FISHING SEASON.

Opens in Indiana June 16 But You Need a License.

Indianapolis, June 7.—Saturday, June 16, marks the start of the open season on game fish in Indiana when Hoosier anglers can resume their attempts to land the big ones that got away before April 30 when the closed season interrupted their sport. The resumption of the fishing season is expected to draw a record breaking number of anglers to the creeks and lakes.

Unless weather conditions before that date should be unfavorable, the reopening of the fishing season should be marked with some real catches and plenty of sport for everyone. Reports from all sections of the state to the department of conservation indicate that the breeding season has been most favorable and that there has been an unusually large natural increase in the number of fish in the lakes and streams.

June 16 marks the open season on large and small-mouth black bass, silver bass, bluegills, crappies, rock-bass, red-eared sunfish, yellow or ring perch, pike perch, and pike or pickerel. The trout fishing season which opened April 1 continues until August 31 while the open season on lake trout extends from Nov. 23 to Oct. 19.

All persons 18 years of age or over must have a license to fish in Indiana, except on their own premises. Resident fishing licenses which also serve as hunting licenses and are good for the calendar year in which they are issued, are sold by county clerks and designated agents at $1. Non-resident fishing licenses are issued through county clerks and agents of the department of conservation at $2.25 for the calendar year.

SECOND VICTIM OF THE BANDITS

Patrolman John Pfaffenberger Died Wednesday Night in Seymour Hospital.

MORE CHARGES FILED

Seymour, June 7.—The slaying of Patrolman John Pfaffenberger, 35, was described to a coroner's jury here today as Jackson county authorities prepared to file a second murder charge against three young bandits who terrorized southern Indiana Monday night.

The suspects, Edward Coffin, 23, Greenfield, Robert Neal, 20, Bloomington, and Lacell "Tobbs" Long, 22, Helmsburg, are being held at New Albany on charges of slaying Deputy Sheriff Harold Amick of Scottsburg.

Pfaffenberger was shot down when he attempted to arrest the youths for driving away from a filling station without paying for gasoline. He died last night in a Seymour hospital.

Amick was killed near Underwood when he attempted to investigate an accident involving the bandit car.

Prosecutor Cullen C. Barnes, directing the coroner's inquest of Pfaffenberger's murder, said warrants for arrest of the three suspects will probably be sworn out today.

Barnes will then confer with Clark county authorities to make arrangements for pressing charges in Jackson county as well as Clark county.

SULLEN INVENTORS.

Rebellion Has Broken Out Among the Deep Thinkers.

(By United Press.) Omaha, Neb., June 7.—The national inventor's congress needed an invention today for soft-soaping sullen members back in line.

Rebellion has broken out among the deep thinkers. For example, right here in Omaha, H. M. Jackson refuses to come down town until the congress adjourns. Jackson, who is opposed to aeronautics, notified his colleagues that he doesn't intend to be seen in the company of inventors who promote man's conquest of the air.

Albert Kleit, of Cleveland, threatened a hunger strike. After 21 years as an inventor, he decided that the machine age, largely brought about by inventors, is wrecking civilization. He will stay in Cleveland.

Other inventors accused William L. Ciolinger, of Fort Worth, of holding out on them. Ciolinger says he has just what the congress needs—a rain-making device to end droughts.

The congress has offered $5,000 for such an invention, but Ciolinger scoffed at such a small bonus. He wants $20,000 deposited in a Fort Worth bank before he will release the gadget. Just to prove that he is willing to make concessions, he offered to let the congress choose its own Fort Worth bank.

Mayor Roy N. Towl, of Omaha, is another claimant to the reward. The mayor has a long-time plan for ending the drought by depending upon water and land conservation. A pond in each pasture and a lake on each farm would solve the problem by aiding rainfall, he said.

But the congress demands an immediate cloudburst. "Hell, that's no invention," chorused skeptical opponents. "That's a theory."

SOAKED FIELDS PLEASE FARMERS

New Hope That Part of the Crops May Be Saved Reported in Northwest.

SOUTHWEST STILL DRY

(By United Press.) Chicago, June 7.—Farmers of large sections of the drought-blighted northwest sloshed through rain soaked fields today with a new hope that at least a portion of devastated crops may be saved.

Widespread rains in the northern corn and wheat belts yesterday were supplemented today by additional general showers and the weather bureau predicted continued unsettled conditions and precipitation at many points.

While a half million farm families hopefully watched the darkened northern skies, however, the southwest still sweltered in a wave of oppressive heat.

Pastures, along with oats, corn and wheat, deteriorated under the southern Illinois, Kansas, Missouri, Oklahoma and Arkansas. Possible showers offered the only hope.

A Department of Agriculture report issued yesterday in Washington declared that drought "conditions will" materially affect the national food supply. The wheat crop will be lower than in 25 years, the report said. It described condition of livestock herds in the northwest as "critical."

Rains yesterday were substantial in the Dakotas, Minnesota, Iowa, Nebraska, and Indiana. At Sioux City, Ia., rain this week has totaled 2.43 inches—equal to precipitation in the preceding three months.

Farmers, busily planting soy beans, sudan grass and similar forage crops in fields where oats and other grains failed and were plowed under, found their principal solace from the rains in the fact that corn, hay and pasture may be revived.

Thousands of head of livestock already have died in barren pastures, while an additional 1,200,000 are slated for slaughter after purchase by the government. Green pastures and a late hay crop would permit breeders, disgruntled by the prices offered by government purchasing agents, to keep the stock for conditioning.

Continues Quite Ill.

Services Will Be Held at the Home in Arcadia Saturday.

Funeral services for Arthur (Pete) Foulke of Arcadia, who committed suicide Wednesday evening at his home, will be conducted privately Saturday afternoon at 2:00 at the home. Rev. R. L. Logan will conduct the services, after which burial will be in the Scherer cemetery southwest of Arcadia.

Prior to the services, the body will lie in state at the home, and friends may call there any time prior to 2:00 o'clock Saturday.

Arthur Foulke was born February 17, 1894 near Bakers Corner, the son of George and Mary Francis (Underwood) Foulke. On April 17, 1920, he was united in marriage to Inez Iva Everman of Russellville.

Soon after their marriage, the couple settled in Arcadia where Mr. Foulke and Elmer Long started the Foulke & Long garage which they have operated since that time.

Surviving besides the grieving widow are one daughter, Helen Foulke, age 12; his mother, Mrs. George Foulke; three sisters, Mrs. Alice Phillips of Sheridan and Mrs. Grace Robbins and Mrs. Sarah Ross of Bakers Corner; and one brother, Alvin Foulke of Cicero.

Mr. Foulke was a member of the Masonic lodge, the West Grove Friends church, and the Arcadia Lions club. Tuesday evening, the deceased was elected to the office of the Lions club, his many friends little dreaming at that time that he was so soon to leave their midst.

The entire town of Arcadia was shocked to hear of Mr. Foulke's rash act, and all were much grieved, as he was a man beloved by all who knew him.
