—Season tickets with reserved seats for the remainder of the season only $2.00.
—Winter sure. The boys were skating on the Oil-mill pond Wednesday morning.
—Post-office hours to-day are from 9 to 11:15 A. M., and from 2:30 to 5:45 P. M.
—The imports of potatoes into New York city the 11th of Nov. amounted to $21,298.
—The Young People's Association, had a very enjoyable meeting last Thursday evening.
—About an inch of snow fell on Saturday night last. The first of the season of any moment.
—Father J. J. McDonald, of Waterville, has gone to Niagara Falls. Will be gone about two weeks.
—Mr. John Downey and Miss Marie Doherty were married Sunday at the Catholic Church.
—C. E. Bigelow and wife, of Utica, will spend Thanksgiving with Mrs. Wm. Winfield.
—Seen Secretary of Treasury Folger's signature on a $10 note yet? Neither have we.
—Union Thanksgiving service will be held to-day at 11 A. M. in the Presbyterian Church. Rev. James Coote will preach.
—A colored barber in the employ of C. W. Robinson was arrested and taken to Pooleville last Monday, charged by his wife with non-support.
—Members of the Union School will be admitted to Miss Rankin's Readings and Recitations, Friday evening, for twenty five cents.
—The Union School and Academy, will take a Thanksgiving recess from Wednesday to Monday. They had no recess election day.
—On the first page will be found W. A. Lawrence's paper, and Amos O. Osborn's remarks on the water-works question.
—Tax Collector Stebbins reports that he had collected $2,100 Tuesday night, out of $3,500. After Friday 5 per cent. will be added for collection.
—The primary and junior scholars of the Union School annex, will have a Christmas festival at the Opera House, December 23, and render the operetta "Magie Pen."
—Jap Easton has a new advertisement in this issue, and calls particular attention to his stock of opera glasses. They make very acceptable Holiday presents.
—Supervisor Bigelow reports the bonded debt of Sangerfield to be $15,000, with interest from April 1, and that the commissioners hold bonds for the amount.
—Miss Seelinda Bennett, died Nov. 18, 1881, aged 63 years and 11 days. The funeral was held Sunday at 2 P. M., at the residence of Dudley Bennett, her brother.
—At the regents' examinations held in the academy, 84 per cent. of those entering passed the higher examinations; but in the preliminary, 43 per cent. only were successful.
—From what the Utica Dry Goods store says in another column, we judge we shall have all the wonders of fairy land in the paper next week. But perhaps we can persuade friend Webb to exhibit them at the store instead.
—In another column Sherwood & Golden of Utica, call the attention of our readers to their mammoth stock of goods. This is the largest crockery firm in Central New York. View their magnificent goods at the first opportunity.
—The Board of Supervisors of Onondaga County began its annual session in Utica on last Wednesday. All the members but one, Mr. Strogo, were present. Robert W. Evans, of Kirkland, was elected Chairman of the board, and B. I. Waldo, of Western, obtained the position of Clerk. Robert Edwards, of Utica, was chosen Treasurer. Mr. H. C. Cramet, of Verona, Sealer of Weights and Measures, and Thomas N. Mooney, of Utica, Reading Clerk.
—Last week we broke off rather suddenly on the Utica report, as it was overlooked in making up. By so doing we failed to mention the best part of the program. Here it is. Pres. Cutting said he had received a communication from the President of the village, and that the trustees were looking up the legal points on establishing a board of health, and would make a report to the Utica town meeting.
—Dr. Wilson said he believed something had been done toward clearing up the matter, for the purpose of allowing clerks and merchants to attend. Mrs. P. L. Cornell rendered the "Whispering of Birds" on the piano, and it did seem as though the birds were twittering indeed. The greatest part of the course of the evening was a vocal solo, "Birding" by Mrs. J. N. Hayes, now of Utica, to whom singing Waterville people are always only too happy to listen. She received loud applause.

—Service and sermon at Grace Church on Thanksgiving day at 10 o'clock A. M.
—Deaths of George Curtis.—Last Friday morning the many friends of George Curtis, were startled to learn of his death, which occurred about 6 A. M., of typhoid fever. Mr. Curtis was a young man much liked by all who knew him. Of a happy and social disposition, he made friends easily, and though he had lived in Waterville but 4 years, everyone was George's friend. Mr. Curtis was well informed, and had kept books and other business, he had a good business education. He had been sick only about two weeks and in that sickness suffered much, but he never complained. The funeral was held at the residence of his father last Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. Rev. James Coote officiating. His body was taken to Pooleville for interment. This was a hard case for Mrs. Curtis, and they receive much sympathy from their numerous friends.

