

Alfreda Walton and Alexander Whitehead had their home where ValCom now stands (3518 S 300 West).

Orson Gygi Company is located on the property once occupied by Ephraim Ruben Walton (son of George).

Emma Letta Walton Warenski and Mary Ann Walton Christy, both daughters of George, owned property on the south side of 3300 South.

So many "Waltons" lived on 3300 South and along 300 West, that this neighborhood was known as "Walton Corners."

The home of James Hyrum Walton stood at the corner of 300 West and 3300 South where this convenience store is now located.
