in front of the altar, while such of their children or family who died were buried within the vestibules.

The records here presented have been carefully copied, collated and arranged, and when complete will prove a valuable addition to the history of our Commonwealth."

JULIUS F. SACHSE.

1 The grave-yard beside the church served the congregation until 1759, about seven hundred human bodies having been buried within that small space. In the latter year another piece of land was bought upon the opposite side of Cherry street. This is now covered by Horstmann's factory. In this small piece of ground, over twenty-five hundred human bodies were interred within the next sixteen years. The third or large grave-yard, between Race and Vine and Eighth and Franklin streets, was purchased in 1776, and served the congregation until about the year 1866, when the ground was sold and used for commercial purposes. The present Zion church is built upon a part of this ground.

2 The same condition is shown by the Moravian records.

He was a wire-worker by trade, vented his genius in the back room of his lower story, and exhibited its fruits in bird-cages, sieves, etc., at the front window and door, where a review shows up the old gentlement in his porch, resting and supporting one of his legs - unbent and unbending from a white-swelling in his yough - foindling and joking with the youth of the neighborhood as they came within his call,

From Melanie Thurmond:

To begin, our Family has known for some time that Wilhelm Gottfried Weissinger was a Lutheran Pastor. Our relatives in Kentucky still have a "Half-Fare Train Pass" used by Wilhelm, as he traveled from one town to another. Recently, I came upon some information on the Web, presented by Wikipedia, the free Encyclopedia. The article provides information about Hanover Lutheran Church in Cape Girardeau, Missouri. Specifically, their "Early Beginnings" on through to the "Present". It speaks of how the German immigrants settled in Missouri and established the Evangelical-Lutheran Church of Hanover. It goes on to tell of its location on which it stands, how the Church was initially constructed as a Log Cabin, and includes multiple sketches of the church and current photos as it progressed along through history. Further, that on September 14, 1887, Hanover's 2nd Church building was listed under the U.S. National Register of Historic Places. The Hanover Lutheran Church is one of only a few to survive the passage of time. The article then lists in Date Order, the Names of Pastors and the periods in which they served. Our relative, Pastor Wilhelm Gottfried Weissinger, is (6th) on this list and Served between 1869-1870 at this location. * Wikipedia also lists pertinent References and Bibliographies of where this information was compiled. Thank you Wikipedia, you have added some more information about our Family History and its Early Beginnings. By: M. Thurmond

Notes for Paul H. Weissinger:

The Southeast Missourian

Cape Girardeau MO

Sept. 29, 1932 page 1

Paul H. Weissinger, 62 years old, a retired farmer, died at 8 o'clock Wednesday night at Southeast Missouri Hospital three hours after he fell from a farm wagon near his home on the Perryville Road, three miles northwest of Cape Girardeau. Appearing not to have been badly injured at first, it was believed Mr. Weissinger had suffered only a bruised right shoulder and head. However, after going to his home he felt worse and was removed to the hospital, where he lapsed into unconsciousness an hour before his death. The attending physician said that death was caused by a hemorrhage at the base of the brain, apparently caused by the rupture of a blood vessel resulting from the shock of the fall.

Mr. Weissinger and his wife had been engaged in moving their household furnishings from their farm home to a dwelling on North Pacific street, where they planned to live. Both had helped in the moving during the day and had returned to the farm house in the late afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Weissinger and a son, Roland, who with his wife are occupying the farm home, were hauling away some rubbish to a dumping ground on the Perryville Road. Mr. Weissinger had picked up a paper box filled with tin cans and was standing in the rear of the wagon. It was thought the rattle of the cans startled the team of horses hitched to the wagon and they gave a lurch, throwing the elder man out of the vehicle over the rear end gate.

His right shoulder and head struck the ground and he was temporarily dazed. Mrs. Weissinger and her son helped Mr. Weissinger in the wagon and he was taken back to the farm dwelling. He remarked that he did not believe he was injured to any extent, but after he began feeling badly was removed to the hospital. When he first reached the hospital, Mr. Weissinger was able to talk, but complained of pains over his entire body. Shortly, however, he became violently sick and lapsed into unconsciousness.

Although his heart was near normal, physicians said that he did not breathe at all after he became unconscious and he was kept alive for an hour through artificial respiration. City Fireman Roy Smith and Glenn Eakers, the latter of the Missouri Utilities Co., worked with him, applying resuscitation methods, but were unsuccessful in their efforts to restore life. A pulmator was secured from the utilities company, but could not be used.

Examination revealed that Mr. Weissinger sustained a fractured right collarbone, but this was the only injury apparent. X-ray pictures did not show either a fracture of the skull or of the spinal column, and no external bruises were apparent.

The attending physician said that it was apparent that the shock from the fall ruptured a blood vessel at the base of the brain, this occurring infrequently in a man of his age. Such an injury might not have any serious effects for some time, it was pointed out.

Mr. Weissinger was born and reared near the place where he spent all of his life farming. He was a member of Hanover Lutheran Church on the Perryville Road and a devoted member of the congregation.

Besides his widow, Mr. Weissinger is survived by a son, Roland, who was recently married and had taken over the farm home upon his father's retirement. Two daughters also survive. They are Mrs. E. O. Happel, wife of the proprietor of the Model Grocery at 701 Broadway, and Miss Theckla Weissinger, who resides with her parents. Another son, Oscar, died several years ago.

The body was removed to the Brinkopf-Howell Funeral Home and will be taken to the family home on the Perryville Road Friday morning, where it will remain until time for the funeral. Services will be held at 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the home and at 1:30 o'clock at Hanover Lutheran Church. Rev. Wm. Wittrock, pastor, will have charge and burial will be in Hanover cemetery.