Johnson's New Universal Cyclopaedia.
Having examined this work with some care, I can testify to its merits. A score of years ago I was in the library of John B. Davis, the distinguished Civil Engineer, (whose great monument is the Custom water works of New York,) and was surprised to find it, largely a collection of Cyclopaedias. I was impressed as never before with the value of Cyclopaedias to a working man in any department of thought or effort. That impression has deepened ever since. Whenever any subject excites curiosity, or from practical or personal pressure demands investigation, as it may relate to any one of a million different things, the need of a book of reference is felt. The daily paper may mention a place, or allude to a topic, on which, at the time, right then and there, you need further and more definite information. The Cyclopaedia, if it is at hand, is really a universal, is appealed to.
Now I do not know a man who is called upon often, or more readily, to express an opinion upon everything which pertains to human affairs and interests, or to locate an event or fact, or where in this world, than the Editor of a metropolitan daily newspaper. His need of hint and help and facts is perpetual, and next to infinite. His sense of what might become distressing, to himself, or to his readers, if he were to attempt to do this, is a constant reminder. We are a great Editor. And he, instructed by his own wants as Editor, planned a Cyclopaedia. He submitted his plan to his friends, the publishers, and his work is the result. Mr. Greeley declared this work is the monument, which his friend Mr. Johnson, has raised to perpetuate his memory.
It is not second even to the Tribune. Mr. Greeley planned the Cyclopaedia. The execution of the plan has devolved upon others. The Editors in chief are Dr. Isaac H. Smith, of Columbia College, and Prof. Gray of Princeton College. They seemed as contributors a grand array of the best names on this Continent. It was their work to secure articles on every subject treated of, from men who were acknowledged authorities in that department.
And this is one of the distinguishing excellencies of the Cyclopaedia. The name of the writer is signed to the article. You have been told to hunt it up, it is there, visible. He has already attained all his eminence, in that very department of which he treats. We know what we are reading, and we feel assured that he will put his best thought in the best form in this, which is a personal testimony on the part of the writer, as well as of himself. We have an authority on the question. It is a living man, not an abstraction, or generalization behind the article. It is a man who is writing, and we are consulting, but Asa Gray on Botany, D. W. Brown on Geology, Bernard on Engineering, Walker on Statistics, Dwight on Law, and through the whole field, we know to whom we are giving our faith, and it is not blind.

On controversial questions, an acknowledged representative of a school, is the authority to any statement made.
The work is fresh. It is new; not a compilation, thick covered by the dust of years. Its origin is in the faithfulness of its authors. It is not a collection of questions of natural science, on which our own age has witnessed the most marvelous advance of all the ages. The work is valuable to a reader, as a reader, and we can locate every town and village in the United States.
It is a biographical dictionary. We can find in it an outline of the life of every man whose name is discussed by the people.
It may be a small matter, but when a man is reading to others, he feels that it is not a trivial or unimportant matter, that by an accident, he is guided to the correct pronunciation, it may be, an unfamiliar term.
Mr. L. W. Fitchell, represents Johnson's Cyclopaedia. He has many of us have one in their homes, and because that opinion has been generally sufficient ground, I am happy to say that Mr. Fitchell is an exception. He is a gentleman. He has studied Cyclopaedias, and he can really instruct and entertain any one in his department of this class of books. I can assure you that if you call upon him, that you will have an opportunity to learn something of importance to you.

Mr. E. D. Dickinson.
Dear Sir: Allow me to say a few words concerning your Upright Parlor Grand. It seems to me that some of the important points in its favor, are its unusual roundness and depth of tone; great evenness of registers, and a touch elastic and pliant. I fancy if the touch was lighter, its grand and crumpled tone would be lost, and consequently, its pure ringing quality. Truly, it is a noble instrument, and deserves a national reputation.
Respectfully yours,
W. APRADOC.

Catarrh poisons the mucous membrane, poisons the blood and vital fluids, poisons the liver and kidneys. From a simple cold to the rotting, sloughing and death of the senses of smell, taste and hearing, Sanford's Radical Cure for Catarrh is supreme. Cures in treatment $1.
Death to rats and vermin, Parsons' Exterminator.
MIRACULOUS CURE.
I will now state that I made a miraculous cure of one of the worst cases of skin disease known. The patient was a man who had suffered for twenty years. His eyes, scalp and nearly his whole body presented a frightful appearance. He had tried the attention of twelve different physicians, who prescribed the best remedies known to the art, but all failed. He was a lady friend—wife—cousin—niece—somebody else's sister, nothing would be more acceptable. These plans are fast taking the lead over all others. Here are a few words from a celebrated physician, who is well known in our midst, and throughout the State:
